Alan,

I would be happy to have a discussion with the Steering Committee about informal education. I could lay out what I see as some of the problems which have forestalled our involvement up 'till now.

This means that presentation of the Module and discussion of the Institute for Evaluation would both come under item B. If that's what you intended, that's also fine with me. With these understandings, the agenda you originally proposed for the MEF section of the meeting looks good:

- A. Preliminary data from Education Leaders Survey
- B. Developing evaluation capacity

AG/EG ADH AG (introductory remarks)

C. Towards studying informal educators - a discussion

MODULE FOR THE CIJE STUDY OF EDUCATORS

INTRODUCTION

Our goal should be to make it possible for every Jewish person, child or adult, to be exposed to the mystery and romance of Jewish history, to the enthralling insights and special sensitivities of Jewish thought, to the sanctity and symbolism of Jewish existence, and to the power and profundity of Jewish faith. ... Education, in its broadest sense, will enable young people to confront the secret of Jewish tenacity and existence, the quality of Torah teaching which fascinates and attracts irresistibly. They will then be able, even eager, to find their place in a creative and constructive Jewish community.

> Professor Isadore Twersky A Time to Act, 1990

In pursuit of this lofty vision, the members of the Commission on Jewish Education in North America asserted the primacy of two building blocks upon which action should focus: "developing the profession of Jewish education and mobilizing community support to meet the needs and goals of Jewish education" (A Time to Act, 1990). Each Jewish community in North America should be encouraged to develop and implement a comprehensive plan for building the profession of Jewish education among its educators and educational institutions. In order to begin moving along this path, it is vital to know where one stands. A community's planning efforts should be informed by an accurate knowledge of the strengths and weaknesses of its current educational workforce.

The Module for the CIJE Study of Educators is a set of research instruments designed to obtain information about the educators (both teachers and administrative/supervisory personnel) working in the Jewish schools in your community. This information can help in developing a comprehensive plan for building the profession of Jewish education in your community. In using the Module for the CIJE Study of Educators, you can obtain an accurate description of your current educational workforce, baseline data against which future change can be assessed, and a means by which to mobilize the community in support of educational improvement.

The Module for the CIJE Study of Educators consists of two separate research instruments: the CIJE Educators Survey and the CIJE Educators Interview. Each instrument is accompanied by a guide, explaining its proper usage. The CIJE Educators Survey is a questionnaire designed to collect quantitative information from all of the educators (both teachers and administrative/supervisory personnel) working in Jewish schools in your community. It consists of four general areas: Settings, Work Experience, Training and Staff Development, and Background. The CIJE Educators Interview is an in-depth interview process employing a series of questions and probes (a protocol) designed to elicit in-depth information from a sample of educators working in the Jewish schools in your community, concerning their professional lives as Jewish educators. There are separate protocols for teachers and administrative/supervisory personnel. Both protocols consist of six general areas: Background, Recruitment, Training, Conditions of the Workplace, Career Rewards and Opportunities, and Professional Issues. The CIJE Educators Survey and the CIJE Educators Interview can be used separately or in conjunction with each other to produce an accurate description of your current educational workforce.

The Module for the CIJE Study of Educators was developed by the CIJE's Monitoring, Evaluation and Feedback (MEF) Research Team, in cooperation with the three Lead Communities of the CIJE (Atlanta, Baltimore, and Milwaukee). Both instruments were field tested in these three communities in 1992-93. The CIJE Educators Survey was developed after reviewing earlier instruments that surveyed Jewish education, with many questions adapted from The Los Angeles BJE Teacher Census (1990). The information obtained in the field tests has been used to develop comprehensive plans for building the profession in each community. Additionally, the information has been used to prepare the CIJE's Policy Brief Background and Professional Training of Teachers in Jewish Schools. This is the first of a series to be based on the data from the three Lead Communities. Based upon these experiences, the MEF Research Team revised the instruments and wrote the accompanying guides.

As communities begin to employ the Module for the CIJE Study of Educators in studying their own Jewish educational workforce, the data obtained can become a valuable continental resource - providing an increasingly detailed picture of our continental Jewish educational workforce and mobilizing national agencies in support of communal efforts toward building the profession of Jewish education. Each community is asked to provide a copy of the data obtained that they have acquired using their version of the CIJE Educators Survey, to the CIJE in order to build a continental data base. In addition, the Council for Initiatives in Jewish Education would appreciate the CIJE being acknowledged in any reports or other materials that are created through use of the Module for the CIJE Study of Educators.

MODULE FOR THE CIJE STUDY OF EDUCATORS

Council for Initiatives in Jewish Education

GUIDE TO THE EDUCATORS SURVEY

A. What is the CIJE Educators Survey?

The CIJE Educators Survey is a questionnaire designed to obtain information about the educators (both teachers and administrative/supervisory personnel) working in the Jewish schools in your community. The CIJE Educators Survey contains questions in four general areas: Settings, Work Experience, Training and Staff Development, and Background. The CIJE Educators Survey, alone or in conjunction with the CIJE Educators Interview, is designed to provide information that will help in building the profession of Jewish education in your community. The CIJE Educators Survey will also provide a baseline against which you can measure any changes that occur from your efforts in this area.

B. Who completes the CIJE Educators Survey?

The questionnaire is to be completed by both the Judaic studies teachers and the administrative/supervisory personnel in ALL of the Jewish schools (i.e., day schools, supplementary schools, and pre-schools) in your community. Teachers and administrative/supervisory personnel working in informal educational settings (e.g., camps, youth groups) are excluded.

