Synagogue Council of America
110 West 42nd Street
New York 36, N. Y.

Dear Rabbi Davidson:

I read only recently of the resignation of Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum as Executive Director of the Synagogue Council of America. I knew he had been ill for some time and that he had been advised to give greater consideration to his health than he had been. To my surprise I find that his resignation is coupled with his proposed employment or association with the American Jewish Committee.

I realize that a person has to "provide for his own house". However, I am certain that Rabbi Tanenbaum would not leave us for the sole reason that he could be more gainfully employed money-wise in any event. I can understand his leaving us to occupy a pulpit in one of the larger Congregations. But going with the American Jewish Committee makes it appear to me, as in the past, that the Committee has succeeded either in taking over one of our exceptionally fine associates or, as a secular organization, wants to take over the work which very definitely should be the work of a synagogal organization.

I recall on many occasions arguments in the Synagogue Council, sometimes rather heated, because the American Jewish Committee had sought to act as the spokesman for the synagogue or for the Jewish religious community, not concerning itself in any way over the propriety of such intervention or appearance.

Undoubtedly Rabbi Tanenbaum will be in charge of the same work which was part of his function as Executive Director of the Synagogue Council of America and in which work he not only grew in stature but did so much to bring the Council to the position which it occupies today.

I happen to have before me the conference report of the President's Committee on Government Contracts dated October 14, 1960, which incidentally was sent to each person invited to his Religious Leaders Conference of May 1959. The report is entitled "Faiths: Joined for Action."

Rabbi Max D. Davidson

The vice chairmen of this Religious Advisory Council were:

Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum
Executive Director
Synagogue Council of America
New York, New York

Dr. J. Oscar Lee
Executive Director
Department of Racial and Cultural Relations
National Council of Churches of Christ in the U. S. A.
New York, New York

The Reverend John F. Cronin, S. S.
Assistant Director
National Catholic Welfare Conference
Washington, D. C.

I should feel very badly indeed if on any governmental religious committee or council or similar body the representative of our religious bodies was Rabbi Tanenbaum, not acting on behalf of a synagogal body such as the Synagogue Council of America but as a representative of and acting on behalf of the secular organization, the American Jewish Committee, in the same field of religious action as when acting for the Synagogue Council.

The representatives of the other religious groups who were present on the occasion above referred to acted for and on behalf of, in the case of the Protestant bodies, the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U. S. A., and for the Catholic Church, the National Catholic Welfare Conference, and of course our Rabbi Tanenbaum for and on behalf of the Jewish Religious Entity.

Perhaps it is not too late to suggest that Rabbi Tanenbaum continue with the Synagogue Council of America but because of his physical condition that we obtain an assistant for him, or perhaps if the American Jewish Committee is so concerned with the representation by Rabbi Tanenbaum in the field in which he has done so much for our religious bodies, that it either make a grant to the Council to permit of the employment of an assistant to Rabbi Tanenbaum to do the more strenuous work or that some plan of joint association be worked out to meet the situation.

I should like to have this letter read at the next plenary session of the Council.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

C

RELIGIOUS LEADERS IN TRIBUTE

TO RABBI MARC H. TANENBAUM

More than one hundred friends and associates joined in a testimonial dinner last night (Tuesday, March 7) to Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum, former executive director of the Synagogue Council of America, at the Olcott Hotel, 27 West 72 Street.

Rabbi Tanenbaum has left the Council to take the post of director of the Department of Inter-Religious Affairs at the American Jewish Committee. Dr. Robert Nach, an officer of the Council, and dinner chairman, presided.

Highlight of the evening was the presentation of a hand-lettered, illuminated scroll by Rabbi Max D. Davidson of Perth Amboy, N.J., SCA President, expressing the appreciation of the organization for Rabbi Tanenbaum's "outstanding leadership and devotion" during the seven years of his incumbency.

"As executive director, 1953 - 1961, he has set a high standard of achievement," the scroll read. "His stewardship of the Council has been marked by consummate statesmanship and his contribution to its growth has been without parallel in the organization's history."

