I was pleased with our fine conversation last week and look forward to the opportunity for CJF and CIJE to work together for Jewish continuity. I believe that CIJE has the potential to have a real impact on Jewish education and Jewish continuity in North America and was happy to learn from our discussion of your interest and support.

This letter is an invitation to you to join the Board of CIJE. It is our intention to meet in New York approximately three times each year as we work to implement the recommendations of the Commission on Jewish Education in North America. Our next meeting is scheduled for noon to 4 p.m. on Thursday, August 26, UJA/Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, 130 East 59th Street, New York. I hope you will be able to attend. Details will be available shortly.

Dr. Barry Holtz, Program Officer for CIJE, will call you soon to brief you on current activities of CIJE.

Warm personal regards.

Dear Gerald:

I understand that you would like to retire from active duty as a member of the CIJE Board of Directors. I would like to ask you to continue to serve as a director, even if you are unable to attend most of the New York meetings. We very much need your help and support in Atlanta, where our work is moving forward. I hope that you will agree to remain on the Board.

As you know, we have a board meeting scheduled for Thursday, August 26, noon to 4:00 p.m. at UJA/Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, 130 East 59th Street, New York. If you find it possible to come, we would be happy to have you. Please complete and return the enclosed postcard indicating your plans.

I send my warmest personal regards.

I look forward to your attendance at the CIJE Executive Committee and Board meetings on Thursday, August 26 in New York. I think that we are making good progress in our work and that it should be an interesting day.

I know that you have already spoken with Hank, Shulamith and Ginny about providing the Board with an overview of the Lead Communities project. I appreciate your willingness to do so and your suggestion about the role of the community lay leaders in responding.

Thank you for agreeing to make this presentation. Hank and Ginny will be in touch again closer to the meeting date to discuss it with you.

Dear Esther Leah:

I hope that you will be able to attend the CIJE Executive Committee and Board meetings on Thursday, August 26 in New York. I think that we are making good progress in our work and that it should be an interesting day.

On the agenda for the Board meeting is a report by Adam Gamoran on the Monitoring, Evaluation and Feedback project. I am writing to ask if you would make introductory remarks as chair of the Monitoring, Evaluation and Feedback committee. I have asked Adam to brief you about his work in preparation for your remarks.

Please let Ginny Levi or me know if you are willing to participate in this way.

Dear Paul:

I believe that you are aware of plans for a meeting of the CIJE Board of Directors on Thursday, August 26, 1993 at UJA/Federation of Jewish Philanthropies of New York, 130 East 59th Street, New York. The meeting will begin with luncheon at 12:00 noon and will conclude by 4:00 p.m. I am writing to invite you to attend.

Among other things, you will have an opportunity to hear from representatives of our Lead Communities about some of the successes and challenges of introducing innovation in three very different communities. We look forward to your participation in this important discussion.

Please complete and return the enclosed reply card, indicating your attendance plans. I look forward with pleasure to seeing you there, and send my warmest personal regards.

Dear Ilene:

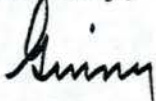

We look forward to your participation in the Board of Directors meeting of the Council for Initiatives in Jewish Education on August 26. Charles Ratner plans to provide an overview of the Lead Communities project from the CIJE perspective and to refer in general terms to what is occurring in individual communities. He will remind the board that "personnel" and "community mobilization" were identified by the Commission as "enabling options," which undergird the implementation of any, or all, other educational programs. In addition, he will refer to the CIJE projects: Best Practices, Monitoring, Evaluation and Feedback, and the Goals Project.

It is our hope that you will focus your brief remarks on one or two activities of the Lead Communities process or project being undertaken in Baltimore.

You may wish to discuss your remarks with the CIJE staff at the Baltimore meetings on August 23 and 24.

I look forward to seeing you then.