- If the school uses an "integrated curriculum", all teachers and administrative/supervisory personnel involved with the "integrated curriculum" are to complete the questionnaire.
- In supplementary schools, all teachers and administrative/supervisory personnel are to complete the questionnaire.
- Every principal or educational director in the Jewish schools is to complete the questionnaire.
- Both Jewish and non-Jewish persons who fit the above criteria are to complete the questionnaire.
- In day schools and pre-schools, faculty who do not teach any Judaic studies or administrative/supervisory personnel who do not have any responsibility for the Judaic studies program are NOT to complete the questionnaire.

C. How to administer the CIJE Educators Survey

The CIJE Educators Survey was administered initially in the three Lead Communities of the Council for Initiatives in Jewish Education (Atlanta, Baltimore, and Milwaukee) in 1992-93. In total, 983 teachers responded out of a total population of 1192 in these three communities. Obtaining such a high response rate (over 82%) was essential to having the research findings be considered an accurate representation of the total population of educators. The CIJE Educators Survey is intended to be administered to all educators, not a sample. Therefore, it is vital that when administering the CIJE Educators Survey in your community you obtain a similarly high response rate.

In order to achieve a high response rate, the following procedures should be followed:

- This survey process should be coordinated in advance with the principal of each school.
- The questionnaire is to be administered at faculty meetings in each school. The educators are not permitted to take the questionnaire home. They must complete it and return it during the faculty meeting. (One hour should be allocated for completion of the questionnaire at each school.)
- 3. Principals or other administrative personnel are not to administer the questionnaire. It should be handed out and collected by persons designated for this purpose (e.g., central agency personnel, graduate students, study coordinator). The principals and other administrative personnel are to complete the questionnaire in a separate room, at the same time as the teachers.
- 4. Educators who were absent from the faculty meeting should receive the questionnaire at home by mail, accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed return envelope. The envelope should be addressed to the study coordinator, not to the school or principal.
- In order to be able to calculate your response rate and control the distribution of the questionnaire, every questionnaire is to be coded BEFORE administering them at the schools.
 - a. First, the study coordinator (or someone s/he assigns) should code the boxes on the bottom of the last page of the survey with a two digit school ID number (between 01 and 99) that specifically identifies each school.
 - Then, at each school, the person(s) in charge of administering the questionnaire should code the same set of boxes with a two digit person ID number (between 01 and 99). Unlike the school ID number, individual educators are NOT to be identified by this number.

D. How do educators who work in more than one school respond to the questionnaire?

Educators who work in more than one school are to complete ONLY ONE questionnaire. The person(s) in charge of administering the CIJE Educators Survey at each school are to instruct those educators who already have completed a questionnaire to NOT complete another one.

It does not matter at which school an educator completes the questionnaire. In the CIJE Educators Survey, there are questions which will ask them information about the other school in which they work. (Since very few educators work in more than two schools, these questions only ask them about the two schools in which they work the most hours.)

E. Anchor Items - Modifying the CIJE Educators Survey

In using the CIJE Educators Survey, questions may be added and some questions may be modified to suit the particular needs and resources of your community. A number of the questions in the CIJE Educators Survey are "anchor items." This means that they address certain policy issues essential to building the profession of Jewish education in all kinds of communities. Data are or will be available on these items for many communities, contributing to a continental data base. The CIJE hopes that all community educator surveys will contain these anchor items.

The anchor items are:

CIJE EDUCATORS SURVEY

Council for Initiatives in Jewish Education

GUIDE TO THE CIJE EDUCATORS INTERVIEW

A. What is the CIJE Educators Interview?

The CIJE Educators Interview is a research process by which in-depth information can be obtained about the professional lives of educators (both teachers and administrative/supervisory personnel) working in Jewish schools in your community. The CIJE Educators Interview consists of two separate protocols to be used with teachers and administrative/supervisory personnel, respectively: the CIJE Educators Interview: Teachers Protocol and the CIJE Educators Interview: Administrators Protocol. Each protocol contains a series of questions that can be asked during the interviews and suggestive probes by which additional information can be elicited, in six general areas: Background, Recruitment, Training, Conditions of the Workplace, Career Satisfaction and Opportunities, and Professional Issues. The CIJE Educators Interview, alone or in conjunction with the CIJE Educators Survey, is designed to provide information that will help in building the profession of Jewish education in your community.

B. Who participates in the CIJE Educators Interview?

The protocols are to be used with a SAMPLE of ELIGIBLE educators working in the Jewish schools (i.e., day schools, supplementary schools, and pre-schools) in your community. Educators working in informal educational settings (e.g., camps, youth groups) are excluded.

- If the school uses an "integrated curriculum", all teachers and administrative/supervisory personnel involved with the "integrated curriculum" are eligible to be interviewed.
- In supplementary schools, all teachers and administrative/supervisory personnel are eligible to be interviewed.
- Every principal or educational director in the Jewish schools is eligible to be interviewed.
- Both Jewish and non-Jewish persons who fit the above criteria are eligible to be interviewed.

In day schools and pre-schools, faculty who do not teach any Judaic studies or administrative/supervisory personnel who do not have any responsibility for the Judaic studies program are NOT eligible to be interviewed.

From the group of eligible educators, a REPRESENTATIVE sample is selected to be interviewed. Separate samples for teachers and administrative/supervisory personnel are selected. By obtaining a representative sample, it is more likely that the information obtained through the interviews will be generalizable to and "representative" of the total population of teachers or administrative/supervisory personnel in the Jewish schools in your community. To be representative, the samples should contain participants in proportions similar to the ratios that characterize the total populations (for those characteristics that are deemed important). For example, if 40% of the teachers in your community work in day schools, the sample of teachers should contain approximately that proportion (40%) of day school teachers. Characteristics that your community could consider to be important may include the type of setting (i.e., Day school, Supplementary school, Pre-school, Adult education), gender, experience in Jewish education, and Jewish affiliation.