"He has enhanced the name and prestige of the Synagogue Council in his work with U.S. Government agencies, the White House, the United Nations and the Protestant and Catholic communities," Rabbi Davidson declared.

Other speakers were: Rabbi Abraham J. Feldman and Rabbi Theodore L. Adams, past presidents of the Council; Dr. Abraham J. Heschel, Professor of Ethics and Mysticism at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. Rabbi Uri Miller, SCA vice president, delivered the invocation.

In response to the many laudatory comments, Rabbi Tanenbaum expressed his regret at leaving the Synagogue Council and stated that "Only the unusual opportunity for self-growth through serious study and writing" could overcome his reluctance to leave the Council.

The speakers were lavish in their praise of the former executive director, crediting his "vision, talents and devotion" with transforming the organization into "a vital force in American and Jewish life."

Messages were received from leaders of the Roman Catholic and Protestant communities, from Government and United Nations officials and from outstanding leaders of the Jewish community.

The Synagogue Council of America is the coordinating agency of the rabbinical and congregational organizations of Orthodox, Conservative and Reform Judaism. The Council comprises the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America, the United Synagogue of America, the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, the Rabbinical Council of America, the Rabbinical Assembly of America, and the Central Conference of American Rabbis.

CABLE ADDRESS: "SEMINARY" NEW YORK

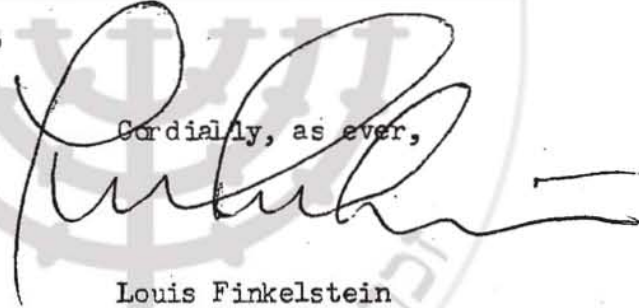

December 27, 1960

Dear Marc,

Now that news of your appointment as Director of Inter-Religious Activities of the American Jewish Committee has been made public, I want to send you my congratulations and best wishes, as well as those of my other colleagues at the Seminary, for your success in this new undertaking. I know that in your new post you will bring to bear the same talents and blessed influence for good that you have demonstrated in your work at the Synagogue Council of America. Our best wishes are with you and the hope that you will have many years ahead of you in which to perform your worthy work.

With warmest regards,

Cordially, as ever,

Guests of honor at the Mass will include the 165th Infantry, N. Y. N. G. (the Old New York 69th), the Consul General of Ireland, and officers of various Irish societies in New York. As the Regiment marches up Fifth ave. to the Cathedral, the Regiment Band will play "Garryowen."

The Patrician Year, marking the 1500th anniversary of the death of St. Patrick, will be celebrated at the Carmelite Church, 339 E. 28th st., with a Triduum, honoring Our Lady of Knock and St. Patrick.

Services in both English and Gaelic start Tuesday and continue until Thursday at 12:10 with Mass and at 8 p.m. The annual novena in honor of St. Joseph and St. Therese begins tomorrow at the Carmelite Church, with devotions at 4 and 8 p.m. Daily services will be at 12:10 with Mass and at 8 p.m.

A Triduum, hailing both St. Joseph and St. Patrick, starts Wednesday at St. Francis of Assisi Church, 135 W. 31st st. Rev. Paul Feely, O.F.M., of the Franciscan Mission Band, will preach at services after the 8, 11:15 and 12:15 Masses and also at 5:15 and 7:30 pm.

The Thirteen Tuesday Novena to St. Anthony of Padua begins this Tuesday at the Franciscan Fathers Church of St. Anthony of Padua, Sullivan st., corner W. Houston st.

