Temple Forum Guest Is Rabbi Tanenbaum

Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum will be the guest speaker at the Sunday morning breakfast forum on March 13 at Riverdale Temple. His topic is "Interfaith Interaction Looks to the Future."

Rabbi Tanenbaum was the only rabbi present during the deliberations of Vatican Council II, as Jewish consultant on the substance of the historic Vatican Declaration on Non-Christian Religions. The declaration condemned anti-semitism and called for fraternal dialogue and mutual respect between Catholics and Jews.

Under his direction, the American Jewish Committee has involved major Jewish scholars and religious leaders in national academic institutes with every branch of Christendom. Rabbi Tanenbaum also served as co-chairman of the first International Colloquium on Religion, Land, Nationalism and Peoplehood held at Hebrew University in 1970.

He has been frequently invited to serve as Jewish spokesman before Congressional and Senate Committee hearings. He has served on various Presidential and White House commissions on youth, aging, race relations and food and population problems.

He has served as visiting professor at the Graduate Ecumenical Institute in Bossey, Switzerland, and has lectured at numerous universities. Rabbi Tanenbaum holds eight honorary doctorates and is the recipient of many awards. He is a prolific writer and prize-winning radio and TV commentator.

Temple members and friends are invited. Dr. Lillian Heimowitz is chairman of the Adult Education Committee, sponsors of the program. The breakfast is provided by the Men's Club. Charles Baron is president.