Ideally, to obtain a representative sample, participants should be selected randomly from a complete list of the teachers and administrative/supervisory personnel working in the Jewish schools in your community. If this method is not feasible, participants may be selected through other methods such as nomination by the administrator of each school. In addition, specific participants may be selected based upon their leadership, role in the community, or other characteristics. These targeted individuals may be added to the sample, but this should be kept in mind when interpreting the interview responses.

C. How to conduct the interviews

The interviews should take approximately 45 to 60 minutes. The interviews are to be audio taped and the tapes transcribed. At the beginning of each interview, the interviewer is to inform the participants that their individual responses will be kept confidential and any use of quotes will be done anonymously.

Two separate protocols are provided to guide the interviews with teachers and administrative/supervisory personnel. Each protocol contains a series of questions that the interviewer can employ to gather information on particular topics, such as experience, early Jewish education, relations with other teachers, frustrations and rewards of teaching, etc. For several of the questions, probes are provided which can assist the interviewer in eliciting additional information on a particular topic. The protocols are offered as guides for conducting successful interviews. They were developed for and successfully employed by the CIJE's three Lead Communities (Atlanta, Baltimore, and Milwaukee) for their community studies of the educators in their Jewish schools. Some topics may be emphasized over others and additional questions may be included on topics that are specific to the needs and resources of your community.

It is very important to maintain the CONFIDENTIALITY and ANONYMITY of the participant's responses. To achieve this, the tapes and transcriptions should not be shared with any members of the community. Only a summary analysis of the transcribed interviews should be provided to the community. In providing specific information about participants (such as place of work, experience, Jewish affiliation, etc.) or in using quotes, it is important not to reveal the identity of any participants. The names of people or places may need to be changed and revealing phrases from within quotes may need to be omitted. Finally, the interviews should be conducted in a relatively private location, such as an empty classroom or office, or at the participant's home.

I. Introductory Remarks

The master schedule control, minutes, and assignments were reviewed. Steering Committee members were encouraged to review the master schedule control carefully and advise a member of the CIJE staff if any of the meeting dates are inconvenient. Note: The August meeting will take place in New York, not in Cleveland, as originally scheduled.

With respect to CIJE's continental agenda, it was suggested that a significant amount of data is being generated by the work of CIJE. CIJE should consider establishing a national data base as a repository for this information. It was noted that the MEF team has this on its agenda, but that we may wish to be selective about the data that we collect and store, perhaps by focusing on "leading indicators."

It was also suggested that other organizations are collecting data and that we should find a way to coordinate and standardize the collection process. It was noted that baseline information is important to the evaluation of any effort and is frequently not available. This issue should be considered within this context.

Assignment It was concluded that the MEF committee should consider this matter, outline the issues and begin to develop a plan. A first cut into this issue may be a topic for discussion at the next meeting of the steering committee.

II. Overview of Organization Workplan

Alan Hoffmann reminded the steering committee that much of 1994 was spent on developing the structure of CIJE and focusing its agenda. During that time, the four committees were established which represent the primary domains of CIJE's work. Now, based on those four domains, a 1995 workplan has been developed. It is anticipated that the workplan for 1996 will be drafted by August, 1995, so that input of the steering committee can be sought much earlier in process.

CIJE Steering Committee February 14, 1995

A. Building the Profession

CIJE continues to work on the mandate set forth by the Commission on Jewish Education in North America: building the profession and mobilizing community support for Jewish education. Based on the outcomes of the personnel research which was undertaken in 1994, it has been concluded that first efforts should be focused on in-service training, while initial steps are taken to develop a comprehensive plan for future efforts to build the profession. A scan of the field suggests that there is no obvious agency or institution to which we can turn for assistance in providing comprehensive inservice training for classroom Jewish educators. The first step in this effort is to determine what capacity is needed to provide the necessary training and then to build that capacity so that by the end of 1995 we will have a cadre of trainers available to move this initiative forward.

- B. Work toward mobilization of community support for Jewish education will involve four foci in 1995:
 - We will continue to work toward engaging additional lay leaders for Jewish education through our own board. This includes appointing vicechairs to the CIJE committees, adding eight to sixteen new board members and encouraging committees to meet more frequently than two times each year.
 - CIJE will work with additional communities, aiming toward engaging nine communities in comprehensive planning for educational change and then developing a network of affiliated communities.
 - Work will be undertaken to disseminate information to clearly defined and prioritized constituencies in the ongoing effort to mobilize the community.
 - 4. A plan will be developed for community mobilization. The first step, to be accomplished during 1995, is to develop a "think piece" which will be the basis for developing a plan to engage major community leaders, and untapped potential champions from outside the organized communal framework, in Jewish education.
- C. Monitoring Evaluation and Feedback

MEF plans to focus on the following areas in 1995:

 Analysis and dissemination of community data on educators and survey methods.

CIJE Steering Committee February 14, 1995

- 2. Continued monitoring and evaluation of CIJE initiated projects.
- 3. Begin work on developing a study of informal education and educators.
- Develop a set of "leading educational indicators" to help monitor change in Jewish educational efforts.
- 5. Develop a plan for creating a research agenda for North America.
- D. Content and Program

Work in the area of Best Practices will include the publication of a report on best practices in JCCs and initiation of work on best practices in the teaching of Hebrew. Shorter papers will be developed to review best available practices in in-service training.

The Goals Project will concentrate on developing resource people ("coaches") to work in selected communities.

In the brief discussion that followed, we were reminded to keep informal education in mind as the workplan is implemented. Consideration is being given to development of a policy brief on non-classroom educators.

III. Reporting and Community Mobilization

Alan reported briefly on the November 1994 GA at which CIJE presented the results of the surveys of educators in the lead communities through a report by Adam Gamoran and the dissemination of the Policy Brief. He noted that the reporting was an effective effort which moved CIJE's agenda forward. At the same time, he noted that CIJE will be more centrally involved in the planning of future GAs and will seek to make Jewish education a more central part of the agenda for the 1995 GA.