Sincerely,

Dear Steve: AMERICAN JEWISH

The past six months has been a period of intensive efforts by CIJE, and we will be able to report significant progress at our board meeting on August 26th. In particular, we will be reporting on the following:

1. The CIJE professional team: Our Selection Committee has completed its work and we are pleased to announce that we have engaged Alan D. Hoffmann as full-time Executive Director of CIJE. He will be assisted by a team of two outstanding professionals to lead the work of CIJE. They are Dr. Barry W. Holtz and Dr. Gail Z. Dorph.

a. Alan D. Hoffmann - Executive Director

Alan Hoffmann has been the Director of the Melton Centre for Jewish Education in the Diaspora at the Hebrew University, Jerusalem since 1986. As director, he has developed training programs in formal and informal Jewish education. The Centre's Senior Educators Program has thus far provided North America with some 60 graduates who occupy key positions in a variety of communities, while its Summer Institute provides ongoing staff development for major U.S. day schools. Alan has been responsible for the development of curricula, and has supervised an elaborate research program in Jewish education. He has provided consultation services to schools and to educational networks throughout North and South America.

Alan will assume his position on August 15, 1993.

b. Dr. Barry W. Holtz - Program Officer

Barry Holtz has served as Co-Director of the Melton Research Center for Jewish Education at the Jewish Theological Seminary, New York City, since 1980. He has been responsible for their program in curriculum development and teacher education. He is a well-known author and his publications include: Back to the Sources and Our Way. At CIJE, Barry Holtz has been responsible for the Best Practices Project and joined the staff full-time as of July 1st, 1993.

c. Dr. Gail Z. Dorph - Education Officer

Gail Dorph has served as Chairman of the Department of Education at the University of Judaism in Los Angeles since 1989. In that capacity, she has been responsible for an elaborate program of teacher education and in-service education. She has long experience in the preparation of educational materials and has served as a consultant to Jewish communities throughout the United States. Gail Dorph will assume her position on August 15th, 1993.

Also, we are grateful for the important contribution Dr. Shulamith R. Elster has made to the CIJE over the past two years. Dr. Elster has decided to accept the position of Professor of Jewish Education at the Baltimore Hebrew University. We look forward to working with her in her new capacity.

2. The three Lead Communities -- Atlanta, Baltimore and Milwaukee -- have established their local commissions on Jewish education, and each has engaged staff to work with these commissions. They have undertaken comprehensive surveys of the educators in each community to establish base-line data. The results of the surveys will inform the commissions as they plan the recruitment, in-service training, professional development, and terms of employment of educators--as well as the way communities will address their future personnel needs. The survey in Milwaukee has already been completed; those in Atlanta and Baltimore will be completed by the early winter. The Best Practices, and the Monitoring, Evaluation and Feedback projects have been introduced in each of these communities and discussions are under way with Barry Holtz towards the development of pilot projects. At our board meeting, we will hear updates from representatives of the Lead Communities on the work that they have undertaken in their communities. The partnership between the three Lead Communities and the CIJE was intensified when the first of five annual joint seminars was held in Cleveland during the month of May. The various components of the project were jointly discussed, a common workplan was established, and regular lines of communications were set up. Ongoing visits by CIJE staff were scheduled. The second seminar is to be held in Baltimore on August 23rd and 24th.

3. The Best Practices Project: At our last board meeting you received a publication on best practices in the supplementary school. A publication on best practices in early childhood education is now at the printer. I am enclosing a memorandum by Barry Holtz on the Best Practices project in which he describes the work that has been undertaken in other areas of Jewish education, among them: day schools, the JCCs, college campus programs, camping/youth programs, adult education and the Israel Experience. This project, which is involving outstanding educators from the field and from key educational institutions, is generating significant debate and deliberation at major educational gatherings around the continent--from CAJE to the Network on Research in Jewish Education to conferences of denominational educational organizations. Sessions are being devoted to the presentation of this project and to the implications of its introduction into the Lead Communities.