HONORED . . . Rabbi Marc H. Tannenbaum, former executive director of the Synagogue Council of America, was honored this week for his work with the Council by more than 100 friends and associates. Rabbi Tannenbaum is now director of the Department of Inter-Religious Affairs at the American Jewish Committee.

Expect 6,000 At Services

More than 6,000 Masons are expected to attend the 16th annual Masonic Dedication service and breakfast of the Masons of the Metropolitan Area, tomorrow.

Simultaneous services will be held 8 a.m. in St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church, Park ave. and 50th st., at Central Synagogue, Lexington ave. at 55th st., and at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, Fifth ave. at 55th st. Breakfast will follow at the Astor and Commodore Hotels.

Local Choir Offers 'St. Matthew Passion'

Tomorrow's services will be highlighted by several sacred music programs and the appearance of guest preachers.

The "St. Matthew Passion" by Bach will be presented tomorrow at 4 p.m. in St. George's Episcopal Church, 207 E. 16th st., at Stuyvesant sq.

The St. George Choir, the Choral Society and the Children's Choir, as well as an orchestra, will take part in the performance. The program will be directed by organist Charles Henderson, with Ernest White at the organ and Adrienne Fried, on the harpsichord.

Bach's music will also be featured in a special program, 4 p.m. tomorrow by the Motet Choir and soloists in The Brick Presbyterian Church, Park ave. at 91st st., under the direction of organist Dr. T. Charles Lee. Mozart's "Seventh Mass" will be sung by the choir at the 4 p.m. Musical Service, in Central Presbyterian Church, Park ave. at 64th st., under the direction of organist Dr. Hugh Giles, with Charles Wilson as associate organist.

Dr. William R. Mueller, chairman of the Department of English at Goucher College, Baltimore, Md., will be guest preacher at the 11 a.m. service tomorrow in Central Presbyterian Church.

The second New York performance of the "Stabat Mater" by the contemporary English composer, Lennox Berkeley, will be given 5 p.m. tomorrow in the Riverside Church, Riverside dr. and 122d st.

Rev. Santiago Soto-Fontanez, Director of Baptist work among Spanish-speaking people in the Metropolitan Area, will be guest preacher, tomorrow at the 11 a.m. service in the Parkchester Baptist Church, 2021 Benedict ave., The Bronx.

Pastor John J. Vick returns to his pulpit at Rock Church, 153 E. 62d st., tomorrow, following an extensive teaching, preaching and evangelizing tour of Kenya, British East Africa.

He will talk about his trip, 3:30 p.m. tomorrow. His theme will be "Africans for Africa." Pastor Vick served as commencement speaker at biblical seminars in Nairobi and Mombassa.

The fourth week of Daily Lenten Community Services, held in the First Presbyterian Church, 124 Henry st., Brooklyn, continue with Rev. Dr. Alfred Grant Walton, pastor, Flatbush-Tompkins Congregational Christian Church, as guest preacher, Monday.

Science Theme Is 'Substance'

The indestructible nature of man's spiritual faculties will be stressed at Christian Science church services tomorrow.

Matthew's account of Jesus' healing of the two blind men (ch. 9) will be read. The Lesson-Sermon entitled "Substance" will also include this verse from Proverbs (20:12): "The hearing ear, and the seeing eye, the Lord hath made even both of them."

10 Take Posts in Berlin at Military Invitation

BERLIN, Feb. 10 (Reuters)— Ten Explorer Scouts, sons of members of the American community here, worked side by side today with top military and communications commanders as part of United States Scout Week activities.

United States Army officials said Specialist 4/c James L. Smith of Ada, Okla., a Scout adviser, originated the idea of letting the Scouts "take command." Specialist Smith said the experience would provide good vocational training.

Dear Marc:

You were most thoughtful, as always, to let me know that you are changing your position and responsibility. You have rendered such outstanding service to the Synagogue Council of America and I shall miss you in that relationship. I look forward, however, to developing further relationships with you in your new position.

I, too, appreciate the opportunity we had to exchange greetings in terms of some of our deeper religious sentiments in recent weeks.