Nessa Rapoport reported on her work on communications, noting that her mandate is to raise awareness of CIJE and its work. The policy brief and the presentation at the GA resulted in significant press attention. We are continuing to identify opportunities for exposure in the press. A special forthcoming supplement in the March issue of Reform Judaism is an example of this work.

Communications is a priority because of its importance in mobilizing community interest and support. Work has begun on the notion of a "library of essential documents" in Jewish education. In addition, CIJE will begin its planning for the GA by spring. Work is also under way to develop a package of materials which can be distributed as we begin to establish relationships with new communities.

CIJE Steering Committee February 14, 1995

> In discussion, it was suggested that CIJE consider the audiences it wishes to reach. It was suggested that the GA participants represent a fairly narrow audience and that we should consider how to reach others.

> It was reported that CIJE has begun to open conversations with Hartford, San Francisco, and Seattle as possible additional communities with which we will work. In response, it was suggested that CIJE not limit itself to communities where success is assured, as this will be less helpful in the long run. "Risk of failure is part of the game."

Assignment It was also noted that many people respond well to the opportunity to see themselves as part of an elite group. It was suggested that CIJE plan a special "invitation only" session at the 1995 GA in an attempt to attract the right people.

It was reported that plans are under way to study the impact of Jewish education on lay leaders by developing a program to work with graduates of the Wexner Heritage Program. Participants are young lay leaders who spend two years studying Jewish sources and who, it appears, do not necessarily become more involved in community activities following their studies. CIJE proposes to work with Wexner alumni, and perhaps to develop a module for inclusion in the Wexner Heritage Program curriculum. The module would deal with Jewish educational change as a focus for leadership development.

IV. Capacity Building

A. Building the Profession

Gail Dorph expanded on the workplan goal to develop a program of in-service training during 1995. She noted that the first step is to identify people who can provide the training, after which it can be institutionalized. The strategy is to develop a high-level cadre of people who can teach others to be teacher trainers on a local level. Described as a "virtual college," this group of educators would serve as mentors/trainers of local master teachers.

At the same time, it was noted that work with teachers can have little impact without the commitment of educational leaders. The Harvard Leadership Institute last October was a first effort to mobilize educational leaders. During 1995 this model will be used to plan similar work with other educational leaders.

Work on building the profession also involves work with currently active institutions of higher Jewish learning. CIJE is working with Brandeis University in its own planning process concerning its role in Jewish education in North America. Professor Walter Ackerman is examining the feasibility of a regional college of Jewish studies serving as an educational center to provide local service. CIJE continues to work with the denominational training institutions to determine how they can be supportive of the needs of local communities.

In discussion it was suggested that synagogues and day schools hire educators without respect to their personal denominational commitments. It may be that the involvement of the denominational training institutions is not critical to effective in-service training.

It was noted that the original expectation of wall to wall coalition has meant that individual synagogues are involved to some degree in CIJE's activities in the lead communities. Local synagogues do not wish to be left out as planning and implementation are undertaken.

B. Content and Program

Barry Holtz reported that the best practices project is intended to provide information and knowledge which can help with both building the profession and community mobilization. CIJE staff will continue to work during 1995 in disseminating the two Best Practice reports already completed so that they can serve as a resource for educators. In addition, a new report on best practices in the JCC arena is nearing completion as work begins on best practices in the teaching of Hebrew. Work will also be undertaken to identify "best available practice" in the area of in-service education, drawing on both Jewish and general education.

Daniel Pekarsky reported that work continues on the Goals Project, as seminars are developed for use in local communities. Work is now under way to identify individual institutions that wish to work on a goals project. A first step will be to identify and train people to serve as coaches to local goals efforts. It was reported that as a result of the Goals Seminar in Israel during 1994, Cleveland has started a course on goals identification with Walter Ackerman as the teacher. The intent is to develop community-wide goals for Hebrew language instruction.

It was reported that CIJE staff and consultants had just returned from a day of work in Atlanta with 70 lay leaders interested in establishing a Jewish high school in Atlanta. They had determined that the first step in this process is to develop a vision for the ideal graduate of such a school to serve as the starting point for planning. This was the purpose of the consultation, which was deemed a major success as the community now moves forward in its planning.

CIJE Steering Committee February 14, 1995

C. Senior Personnel

It was noted that there is a limited number of top level positions in Jewish education which are central to both planning and implementation of change in local communities and continentally. There is currently no comprehensive plan for senior personnel in North America. CIJE is beginning to think about this, in close consultation with the Mandel Institute in Jerusalem.

Annette Hochstein reported that the Mandel Institute has determined that there is insufficient capacity to train the senior personnel needed in North America and elsewhere. Few of the people in top level positions have been appropriately trained to fill them.

There are a number of organizations in Jerusalem that currently do train small numbers of people for senior positions. The Mandel Institute is considering what it would take to increase the capacity of these programs to train the number of people required. Work is under way to identify actual needs of individual communities and to develop a plan to address these senior personnel needs. It was initially thought that recruitment would be a stumbling block, but current efforts to recruit students to the existing programs have been stepped up and are resulting in many more qualified people than had been anticipated.

One possible outcome for this sort of training might be to develop a cadre of senior educators who could establish a similar, perhaps affiliated, training program in North America.

V. Research and MEF

Ellen Goldring reported that the MEF team had completed the study of educators and the publication of the policy brief in 1994. Work is now under way to complete a similar study of educational leaders to be completed prior to the April board meeting. Preliminary review suggests that a significant number of educational leaders do not possess the sort of training one might expect of people in positions of educational leadership.

It was noted that the MEF team has documented planning for action and organizing for action. If it is now to begin evaluating the action, itself, those involved must be challenged to articulate clear desired outcomes.

It was noted that monitoring, evaluation and feedback is a means to community mobilization.