4. Monitoring, Evaluation & Feedback Project: A key element in the concept of Lead Communities is the notion that intensive monitoring, evaluation and feedback is necessary if we are to learn by doing. Furthermore, monitoring, evaluation and feedback will provide the basis for the decisions concerning the dissemination of findings to additional communities throughout the continent. This project is directed by Dr. Adam Gamoran of the University of Wisconsin and Dr. Ellen Goldring of Vanderbilt University. As you will read in their progress report, the CIJE has introduced a full-time field researcher into each of the communities and they have already submitted initial reports to the local commissions and to CIJE.

I look forward to seeing you at our planning meeting on August 25th, 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. at JCC Association, 15 East 26th Street, New York. I also look forward to your participation at our board meeting on August 26th. It will take place from 9:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. at UJA/Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, 130 East 59th Street, New York.

Warmest regards.

Gail Dorph has served as Chairman of the Department of Education at the University of Judaism in Los Angeles since 1989. In that capacity, she has been responsible for an elaborate program of teacher education and in-service education. She has long experience in the preparation of educational materials and has served as a consultant to Jewish communities throughout the United States. Gail Dorph will assume her position on August 15th, 1993.

Also, we are grateful for the important contribution Dr. Shulamith R. Elster has made to the CIJE over the past two years. Dr. Elster has decided to accept the position of Professor of Jewish Education at the Baltimore Hebrew University. We look forward to working with her in her new capacity.

2. The three Lead Communities -- Atlanta, Baltimore and Milwaukee -- have established their local commissions on Jewish education, and each has engaged staff to work with these commissions. They have undertaken comprehensive surveys of the educators in each community to establish base-line data. The results of the surveys will inform the commissions as they plan the recruitment, in-service training, professional development, and terms of employment of educators--as well as the way communities will address their future personnel needs. The survey in Milwaukee has already been completed; those in Atlanta and Baltimore will be completed by the early winter. The Best Practices, and the Monitoring, Evaluation and Feedback projects have been introduced in each of these communities and discussions are under way with Barry Holtz towards the development of pilot projects. At our board meeting, we will hear updates from representatives of the Lead Communities on the work that they have undertaken in their communities. The partnership between the three Lead Communities and the CIJE was intensified when the first of five annual joint seminars was held in Cleveland during the month of May. The various components of the project were jointly discussed, a common workplan was established, and regular lines of communications were set up. Ongoing visits by CIJE staff were scheduled. The second seminar is to be held in Baltimore on August 23rd and 24th.

3. The Best Practices Project: At our last board meeting you received a publication on best practices in the supplementary school. A publication on best practices in early childhood education is now at the printer. I am enclosing a memorandum by Barry Holtz on the Best Practices project in which he describes the work that has been undertaken in other areas of Jewish education, among them: day schools, the JCCs, college campus programs, camping/youth programs, adult education and the Israel Experience. This project, which is involving outstanding educators from the field and from key educational institutions, is generating significant debate and deliberation at major educational gatherings around the continent--from CAJE to the Network on Research in Jewish Education to conferences of denominational educational organizations. Sessions are being devoted to the presentation of this project and to the implications of its introduction into the Lead Communities.
4. Monitoring, Evaluation & Feedback Project: A key element in the concept of Lead Communities is the notion that intensive monitoring, evaluation and feedback is necessary if we are to learn by doing. Furthermore, monitoring, evaluation and feedback will provide the basis for the decisions concerning the dissemination of findings to additional communities throughout the continent. This project is directed by Dr. Adam Gamoran of the University of Wisconsin and Dr. Ellen Goldring of Vanderbilt University. As you will read in their progress report, the CIJE has introduced a full-time field researcher into each of the communities and they have already submitted initial reports to the local commissions and to CIJE.

I look forward to your participation at our board meeting on August 26th.

Warmest regards.

Morton L. Mandel

Dear Steve:

A meeting of the Board of Directors of CIJE was held at UJA Federation last month. I want to thank you for the use of your lovely meeting space and for the assistance of your staff. They were, as always, responsive to our needs and helpful in making the meeting a great success.

