DECEMBER 1990/TEVETH

MESSAGE FROM THE RABBI

The Teaneck Interfaith Clergy Council has been playing a quiet but significant role in town since Phillip Pannell's death last April at the hands of Patrolman Gary Spath.

As the months have rolled by, elements in Teaneck have used the tragedy to polarize its citizenry to threatening and dangerous proportions. The delay of a grand jury decision on Officer Spath's conduct has allowed long festering resentments to burst through the Township's placid surface. Today, almost everybody in Teaneck is either for or against Gary Spath, either enraged at one's neighbor or at the police.

Throughout these months, the Teaneck Clergy Council has assiduously avoided aligning itself with any politically active group. Instead, it has quietly shared its moral positions with Township and police officials. It has tried to maintain a sense of community while at the same time offering a series of opportunities for talking through the resentments that separate us from one another. To that end, it has created and run, to date, four community dialogues in which some two to three hundred people have participated. Breaking into small groups, those invited have been urged by fellow citizens acting as facilitators to share their understanding of what Teaneck truly is, their anxieties of what Teaneck might become if truth and justice are not forthcoming, and their hopes for the immediate and long range future. The Teaneck Clergy Council continues to do this in the only truly effective way, without fanfare, without media hype.

I think that it is making a significant contribution to the practical implications of what it means to live in a pluralistic, democratic society.

That's exactly what the late Rev. George de Lawter of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and I hoped for and envisioned when we worked hard in 1964 to create the Teaneck Clergy Council. In the chaotic aftermath of the Kennedy assassination, the loss of American innocence sparked a depressed and enraged mood in Teaneck not too unlike the mood affecting us today. Mr. de Lawter and I urged our colleagues to begin to heal our own clergical selves by learning to talk with each other. Thus, the Interfaith Clergy Council was spawned. It has primarily served as a locus for professional fellowship and for learning about our mutual traditions. Occasionally, when communal issues of moment called for it, it has tried to offer a unified moral voice that makes for reconciliation.

In 1990 and in 1991, it continues to play that unheralded role.

PRESIDENTS COLUMN

When one holds high office, in this case the presidency of a synagogue, advice is proffered from many quarters and takes many forms. We're chided for certain decisions and lauded for others. We're told we need to delegate to provide proper leadership training. We're asked to consider fund-raising schemes then told there is too much emphasis on fund-raising.

The single advice that prevails, however, is that "you cannot expect to please all of the people all of the time". For the past year and a half we have endeavored to accept this intellectually while laboring long and hard to prove that "it just ain't so". This must be a grave personality quirk but one we share, for it is extrememly painful for eitherk one of us to view a disgruntled congregant.

Of course we cannot truly keep such a diverse congregation content and satisfied all of the time. However, the disire to please everyone is a powerful motivator and so we are compelled to try! But how can we meet the needs if we don't know them? How can we change policies, procedures and programs if we don't know your attitudes towards them? How can we celebrate your simchas unless you share them with us? How can we lend support to a family in crisis unless you keep us informed? We urge you to keep the advice and suggestions and thoughts flowing in our direction. Communicate! Only with your help can we continue to be effective.

Micki and Diane

CELEBRATE SHABBAT WITH A FRIEND!!!!!

Celebrate Shabbat with a friend and do a double mitzvah! January 11, 1991 at 8:30 PM, we urge you to join with us for our annual Bring-A-Friend Shabbat. This is the time to share your love of Temple Emeth with friends and neighbors. Invite them to celebrate the warmth of Shabbat in the Emeth tradition with our Temple family. Do a double mitzvah...one for them, and one for you. Micki and Diane

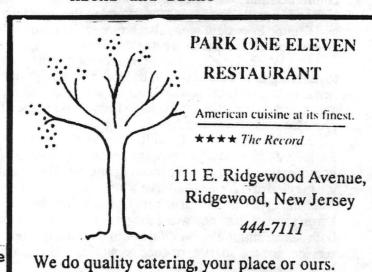

BROTHERHOOD DINNER-DANCE

Brotherhood's Paid-Up-Membership Harvest Moon Dinner Dance on November 17 proved to be a great success. quests enjoyed a wonderful catered dinner, which included a cocktail hour and a Viennese table with luscious desserts; dancing to the music of Dennis John; and most of all the fun and camaraderie of being with friends. Four lucky auction winners went home with prizes as well.