We were reminded that each community needs an evaluation and research capacity. It is hoped that the work of CIJE in measuring outcomes of its own work > can serve as a model for individual communities. At the same time, it is important to note that the same need to build capacity to accomplish this work that has been pointed to in earlier segments of the meeting is also a serious issue in the area of research and evaluation.

> It was suggested that the first step in undertaking this capacity building is to develop a map of what is now available and what is desirable. We can then begin to think about what it would take to get there.

VI. Committee chairs and staff met over lunch to discuss issues related to their work. Summaries of those meetings are attached.

The meeting adjourned at 2:00 p.m., at which time the steering committee went into executive session.

SUMMARY OF COMMITTEE ON BUILDING THE PROFESSION

Date: February 14, 1995 Present: Gail Dorph, Annette Hochstein, Morton Mandel

Gail's report at the Steering Committee highlighted CIJE's plans for building the profession through building capacity for teacher and leadership training. The committee discussed some of the issues and challenges that emerge from the conceptualization of the plans to create a high quality cadre of teacher trainers to deliver in-service programs at the local and national level. A strategy was developed for thinking about the plan in a way that departs from Gail's presentation in the morning meeting.

The issues discussed included:

- The difficulty in getting sufficient time from the "Virtual College" faculty to actually use them as primary faculty for inservice programs.
- The challenge for CIJE to serve as a catalyst for in-service training if our plans only include an intervention at the highest level of educators.
- Isadore Twersky's suggestion to create a program for Master Teachers who would engage in the teaching of other teachers.

The strategy that emerged suggests beginning not only by identifying and working with the virtual college faculty but also with a larger pool of potential teacher trainers (including not only central agency personnel and principals, but also master teachers). This strategy addresses the concerns inherent in all the issues discussed. Gail will develop this strategy more fully and report back.

SUMMARY OF COMMITTEE ON COMMUNITY MOBILIZATION

Date: 2/14/95

Present: Steve Hoffman, Alan Hoffmann, Nessa Rapoport, Chuck Ratner, Richard Shatten

The meeting focused on two issues: CIJE's role at the 1995 GA; and the agenda for the next meeting of the board committee on community mobilization (April 27, 1995).

1995 GA: Discussion focused on our recognition from the 1994 GA that many of CIJE's key audiences--federation presidents and execs; senior staff and lay leaders of national organizations are at internal meetings at the same time that public programs take place. It was suggested that if we want to reach federation presidents and execs, we need to hold a meeting during the GA specifically for them.

Board Committee: At the October meeting, this committee discussed traditional ways the organized community has rallied around crises, and the different nature of the crisis in Jewish education (it is long-term, without quick fixes; it is not about the "rescue, relief and rehabilitation" of Jews abroad, but about ourselves).

In the current composition of the committee, several of its members represent national organizations whose mission is primarily or in part Jewish education. (The remainder are Lead Community representatives.) There was some discussion about the most fruitful way for this committee to think through questions of community mobilization around the CIJE agenda and vocabulary. One suggestion was to engage its members in looking at ways of "spreading the word" through the organizations represented around the table. Since in CIJE's design, the revitalization of Jewish education can only take place through our partnership with other national organizations, there was some discussion about whether this committee meeting could be a forum to explore those possibilities. It was agreed that there are inherent limitations of time and format to such an option.

The meeting concluded with the understanding that Nessa Rapoport would need to convene a further meeting shortly among these participants to continue to think through the appropriate agenda for this committee in future board meetings and throughout the year.

SUMMARY OF COMMITTEE ON CONTENT AND PROGRAM

Date: February 14, 1995

Present: John Colman, Seymour Fox, Barry Holtz, Daniel Pekarsky

The group reviewed a draft of a report to the full committee on CIJE's recent and future activities in the area of content and program. Most of our meeting was then spent in discussing possible directions the Goals Project might take and has been taking.

Three directions were identified:

- a) Efforts to work with institutions and to cultivate coaches who would be doing this kind of work;
- b) Efforts to introduce new communities/institutions to the basic ideas informing the Goals Project (via seminars like the one done in Jerusalem and the ones now being done in Milwaukee);
- c) The Community Goals agenda.

We ended with the suggestion that Dan Pekarsky prepare a brief oral presentation for the meeting of the full committee in April on the implications of pursuing these different routes, along with some discussion of the route(s) we have been pursuing.

SUMMARY OF COMMITTEE ON RESEARCH AND EVALUATION

Date: February 14, 1995 Participants: Esther Leah Ritz, Ellen Goldring

We reviewed the 1995 workplan for monitoring, evaluation and feedback. At present the MEF team is working on the report of educational leaders in the three Lead Communities and is completing a module for the study of educational personnel to be used by Jewish communities beyond the three Lead Communities.

Next we discussed whether MEF should begin to evaluate CIJE implementation projects, specifically the Goals Project and Personnel Action Plans. To date, MEF has documented the processes of 'organizing for action' in the three lead communities. We spoke about the complicated distinction between short term and long term indicators of evaluation. We also discussed the role of evaluation in relation to the other important strands of MEF's work: continuing the research agenda with more policy briefs and reports, and the need to embark on the study of informal education.

There will be a CIJE staff meeting on March 6 to help address these issues. After this staff meeting the agenda for the next board meeting will be addressed.

CIJE: A Catalyst for Change

aunched in 1990, the Council for Initiatives in Jewish Education (CIJE) is an independent organization dedicated to the revitalization of Jewish education across North America through comprehensive, systemic reform. Through strategic planning and the management of change, CIJE initiates reform by working in partnership with individual communities, local federations, continental organizations, denominational movements, foundations, and educational institutions. CIJE focuses on critical educational issues which will ultimately impact on the future of Jewish life, for Jewish education is a cornerstone of meaningful Jewish continuity.