May God richly bless you and yours in your new undertakings.

Dear Marc:

I was pleased to learn of your appointment as Director of the newly-organized Department of Inter-Religious Affairs of the American Jewish Committee.

I know that the Synagogue Council has benefited from your executive leadership, as will the American Jewish Committee. May I join with your many friends in wishing you well.

With warm personal regards.

Dear Dr. Nach:

I have your letter of January 26th, advising me of an intimate testimonial dinner in honor of Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum at the Hotel Olcott on Tuesday, March 7th.

I very much wish that I could attend the dinner and join in this well deserved tribute to Dr. Tanenbaum who has served the Synagogue Council of American so long and so well. Unfortunately, Mrs. Lehman and I are leaving for the West Coast in February and will not be back until considerably after the date of the dinner.

May I ask you to convey to Dr. Tanenbaum my kindest regards and heartiest good wishes for full measure of success and happiness in his new and important work for the American Jewish Committee.

Yours very sincerely,

Herbert H. Lehman

Dear Marc:

Thank you for your cordial letter of January 5th in which you shared with me your plans for the future. Please know that I am deeply interested in your professional and personal interests and warmly welcome your communications.

I am delighted to hear that you are going to head-up the Department of Inter-Religious Affairs of the American Jewish Committee. They could not have chosen a better or more able man. My sincerest congratulations and every good wish to you in this new undertaking.

Because of my own experience with Religion In American Life, and before that in Council of Churches work, I am well aware of all the endless responsibilities that were connected with your Synagogue Council work and I think I can well appreciate some of the new opportunities that you will have along different lines in your new position with the American Jewish Committee later this winter.

May I say that as far as Religion In American Life is concerned, although you will be functioning in a different capacity I still hope that you may be willing to continue your active role with RIAL and to continue presently as Chairman of the Copy Policy Committee. Of course, we would want you to remain a member of our Board and an active officer with us if you feel that you can.

We will be looking with real interest to your successor at the Synagogue Council and it is our sincere desire that whoever that person is, he will plan to continue the excellent cooperative relationship which you have established and carried on through the years.

With highest personal regards and Godspeed to you in your new undertaking come March 1st, I remain,

Very sincerely yours,

Dear Marc

I received the invitation to the testimonial dinner in your honor. Believe me, only distance keeps me from attending. I want to take the time to congratulate you on a job well done.

The Officers of the Synagogue Council are to be commended for honoring you. They must feel that you have greatly contributed to that organization. I am sure the Jewish Community will be hearing about you in your new position. I hope you will keep in touch with me and let me know what your plans are.

Lots of luck in your new job. Esther joins me in sending our best regards to you and your family.

Dear Max:

Upon my return from a flying visit to the East, I found several letters from the Synagogue Council of America. I have noted your request for material dealing with the history of the Synagogue Council. When I return to the East, I shall attempt to discover any such records or correspondence in my files. I do not believe that there is much there which is significant, but I shall have no objection to turning it over to the archives of the Synagogue Council.

From another letter, I learned that Rabbi Tanenbaum had resigned from the Synagogue Council of America. Being far away, I had not heard of this change in personnel, and out of my deep friendship for Marc I would be very much interested in learning what he is doing.

It will, of course, be impossible for me to attend the dinner scheduled in his honor for March 7th. I wish it were feasible for me to be on hand and to express to him personally the sense of appreciation which religious Jewry in America owes him for having played so significant a role in revitalizing the activities of the Synagogue Council and endowing this potentially central agency in American Jewish life with some of the dignity and importance which is its due.

Please extend to him my best wishes on his new field of activity, and the hope that he will continue to make fruitful contributions to the development of a meaningful Jewish life in America.

With warm personal greetings to your own good self, I am

Dear Dr. Finkelstein:

Few expressions of good wishes have meant more to me than your recent letters.

