Dear Colleague:

I am pleased to enclose two policy reports, The Teachers Report and The Leaders Report. Together they present a comprehensive portrait of teachers and leaders in Jewish schools.

These reports, based on the Study of Educators conducted by the Mandel Foundation (formerly CIJE), are the result of our survey of all teachers and leaders in the pre-schools, supplementary schools and day schools of Atlanta, Baltimore and Milwaukee.

The Teachers Report includes data on nearly 1,000 teachers and in-depth interviews with 100 educators. The Leaders Report presents data from 77 surveys of school leaders and 58 in-depth interviews. Both were conducted under the supervision of Dr. Adam Gamoran, Professor of Sociology and Educational Policy Studies at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, and Dr. Ellen Goldring, Professor of Educational Leadership at Peabody College, Vanderbilt University.

The publication on teachers offers the full research data from which the CIJE Policy Brief: Background and Professional Training of Teachers in Jewish Schools was developed. The Leaders Report is being distributed for the first time.

We hope that the two reports generate discussion regarding building the profession of Jewish education, including such important issues as background and training, recruitment, benefits and career paths. Since subsequent surveys based on the Study of Educators have confirmed the data of these reports, we also hope to provide a solid base for policy makers who are shaping the Jewish education of the future.

Sincerely,

I am pleased to enclose The Teachers Report and The Leaders Report.

The reports, along with the Policy Brief on the Background and Training of Teachers in Jewish Schools (CIJE: 1994), offer the results of our Study of Educators that surveyed all teachers and leaders in the pre-schools, supplementary schools and day schools of Atlanta, Baltimore and Milwaukee.

The Teachers Report includes data on nearly 1,000 teachers and in-depth interviews with 100 educators. The Leaders Report presents, for the first time, data from 77 surveys of school leaders (principals) and 58 in-depth interviews. Both were conducted under the supervision of Dr. Adam Gamoran, Professor of Sociology and Educational Policy Studies at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, and Dr. Ellen Goldring, Professor of Educational Leadership at Peabody College, Vanderbilt University.

These publications were distributed recently to senior professionals in the field of Jewish education. The reports include data on such important issues as background and training, salary and benefits, recruitment and career paths.

The Study of Educators continues to be the largest research study in the field of Jewish education in North America. This "research for policy" has been the source of hard data for many newspaper and magazine articles on the profession of Jewish education; the basis for a range of academic articles in journals of both Jewish and general education; and a catalyst and model for additional communities who are now studying their educators.

We continue to receive requests for these reports, as well as requests from additional communities who want to use our survey instruments—most recently, Denver. Communities that have already used our study include Cincinnati, Chicago, Cleveland, Columbus, Kansas City and Seattle. The findings confirm and amplify our own.

Our study is providing the data and raising the critical questions for the policy makers shaping Jewish education for the future.