The CIJE Strategic Agenda

CIJE was established to implement the recommendations of the Mandel Commission on Jewish Education in North America, a distinguished coalition of community and foundation leaders, scholars, educators, and rabbis from all denominations. After deliberating for eighteen months about how to "enlarge the scope, raise the standards, and improve the quality of Jewish education," the Commission concluded in June 1990 that educational reform depends foremost on the achievement of two vital tasks: building the profession of Jewish education and mobilizing community support for Jewish education and continuity. These are the building blocks of the CIJE agenda.

Building the Profession

Although there are many talented educators involved in Jewish education, the system suffers from a shortage of quality teachers, principals, educational directors, camp directors, and other professionals committed to the field, in both formal and informal settings. CIJE's efforts to enhance the Jewish educational profession are multi-pronged. On the local level, CIJE strategizes with communities to develop plans and initiate action to recruit new educators and to offer better salaries and benefits, ongoing professional development programs, and career track opportunities. Simultaneously, CIJE serves as an intermediary with universities, training institutions, and continental agencies to create innovative programs to build an infrastructure for attracting excellent people to the field.

Mobilizing Community Support

One essential element of community mobilization is significant new funding, another is leadership. CIJE promotes local efforts to attract a new generation of leaders committed to Jewish education and to recruit and build "wall-to-wall coalitions"—community leaders in tandem with educators, academic specialists, philanthropists, and rabbis, with all segments of the community represented—to support and sustain reform. CIJE also works to develop a cadre of leaders at the continental level who will be advocates for Jewish education.

o demonstrate these interrelated principles in concrete ways, CIJE has established lead communities — laboratories for change—where CIJE staff works closely with lay and professional leaders. In these cities, CIJE seeks to showcase the positive results that emerge when personnel and community issues in Jewish education are taken seriously. Atlanta, Baltimore, and Milwaukee were selected in Fall 1992 as the initial lead communities. CIJE's next step is to widen its efforts and form new partnerships, disseminating the lessons learned in the lead communities to communities across North America.

Reform Through Thoughtful Action

CIJE sees itself as an architect for reform planning an innovative strategic design for Jewish education and working with others to implement it. If building the profession and mobilizing community support are the foundations of CIJE's plan, its support projects are the pillars: +

Documenting Success— The Best Practices Project

Throughout North America there are examples of successful Jewish education—outstanding early childhood programs, supplementary schools, day schools, summer camps, adult education, and other venues of Jewish education that do work. CIJE researchers are identifying and documenting successful models; published guides based on their work analyze and explore how such models can be translated to other educational settings. Through the Best Practices Project, CIJE is furthering the understanding of the components of excellence.

Building "Vision-Driven" Institutions—The Goals Project

The Goals Project is a CIJE initiative toward the development and actualization of visions and goals for Jewish educational institutions. Some educational institutions have underlying, but often unspoken, visions of what they seek to accomplish; many others need to generate a comprehensive vision of their mission. When visions and goals are clarified, communicated, and put into action, they can play a significant role in shaping the educational experience. Through the Goals Project, CIJE engages educational institutions and the local community in a process of learning, reflection, and analysis to define their institutional vision, understand its educational implications, and use that knowledge in setting priorities and planning. An important aim of the Project is to create a climate in communities that encourages and supports serious attention to this process.

Creating a Framework for Educational Research

Ongoing analysis and research informs and supports all of CIJE's efforts. A leader in bringing professional tools of monitoring and evaluation to Jewish education, CIJE is involved with research on two levels: building a comprehensive research agenda for Jewish education and using cutting-edge techniques to evaluate its ongoing projects in the field. In its work with the lead communities, CIJE moves responsively from research to analysis to action.

CIJE At Work: A New Vision of Jewish Education

CIJE's staff includes experienced educators, consultants, and internationally-renowned experts in the areas of Jewish and general education, community planning, Judaic Studies, educational philosophy, research, leadership, and organizational change. They bring the latest thinking in their fields to the endeavor of Jewish education.

Engaged in efforts with communities across North America and with a wide range of communal organizations, foundations, universities, and denominational movements, CIJE is bringing together a new alliance of talented people committed to its agenda of Jewish educational reform. CIJE is forging new connections, developing effective means to join forces toward a common goal. Through its innovative approach and strategic partnerships, CIJE seeks to demonstrate the significant breakthroughs that are possible when funding, planning, and leadership coalesce on behalf of Jewish education.

FACING THE CRITICAL CHALLENGE

מכון מַנדֶל

We are witnessing a profound change in the agenda of the Jewish people. Within a relatively short period, Jewish communities all over the world have agreed that the critical challenge of our age is to take positive action through education to ensure meaningful Jewish continuity.

A powerful expression of this was the Commission for Jewish Education in North America. In its path breaking report, forty four outstanding community leaders, scholars, educators and rabbis concluded:

L hroughout history Jews have faced dangers from without with courage and steadfastness; now a new kind of commitment is required. The Jews of North America live in an open society that presents an unprecedented range of opportunities and choices. This extraordinary environment confronts us with what is proving to be an historic dilemma: while we cherish our freedom as individuals to explore new horizons, we recognize that this very freedom poses a dramatic challenge to the future of the Jewish way of life. The Jewish community must meet the challenge at a time when young people are not sure of their roots in the past or of their identity in the future. There is an urgent need to explore all possible ways to ensure that Jews maintain and strengthen the commitments that are central to Judaism".

That we have arrived at a situation in which the future continuity of the majority of the Jewish people is in doubt, was brought starkly into relief by the findings of the Council of Jewish Federation's 1990 National Jewish Population Survey. These findings show that, since 1985, out of every three marriage ceremonies involving Jews in the USA, only one was a celebration in which both of the partners were Jewish.