Whatever services I may have performed in behalf of Judaism and our people during my seven years with the Synagogue Council would never have been possible were it not for the training, sense of commitment, and inspiration on which I was nurtured during my student years at the Seminary.

So decisive were those years in the transformation of my life that I have often confided to myself that, knowing what I do now about the challenges to Judaism and to myself personally in our public life, that I wish I had an opportunity to start over again in the Seminary. While I absorbed much, I would, at this stage of self-awareness, have approached my student years with even greater application to Torah.

Perhaps the example of Rabbi Akiba may not yet be altogether removed as a challenge to me in the coming years. In any event, please be assured of my deepest appreciation for your good wishes.

Warmest regards,

How very gracious of you to inform me of your professional plans. Your leaving the Synagogue Council will be a great loss to the Council, but the American Jewish Committee certainly is to be congratulated, and I believe I can understand your feeling that your particular responsibilities there will be very much to your liking. As you know, the National Council of Churches has had very close relations with the AJC, just as it has with the SCA, and I am sure that our contacts will continue undiminished. In fact, you may find yourself in even closer relationship with some of the departments of the National Council of Churches in which you are especially interested.

It is good of you to suggest that you will introduce me to your successor. I shall look forward to meeting him and to maintaining the same cordial relationship through him that we have enjoyed so much through you.

New York 36, N. Y.

Dear Marc:

Thank you for your thoughtful courtesy and friendliness in telling me about your prospective change in jobs. Having been associated with the work of Rabbi Kertzer during the years when I was with the National Council of Churches, I know something of the significance of that work.

I am glad that there will be continued occasions for meeting you occasionally but I must bear in mind that associations at the national level are between the American Jewish Committee and the National Council of Churches.

Best wishes to you in your new post!

My dear Marc;

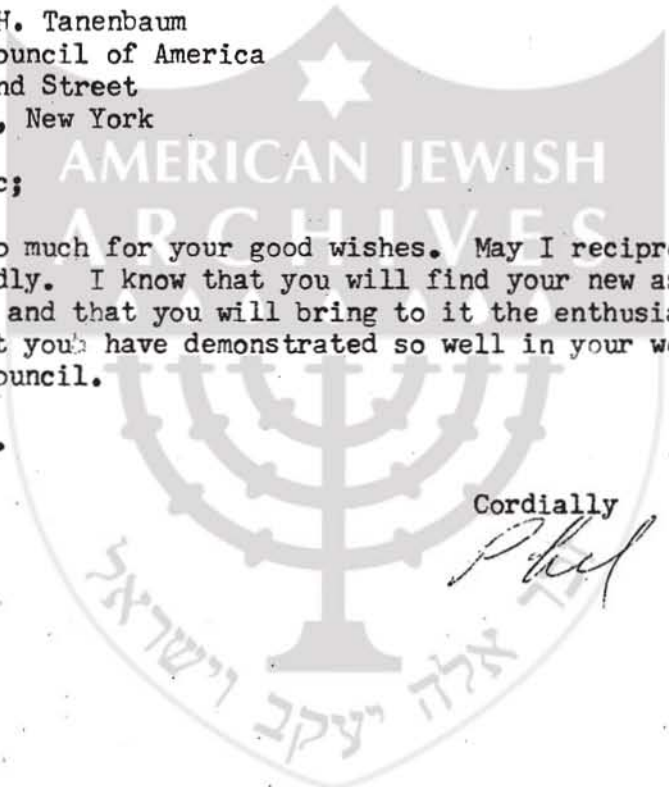

Thank you so much for your good wishes. May I reciprocate whole heartedly. I know that you will find your new assignment challenging and that you will bring to it the enthusiasm and ability that you have demonstrated so well in your work in the Synagogue Council.

Best wishes.

Dear Rabbi Tanenbaum:

I am in receipt of your letter of January 6th which I have read with great interest.