Our thanks to Carla Silver, Sy and Sydelle Yegelwel, Stewart and Betsey Silverman, Muriel Pader, Fred Berg, Pauline Hecht and Leo Schneider for their assistance.

NEWS FROM OUR RELIGIOUS SCHOOL

During Back to School weekend parents had the opportunity to visit their children's classes, get to know the teachers, and hear an overview of the curriculum. Parent-teacher conferences which followed afforded parents the opportunity to learn of their child's individual progress. Communication between school and home and parent involvement and interest, continue to be an indispensable link in the chain of successful Jewish education.

Our library program is off to a successful start. Kindergarten through fourth graders are treated to a storytime conducted by Gloria Jerome or May Fesman, congregants of Temple Emeth and professional librarians. Youngsters then have an opportunity to borrow books to take home. Interest in this activity is high.

NEWS FROM OUR NURSERY SCHOOL

Our annual Nursery School Service and Shabbat Dinner was held on Friday, November 9. More than 100 people participated in a brief service followed by a Shabbat dinner. An after-dinner program in which each class sang a few songs topped off the evening.

Everyone was busy as can be for days cooking and preparing for our Thanksgiving celebration. A veritable feast was held in our multi-purpose room as all classes joined together for this festive occasion.

REFLECTIONS ON THE BIENNIAL

Probably because I was a "first-timer" and a relatively new member of Temple Emeth's executive board, I was asked to give you my impressions of the recent UAHC Regional Biennial Convention, from which I returned yesterday. It is fortunate that the request was for "my impressions" rather than a report, because it will be some time before my brain can assimilate the jumble of ideas, questions, information and, yes, inspiration that comprised this past weekend. At this point, all I can offer is a collage of fragments and feelings.

If, as they say, "pride goeth before a fall", I'd better watch my step, because I was up to my eyebrows in pride in our temple. Twenty Temple Emeth people attended all or part of the convention, possibly the largest delegation of any synagogue including those with as many as 700 families. Three from our "family" were present in a working capacity, Dru Greenwood as UAHC Associate Director of the Commission on Reform Jewish Outreach, Fran Hyman as an outgoing member of the UAHC national board and of the convention planning committee and Dan Kirsch, who was installed as a newly-elected trustee of the UAHC New Jersey-West Hudson Valley Council. Fran was recognized with a special award for so many years of devotion to the Union. Rabbi Sigel and Cantor Bornstein were also honored, by being asked to offer the invocation and Birkat Hamazon (blessings after the meal), respectively, for the Saturday night banquet. How could I not feel proud!?

What else did I feel? Great emotion, the same kind of "coming home" that hits when you land in Israel. I love living in a secular world, but there is something restorative, one might say, about being knee-deep in Jews - tall Jews, short Jews, fat Jews, skinny Jews, chic and coifed, plain and frumpy and somewhere-in-the middle Jews, smart and dumb (there must have been some somewhere!) Jews, Jews by birth, Jews by choice and Jews by profession. I reveled in Jews!

I must mention as well, a wonderful underlying (sometimes "overlying") constant: that amid workshops on subjects as diverse as long-range planning, fund-raising, ethics, music, staffing, intermarriage, Israel, homosexuality, leadership training and membership, there was always a sense of spirituality. It never left, even as we giggled at a L'cha Dodi that sounded like a cowboy tune of inwardly groaned at a rabbi who sounded a bit too "rabbinical". I was so struck by the unending search for the way to best utilize the secular in support of the sacred. I won't forget that, nor will I forget the warmth generated by the sight of a bima-full of rabbis and cantors, all ages, both sexes, singing Adon Olam with their arms around each other at the conclusion of the Saturday morning service, nor the sharing of success stories and dilemmas with fellow Jews from Poughkeepsie to Parsippany, from New City to Atlantic City.