The challenge is to create an environment in which to ha lawish. To do this all the forces Jews will choose to be Jewish. To do this all the forces of the community will have to be rallied in a combined assault on the problem. In the vanguard will be education and community leadership - education as the critical instrument and community leadership the mobilizing force to address the most serious issue facing the Jewish people today.

Forging a response to this challenge is the mission of the Mandel Institute in Jerusalem.

THE ROLE OF THE MANDEL INSTITUTE

L he Mandel Institute was established in Jerusalem in December 1990 by the Mandel family of Cleveland, Ohio, as a center for the advanced study and development of Jewish education. It was founded on the premise that the way to address the problem of ensuring meaningful Jewish continuity is by helping communities plan strategically to deal with this issue, articulating powerful ideas and recruiting outstanding community and professional leadership. These, in turn, will help Jewish education to find its proper role in the community. This combination of people and ideas is seen as the best means for enhancing a process that will lead to systematic change in Jewish education. The Institute is a place in which new programs based on innovative ideas will be planned and implemented, and existing programs that have proven themselves will be further developed.

In the three years since its creation the Mandel Institute has been involved in a number of major educational initiatives both in the Diaspora and in Israel, each one concerned with aspects of ensuring meaningful Jewish continuity through people and ideas. In its brief existence the Institute has:

Served as a key consultant for the Commission on Jewish Education in North America and for the implementation of its findings through the Council for Initiatives in Jewish Education (CIJE) T

L he senior staff of the Mandel Institute was responsible for co-ordinating the work of the Commission on Jewish Education in North America, from the initial design of the process through a two year period of research, consultation and discussion, leading to the publication of the Commission's report, "A Time to Act" in November 1990, and the subsequent immediate creation of the CIJE, launched to implement the Commission's recommendations.

he Commission identified building a profession of Jewish education, mobilizing community support and developing a research capability as the building blocks for Jewish educational renewal in North America. The Institute has served as a consultant to the CIJE and particularly its Lead Communities project as it has developed the infrastructure through which its ambitious program can be implemented.

> Established the School for Educational Leadership in Jerusalem

In 1991 Israel's Minister of Education and Culture turned to the Mandel Institute for consultation in addressing the need for training additional outstanding educational leaders. There are 120,000 educators in Israel and it is generally agreed that 1,000 of these, by virtue of the positions they hold, decide policy and influence the outcomes of Israel's educational system. The Mandel Institute studied this problem and ultimately recommended to the Minister the establishment of a School for Educational Leadership to train the professionals for key positions in the educational system. The Institute then recruited two additional founding partners - the Doron/Rich foundations and Mr. Felix Posen - to join together with the Mandel Associated Foundations and the Ministry of Education in the establishment of the school.

he response to this initiative has been outstanding, with thousands of applicants applying to be accepted as one of the 40 students who study each year at the school. The Institute recruited the teaching staff, designed the curriculum and continues in its role as consultant to the school. The first graduating class takes up a range of key senior positions within the Israeli educational system in the Fall of 1994.

Created a deliberation worldwide amongst outstanding scholars and educators concerning the aims and purposes of Jewish education he Institute has brought together some of the world's leading scholars in Jewish thought, education and the social sciences to think about alternative visions that could energize Jewish education. A two year process of deliberation is now nearing completion and a volume will soon be published which presents the outcomes of these discussions and portrays a number of alternative visions of a successful Jewish education and their implications for practice.

WORK IN PROGRESS

hough the mission of the Mandel Institute is the enhancement of meaningful Jewish continuity, it is continuously reviewing and revising its agenda. The Institute is committed to a problem solving approach rather than to any particular set of projects. For this reason it may choose to play any one of a number of roles, ranging from strategic planning, research and development, to program design and implementation, as it serves the Jewish world in addressing the critical challenge facing the Jewish people in our time.

A mongst the many important priorities, the Institute is currently focussing its attention on three basic building blocks for Jewish education worldwide, without which real change will not be possible: to recruit and nurture a larger cadre of talented and committed senior professionals for Jewish education, to establish a knowledge base that will enrich the decision making process, and to mobilize community support by recruiting outstanding community leaders to the cause of Jewish education.

Senior Personnel Development

In the area of senior personnel development, the Institute is offering consultation to some of the existing successful initiatives, such as the Jerusalem Fellows program, which are training professional leadership for Jewish education, and also developing additional approaches to correct a chronic shortfall in the quantity and quality of professional Jewish educational leadership worldwide. Building knowledge, ideas and understanding in Jewish education

In the belief that there could be created a greater organized and analyzed body of knowledge and understanding which would enrich the decision making process in Jewish education, the Institute is building a knowledge base and intelligence gathering network. Knowledge of many kinds is critical to Jewish education if it is to address problems thoughtfully. Because it is committed to the idea that policy and planning in the field of Jewish education must be based on solid foundations, the Institute is creating a unit to identify, collect, analyze and communicate knowledge effectively in key areas such as personnel, alternative goals and visions, and ways of developing a closer partnership between educational professionals and community leaders.

Mobilizing outstanding community leaders for Jewish education

L he task of recruiting and engaging senior volunteer community leadership for Jewish education is essential if the commitment to Jewish continuity is to be translated into a real program for renewal. Such individuals must be encouraged to contribute their wisdom, influence, power and resources to this challenge. The Institute is currently engaged in creating close links with key leaders and institutions to develop a more effective partnership between senior professionals and community leaders in Jewish education.

THE MANDEL INSTITUTE IN JERUSALEM

The Mandel Institute is governed by a Board of Directors who work with a group of senior professionals in Jewish education and a panel of outstanding academicians and thinkers in the fields of Jewish thought, Jewish and general education, policy studies and the social sciences to develop ideas, build institutions and offer consultation to projects and to communities.