I am very sorry indeed that you are leaving the Synagogue Council of America which you have served so long and so faithfully. It will seem strange to me to deal with anybody but you in connection with the affairs of the Council. I am very glad to know, however, that you will become Director of the Department of Inter-Religious Affairs of the American Jewish Committee. This will give me an opportunity to still work with you, even though in a different field.

I send you my congratulations and heartiest good wishes for a full measure of success in your new and important work.

With kindest personal regards, I am

Yours very sincerely,

Dear Marc:

Yasher koach! The public announcement of your move comes as a particularly welcome piece of information to me, since the news of my move is now public, and this means that for the foreseeable future you and I are going to be partners in crime.

As I told you confidentially over the phone a month ago, I am leaving the congregation sometime this summer to take on the chairmanship of the newly created Commission of Interfaith Activities of the UAHC and to become co-Director of the Social Action Commission of the Union, and to accept a Merrill Foundation grant for interracial work in the south.

I can't tell you how pleased I am to know that finally, after so many years of working together only sporadically, we are now going to have an opportunity to work together in the same community and towards the same ends. I am quite thrilled to know that a guy with your savvy and your experience will be around and that we will be able to share together.

The best of all good things, and Mazel Tov!

Many thanks for your thoughtful letter. It was very kind of you to take time from your heavy schedule to write.

I'm especially grateful for your gracious offer to assist you with services for the coming High Holy Days. As I indicated to you some time ago, I have been assisting Judah Nadich for some four years. Because we are expecting our favorite child number two around August, and vaguely in the background because I still need to husband my strength, I have just declined Judah's invitation for this coming Yomim Noraim.

While I know that I would greatly enjoy being with you, under the circumstances, I must decline your thoughtful invitation.

Dear Mark:

I note from your letter that you have decided to assume a new post with the American Jewish Committee. I can only hope that your new job will bring you the opportunity for satisfying work and the reduction of pressure which obviously has been characteristic of your association with The Synagogue Council. Lots of luck and - congratulations.

Dear Marc:

I have been wanting for some time to address these few lines to you -- first, to congratulate you on your new post, and secondly, to express the hope that you will find self-realization and contentment in your new work.

It is my regret, and I know my loss, that our personal relationship did not permit us to see one another frequently; but I want you to know that your fine work has been known to me and has brought me a sense of vicarious pride.

May the Almighty bless you with fruitful service as you become the Director of the Department of Inter-Religious Affairs of the American Jewish Committee.

Dear Marc:

Let this letter be the bearer of my good wishes to you in your new post. Your leadership of the Synagogue Council of America has been outstanding. You have strengthened the organization, given it new status in the Jewish community and in the Christian as well; you have contributed immeasurably to its strengthening.

May you find your new work rewarding in every way. I am certain that under your exceptional guidance, it will grow in vital and effective service to the causes to which it is devoted.

I am sorry that I will not be able to attend the Testimonial Dinner which is being planned in your honor for Tuesday, March 7. I will be away from New York and this absence from the city will prevent my being with you.

My very warmest good wishes are yours.

Dear Marc:

My warm congratulations on your recent appointment as Director of the Interreligious Affairs Department of the American Jewish Committee. This is an extremely important and responsible position, and I believe you can and will make a distinctive contribution in it. To follow Morris Kertzer on assignment is in itself a sizable task, but I am confident you can handle it.

It seems a long time since our paths have crossed. Before too long I hope we can get together for a visit. Meanwhile, my personal regards and all best wishes for the new work.

My congratulations on your ascension to your new position in the AJC. The AJC is one of my favorite organizations. In fact, it is my only favorite organization, except perhaps for the Democratic Party. As John Slawson and Ed Lucas can tell you, I am deeply involved with the AJC -- not only through my boss, but even by myself.

Moreover, your predecessor is a very dear friend of mine.

May I offer you my best good wishes on your new job -- though I do so with considerable regret.

The Synagogue Council of America has great possibilities, though it would take some time, yet ultimately it should be the great centralizing agency in American Jewish life. I have always felt that if anyone could bring this about, you could. You have the drive for it and the patience that it requires. Apparently I was mistaken about the patience and hence I am sorry to see you leave this post. It is not given to many of us to be real heroes.