If you are among those who persist in viewing Reform as a lesser form of Judaism, you must come along next time to witness for yourself the intensive love, commitment and searching, always searching, that are our heart and soul. You'll never be quite the same - at least I won't.

FROM THE MAIL BOX

Dear Rabbi Sigel,

On behalf of the Jersey City Religious Professional Association, please accept our deepest expressions of gratitude to you and Reverend Davidson for coming to Jersey City to enrich our first meeting by sharing of your perspectives, insights and wisdom.

We all found your framing of the issues and concerns in the development of your Interfaith Clergy Association most helpful in confronting our own.

Finally we feel quite positive about our efforts here knowing that your association has confronted similar problems and concerns.

We at this time have our interfaith Thanksgiving service in place. It will focus upon local environmental concerns, such as the oil spills in the Arthur Kill, the chromium contamination of much of our land and the air pollution. We have numerous clergy persons who have expressed interest in participating at this time, and we are delighted.

Again, thank you so much for taking time to share with us.

B'shalom, Rabbi J.B. Sacks

Dear Mr. & Mrs. Silverman:

Congratulations! The Achievement Awards Committee has chosen the Temple Emeth Brotherhood in Teaneck as the winner for Overall Programming Excellence, in the medium class category.

The award will be presented in Washington, DC at the 33rd Biennial Convention on Thursday, November 8.

We trust that you or someone from your brotherhood is planning to be with us in order to receive the award personally. We are also planning to take your material to Washington and exhibit it.

We want to thank you for your good work and hope you will continue to be an exemplar to others.

Yours, in Brotherhood, Malvin Peck, Douglas Smith, Irwin Cowan, Co-chairmen Achievement Awards Committee, National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods

TO ADAM ON YOUR BAR MITZVAH Parents and grandparents Share a common wish That you will grow to be a "mensch" Not just a taller "ish" But a mensch you are already On this happy day So here's a few more wishes To send you on your way I wish you good health.. "l'chaim" And more things I wish for you The courage to deal with misfortune And may your misfortunes be few A satisfying field of work At which I know you'll succeed And to hold yourself in high esteem It's important...hope you will heed I wish you good friends to rely on As they may rely on you A very valuable part of life As I know well to be true And last but not least, dear Adam A worthy and loving bride And love that grows as time goes by As you go through life side by side

Rabbi Sigel

Dear Lou,

I wanted to personally thank you for the moving invocation you offered during our recent regional Biennial Convention. You appropriately captured the mood of the moment, and set a tone that helped us keep our Convention on target.

The weekend was an important moment in the life of our Region and its member congregations. Never before have so many Reform Jews in our area gathered together in one place to learn from one another. You helped give the gathering a spiritual dimension, reminding the delegates of our true goals in building strong congregations.

Please accept my sincere thanks for all the effort you put into helping make our convention such an outstanding success.

With appreciation,

Rabbi Daniel Freelander UAHC Regional Director

15,000 ETHIOPIAN JEWS SICK AND STARVING IN ADDIS ABABA

15,000 Jewish refugees are in Ethiopia's capital waiting for exit visas to go to Israel; Jews packed hovels not fit for animals, erratic weather; blazing sun - rainstorms - bitterly cold nights unpaved streets - rivers of mud, no heat, no sanitation; up to twelve people in a tiny room: babies, old people, hungry, sick. How many die?

The only hope is the visa to Israel, but very few visas are issued in spite of the dedicated work by the Israeli Embassy staff, as the Government of Ethiopia will not cooperate.

Only $36 will feed a family of four for a whole week.

The Social Action Committee has donated $100 from contributions made to the Social Action Fund.

CHANUKAH

On Tuesday evening, December 11, Jews all over the world lit the first candle of Chanukah and publically proclaimed the miracle of light.

These eight days of Chanukah are a time of wonder, spirituality and We remember our struggles against tyrants of the past. We link ourselves to the chain of Jewish tradition and renew our committment to ensure the future of Judaism.