1995 Workplan on Monitoring, Evaluation, and Feedback March 8th Version

- I. Building a Research Capacity in North America
 - A. Conducting high-quality research
 - 1. Writing the full integrated report on teachers in the lead communities
 - Writing reports on educational leaders in the lead communities (in each lead community, and combined)
 - Possibly additional policy briefs -- to be decided -- possible topics: salaries/benefits, leaders
 - Research papers on teacher power, teacher in-service, and levers for change in extent of in-service
 - B. Convening a consultation on the necessary infrastructure and/or preferred objectives of research on Jewish education in the United States, probably in the context of the Board Subcommittee on Research and Evaluation.
- II. Building an Evaluation Capacity in North America
 - A. The CIJE Module for the Study of Educators
 - Produce via desk-top publishing a module for studying Jewish educators in a community.
 - a. Survey instrument
 - b. Interview protocol
 - c. Instructions for both
 - 2. Will identify anchor items to be used in a national data base.
 - B. Dissemination of the module -- The preferred design also addresses the broader need for creating a capacity for evaluation in North American communities: A three-tiered seminar on evaluation.
 - 1. First tier -- for high-level community consultants, e.g. Sam Weinburg.
 - Second tier -- for committed lay leaders and federation professionals, e.g. Chuck Ratner, Mark Gurvis.
 - Third tier -- for persons who will be entering and analyzing survey data, and/or conducting interviews.

- 4. Note: this plan falls somewhere between options 2 (centralized agency) and 3 (comprehensive package) from the memo of Feb.9. It has a central address (CIJE), and it offers a comprehensive package, but also provides consultation in implementing the package. Moreover it develops the local capacity to implement and interpret the module.
- C. What the Evaluation Seminar would need to get off the ground.
 - 1. A CIJE staff member to coordinate it -- probably a new half-time position.
 - 2. New York staff responsibilities
 - a. test the market -- is this what our clients want?
 - b. hire the coordinator
 - c. work with the coordinator, do some of the teaching
 - 3. MEF staff responsibilities
 - a. work with the coordinator, do some of the teaching, write much of the curriculum (at least for the first year).
- D. Scope of the program
 - 1. In year one -- focus on the module for the study of educators
 - In subsequent years -- work on the other areas -- to be determined based on decisions on CIJE's future initiatives.
 - Client needs may require a broader curriculum in the first year. However, it is not clear whether we will have the capacity to offer a broader curriculum yet.
- III. Evaluating Our Own Work
 - A. Options we rejected
 - After discussion, we decided not to evaluate the Personnel Action Plans per se. We decided the evaluation would be largely trivial, the Plans may well be flawed, and the evaluation would be too process-oriented and not sufficiently outcome-oriented.
 - 2. We also decided not to take a direct hand in evaluating programs such as Machon L'Morim. We are not confident enough about the scope, content, and quality of such programs to make the evaluation fully worthwhile for our own purposes. However, we will encourage and provide consultation for such programs to include evaluation components of their own.

- B. Options we accepted
 - We decided that CIJE's MEF team should evaluate CIJE's two major initiatives: The training of trainers, and the training of goals coaches.
 - 2. Exactly what this evaluation entails needs to be developed. The first step is for the NY staff (for training of trainers) and Dan Pekarsky (for training of goals coaches) to articulate the objectives of the programs, and tell us where and when the programs are taking place, so we can begin to design an evaluation.

IV. Planning for the Future

- A. New York staff will consider what future policy issues they want to undertake, so MEF staff can produce relevant information. E.g.'s -- salaries/benefits; characteristics of leaders; community mobilization. First, MEF staff will provide a menu of possible topics.
- B. Informal education -- MEF staff will work on conceptualization for policy research on informal education
- C. Possible Jerusalem seminar on CIJE: What have we learned from three years of MEF?
 - -- about mobilizing communities
 - -- about creating and working as a change agent
 - -- about conducting MEF in communities
 - -- The purpose of the seminar would be to take a step back and assess where we have been and what we have learned over the last three years. It is intended for staff and close advisors. One product of the seminar would be a summary document about what we have learned, for our internal use and for orienting new advisory committee members. A research paper might also result from the seminar, but we are not sure about that.
 - Running this seminar would take a substantial investment of planning time from MEF staff.
- V. Products -- the original list of seven products remains, but one item has been deleted: Item #5, Reports on Personnel Action Plans and on vision-driven institutions in the Lead Communities will not be done. Instead, there will be some sort of evaluation report on the training of trainers and the training of goals coaches. The new list of products is:
 - 1. Research paper: "Teachers in Jewish Schools" (analysis of survey data from three communities). Deadline: July.

- 2. Policy Brief -- TO BE DECIDED
- Reports on the characteristics of educational leaders: One for each community, and one on all three communities. Deadlines: May.
- 4. Research papers: One on teacher power, another on the quality of inservice experiences.
- Reports on training of trainers and on training of goals coaches -- OBJECTIVES AND PLAN TO BE SPECIFIED.
- 6. Module for "Studying Educators in a Jewish Community." Deadline: April 1.
- Proposal for collecting data on Leading Indicators, in response to decisions of the CIJE implementation staff.

GUIDELINES FOR CIJE AFFILIATED COMMUNITIES

PREFACE

CIJE is an independent organization dedicated to the revitalization of Jewish education across North America through comprehensive, systemic reform. In November 1990, the Commission on Jewish Education in North America released A Time to Act, a report calling for dramatic change in the scope, standards, and the quality of Jewish education on this continent. It concluded that -- whatever the setting or age group -- the revitalization of Jewish education will depend on two essential tasks: 1) building the profession of Jewish education; and 2) mobilizing community support for Jewish education. CIJE was established to implement the Commission's conclusions.

Created as a catalyst for change, CIJE promotes reform by working in partnership with individual communities, local federations and central agencies, continental organizations, denominational movements, foundations, and educational institutions.