I can, of course, understand the personal pressures and I completely sympathize, so let me revise the first sentence and say with all my heart -- good luck to you.

HAROLD STEINBERG

Director of Press Relations

FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 12

New York ... Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum of Elmhurst, N. Y., spiritual and civic leader, has been named director of the American Jewish Committee's Interreligious Affairs Department, Dr. John Slawson, Executive Vice President, announced here today.

The fifty-five year old Committee is the pioneer human relations agency in this country, combating bigotry, protecting civil and religious rights of Jews, and advancing the cause of human rights everywhere.

Rabbi Tanenbaum, who has been Executive Director of the Synagogue Council of America for the past seven years, succeeds Rabbi Morris N. Kertzer, who has assumed the pulpit of the Larchmont Temple in Larchmont, N.Y. The Synagogue Council is the national coordinating agency of the Orthodox, Conservative and Reform rabbinic and congregational bodies of Judaism in the United States.

Active in diverse areas of American public life, Rabbi Tanenbaum holds many positions as officer, director and consultant in government and voluntary agencies. The broad range of his interests is reflected in the fact that he was appointed by President Eisenhower both as Vice-Chairman of the Executive Committee of the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth and as a member of the National Advisory Council, 1961 White House Conference on Aging, of which he was Co-Chairman of the Section on "Religion and Aging."

Rabbi Tanenbaum's governmental advisory positions include: Consultant to the Children's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and Vice-Chairman of the Religious Leaders Advisory Council of the President's Committee on Government Contracts.

In international affairs, Rabbi Tanenbaum is a member of the United States National Commission for UNESCO, and serves on the Religious Advisory Committee of the U.S. Committee for the United Nations. He is also a Chairman of the Projects Committee of the People-to-People Religious Groups Committee, and a member of the Committee for International Economic Growth. On educational projects involving Latin America, he is a member of the Board of Directors of the American Foundation for Cultural Popular Action.

As publicist, writer and editor, he has served as a correspondent and columnist for a number of news magazines and agencies, a TV writer and panelist, and as a writer, narrator and director of religious films for various organizations.

Rabbi Tanenbaum was on the editorial staff, headed by Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, for a UNESCO volume, "Our Moral and Spiritual Resources for International Cooperation." He is co-author of "Our Nation's Children: Religion in America" studies of the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth. He is also co-author of "Religion and Aging," a background document of the 1961 White House Conference on Aging.

Rabbi Tanenbaum's posts in general community and civic organizations include: National Vice-Chairman, American Red Cross; Vice-President of Religion in American Life; member, National Religious Policy Committee, Girl Scouts of America and Camp Fire Girls of America; member, Board of Directors, Clergymen's Economic Institute; member, Council of Trustees of United Seamen's Service.

The AJC's Interreligious Department is responsible for a broad program of education aimed at the advancement of inter-religious cooperation and harmony.

Among the major projects carried out under the auspices of the Interreligious Department has been a long-range series of self-studies of religious texts to determine the existence of negative and biased material. These studies have been developed in cooperation with the AJC by several leading universities, including Yale, St. Louis, Southern Methodist, Dropsie College and Union Theological Seminary.

The Interreligious Department maintains close working relationships with leading church groups, particularly those dealing with social action. The Department helps develop and cooperates in such projects as interreligious TV workshops, interfaith dialogues, and coordinated action and educational programs on such issues as fair immigration laws, civil rights, civil liberties and interreligious cooperation.

A native of Baltimore, Rabbi Tanenbaum, who is 35 years old, holds a B.S. in biological sciences from Yeshiva University and was ordained and received a Master's of Hebrew Literature degree at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. He has been a graduate student in English literature and literary criticism at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore and the New School of Social Research in New York.

He is married to the former Helga Weiss, a clinical psychologist. They have one child, Adena Vicky, aged two.