Most Jewish holidays are celebrated communally in the synagogue. But Chanukah is almost exclusively a home and family celebration. Long lasting Jewish memories are created. Our families gather on each of the eight nights to light the candles of the chanukiyah (Chanukah menorah), recite the blessings, and retell the story of the Maccabee's struggle to be allowed to live as Jews.

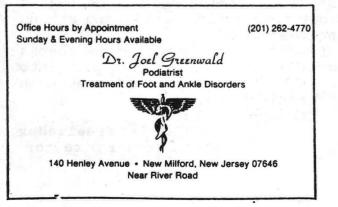

Judah and his brothers made a difficult choice: to remain Jewish when assimilation into the larger Hellenic culture was easier and the accepted norm. Because of their determination to retain their Jewishness, we have the opportunity to live as Jews today.

By celebrating Chanukah with our families, we continue their struggle and give ourselves, our children, and those who wish to join in our tradition, the opportunity to make Jewish choices for the future.

The Social Action Committee is busy with many meaningful activities to help in our small way to make this community a better place. We need volunteers for some projects which include friendly visitors and English tutors, who will be trained, to work with newly arrived Russian emigres. Volunteers are also needed for the Family Shelter for the Homeless (Dec 28,29,30,31,Jan 1,2) on a nightly basis, and for Temple Emeth's Overflow Shelter Program (January, February and March: Sunday nights). Those who are new volunteers can be trained at a meeting December 6 in Hackensack. Volunteers are also needed at the Center For Food Action in Englewood (569-1804) and for prospective volunteers (call: 489-7066).

SEPHARDIC MEMORIES AND MEMORABILIA SOUGHT

In preparation of the 1992 five hundred year commemoration of the expulsion of Spanish Jews from Spain, The Institute for Living Arts Committee would like to hear from any Temple members who are of Sephardic background. We expect to be working with other Temple Committees on celebrating the wealth of Sephardic culture, and would appreciate hearing from members whose family roots are in the areas to which Jews were scattered. Recipes, songs and stories, holiday celebrations and customs are all of interest as we collect ideas.

JUDAICA SHOP

Please remember to visit our Temple gift shop first before going elsewhere for that special gift that you need. Our shop is stocked with lovely gift items for holiday gift giving as well as items for year round.

We have a beautiful array of custom photo albums for Bar or Bat Mitzvah, new baby, anniversary, etc. At least three weeks notice is necessary. We also have a lovely collection of mezzuzahs.

Our Judaica Shop is open Monday through Thursday 9-5 and Friday 9-12. Our friendly office staff will be happy to assist you in choosing that special gift item that you are looking for. Judaica Shop Committee

LIVING ARTS COMMITTEE PRESENTS DRAMATIC READING

What do Adam and Eve and Albert Einstein have in common? Readers Theatre can bring them all magically to life.

What is Readers Theatre? Readers Theatre happens when enthusiastic performers share an inspiring text with an audience. You could call it Theatre of the Imagination—and you know anything is possible in the world of your imagination.

Come see for yourself on Friday, January 25. Join us for services. At the Oneg Shabbat that follows, your fellow Temple members will enrich the evening with some delightful dramatic readings. From the charming Yiddishkeit of "Julius Pasternak and the Einstein Letter" to the incisive wit of Mark Twain's "Diaries of Adam and Eve", you will find yourself involved and entertained.

Marion Wolf, who has directed numerous Readers Theatre presentations, is adapting and directing the Emeth program.

LET'S HEAR IT FOR SUPER SUNDAY

UJC's Super Sunday will be held on January 13 at both the JCC on the Palisades in Tenafly and the YM-YWHA of Bergen County in Washington Township.

Super Sunday is the largest communitywide fund-raising event of the year. The funds raised on this day help support educational, social and humanitarian programs for Jews in Israel, Bergen County, North Hudson and thirty-two other countries throughout the world.

Your participation is vital to the success of this day. Thousands of volunteers are needed to work on Super Sunday and we urge you to join others from Temple

Emeth.

If you haven't already registered for Super Sunday, please call the UJC office, 488-6000, ext. 315.