Wishing you and yours a happy, healthy New Year.

Sincerely,

MORTON L. MANDEL

Dear Bill:

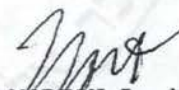

Many thanks to you for your participation in last month's CIJE board meeting. We were all pleased to hear your remarks about progress in Atlanta and look forward to reports of continued progress in the future. Members of the board expressed their pleasure with the community reports.

With both Atlanta and CIJE moving forward in staffing for this project, I am optimistic about even greater success in the future. CIJE looks forward to continuing the relationship with Atlanta as both planning and implementation for this project progress.

I hope that you will consider attending future meetings of the board. I will be in touch when the next meeting has been scheduled.

Best wishes for a happy, healthy New Year to you and yours.

Sincerely,

Dear David:

Thank you very much for accompanying Bill Schatten to the meeting of the CIJE board last month. I felt that the remarks of the three Lead Community lay leaders brought the project alive for the board in a way that written reports could never do.

Your presence helped to demonstrate the serious commitment of Atlanta for this project. I hope that it has helped you to see how seriously the board takes it, as well.

Best wishes for a happy, healthy New Year to you and yours.

Sincerely,

MORTON L. MANDEL

Dear Ilene:

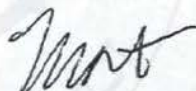

Many thanks to you for your participation in last month's CIJE board meeting. We were all pleased to hear your remarks about progress in Baltimore and look forward to reports of continued progress in the future. Members of the board expressed their pleasure with the community reports.

I know the board members shared my pleasure at hearing you talk so eloquently about Baltimore's strategic planning process as it meshes with the goals of the Lead Community project. We look forward to working with you to make this happen.

I hope that you will consider attending future meetings of the board. I will be in touch when the next meeting has been scheduled.

Best wishes for a happy, healthy New Year to you and yours.

We are pleased to send you the enclosed minutes of our most recent CIJE Board of Directors meeting. From your comments, I know that many of you left the meeting with the same sense of optimism for the future of Jewish education that I had, after hearing from the leaders of the three Lead Communities and members of the CIJE staff.

Since the board meeting, Alan Hoffmann and the CIJE staff have been working to move our process forward, both with the Lead Communities and in our two major areas of emphasis -- building the profession and community mobilization. You can expect to receive periodic updates on their work.

Best wishes for a happy, healthy New Year.

Dear Matt:

We are pleased to send you the enclosed minutes of our most recent CIJE Board of Directors and Executive Committee meetings. From your comments, I know that many of you left the meeting with the same sense of optimism for the future of Jewish education that I had, after hearing from the leaders of the three Lead Communities and members of the CIJE staff.

Since the board meeting, Alan Hoffmann and the CIJE staff have been working to move our process forward, both with the Lead Communities and in our two major areas of emphasis -- building the profession and community mobilization. You can expect to receive periodic updates on their work.

Best wishes for a happy, healthy New Year.

Dear Fred:

We are sorry that you were unable to attend the recent meeting of the CIJE Board of Directors. I am sure that you would have been as pleased as I was with the reports from the three Lead Communities and with developments in the staffing. I hope that the enclosed minutes will give you a sense of our progress.

Also enclosed is CIJE's most recent publication, "Best Practices Project: Early Childhood Education." Barry Holtz described the work that led to this report during our meeting.

Since the board meeting, Alan Hoffmann and the CIJE staff have been working to move our process forward, both with the Lead Communities and in our two major areas of emphasis -- building the profession and community mobilization. You can expect to receive periodic updates on their work.

Best wishes for a happy, healthy New Year.

Florence, your guidance on the issues facing CIJE is very important to me. I know that Alan has been in contact with you for your thoughts. The CIJE, together with so many other institutions, deeply feels the absence of Sam's wisdom.

Best wishes for a happy, healthy New Year.
