THE PLANKS WE STAND ON

he bagels were fresh. The juice was cold. The questions were challenging. And the conversation was lively. It was my visit with our fourth graders for what has, in recent years, become something of a tradition in our Religious School — Breakfast with the Rabbi. I look forward to my visits with our children. They become opportunities for conversation and learning (in all directions). The questions at my recent visit with fourth grade revolved around God. But, as is often the case, the discussion wandered off in a number of other directions as well. One of the directions was the meaning of religious education, Bar/Bat Mitzvah, and Confirmation. One young student raised her hand and offered that Confirmation was not in the picture for her. Her parents had promised that she needed only to work her way towards her Bat Mitzvah — no more.

Friends, this is certainly nothing new to me. I have encountered this — we all have — in ourselves and in others. It was not the statement that struck me so much as the reality that I can't remember ever having heard it in one so young — a fourth grader.

As this bulletin reaches you, we approaching the end of our reading and study of the book of Exodus. The book concludes with the description of Moses and the Israelites building the Mishkan — the Tabernacle, repository for the tablets which represent God's gift of Torah to Israel, and which represents God's Presence in the very midst of the Israelite community. If you look at the list of building mate rials the Israelites are commanded to use in constructing the Mishkan, it is hard not to be struck by the diversity of materials: gold, silver, bronze; blue, purple, and scarlet yarns; fine linen, goats' hair, rams' skins dyed red, goats' skins, acacia wood, and more which they are commanded to use in building the Tabernacle. Even more perplexing is the question, Where did they get all this stuff in the wilderness? Well, there are many answers, which I'll not share now. But there is one response, with respect to the acacia wood, which is precious, as it is relevant.

The rabbis teach that the Israelites had brought acacia wood with them as they departed from Egypt. Why would they have thought to bring acacia wood with them in their hasty departure from Egypt? They teach that the children of Israel brought this wood because it had been set aside for them by their ancestor Jacob.

When Jacob went down into Egypt he said to himself: "Someday God will redeem my children from here, and God will command them to build a sanctuary so that God may dwell in their midst. They will need some nice planks of old-growth acacia for this purpose." So Jacob planted acacia, trees in the land of Goshen.

And Jacob instructed that the trees be cut down when they were ready and made into planks. And the rabbis point out that we should note that the Torah does not say "they shall make planks", but, "they shall make THE planks." Which planks were these? They are, say our teachers, the very ones that our father Jacob had planted and prepared for them long ago.

If we wish to pass on Judaism to the generations to come, it is incumbent upon us to lay the groundwork for their study of, commitment to and living of Judaism. We must prepare the planks on which they will stand in leading their lives as committed Jews. Our children must learn from us to appreciate the importance and beauty of studying, wrestling with and living by the teachings of our rich heritage. They learn it in many ways. They learn it when we take time and expend effort to teach it to them. And they learn it as well, when we're not looking. They learn it from what we say and from what we do. They learn it, in the margins, when we teach them that Judaism and Jewish study are a temporary involvement, rather than a life-long pursuit.

Like our father Jacob, we should far sighted in considering the needs of Jews far into the future — our children, grand-children and the generations to come. Ask yourself, What am I doing to prepare "planks of acacia wood" for the generations to come? How are you helping them to build a house for God so that God may dwell in our midst? $\phi$.

Temple Emeth Environment Committee Report no.

Buyer Beware.

- A staggering 10% of all species of animal life on earth are endangered. In the quest for more profits we've even threatened cherished creatures like elephants and dolphins.
- Don't buy ivory under any circumstances. Also, don't buy tortoiseshell, coral, reptile skins, cat pelts or other products from endangered animals.
- More than 6.5 million dolphins have been needlessly killed by tuna fishermen using circular "purse seine" nets. Check to make sure that the tuna you buy is labeled "dolphin-safe".

BASED ON "50 SIMPLE THINGS YOU CAN DO TO SAVE THE EARTH"

Many of our congregants have asked me where we are in our Tradition and omorrow renovation and expansion project. I am happy to say, that we have just had our hearing with the Teaneck Planning Board, and that our plans have been approved! We will now be able to have our architects complete their plans and we will be able to begin the bidding process with contractors.

We do know from what our cost estimates are (of course we won't know for sure until we go out to bid) and what our congregation has so generously given to our Tradition and Tomorrow campaign, that we have not yet reached the goal necessary to do all that we had hoped to do. If you have been think! ng about the part that you will play in this project, haven't yet decided—now is the time to actl. We very much need your participation. In the months ahead we will possibly have very difficult decisions to make as to what to eliminate or delay from what we think is a "just perfect as is" plan we have now. So if you've been waiting-please do make your pledge now as generously as you can!!

You cannot imagine how many hours and how much work has gone into the process of bringing the plans before the Teaneck planning Board. The executive committee and Board of Trustees have had extra meetings, and our dynamic team of Ted Greenwood, Micki Grunstein, David Paul, David Fox, Michael Farhi and our dynamo Rabbi-have been incredible. Go Teaml Go Temple Emethl I think we all can be very proud of the careful, caring and meticulous work of all involved. I know we will all be so proud of what we all have accomplished when we are all settled in our new and improved building. I'll keep you posted on our progressi

Wishing everyone a very happy Puriml

Tomine Religious School

Over the years I have been privileged to work at several congregations in a variety of locations. I have been amazed at how blessed the students have been throughout the years. While not every family was affluent, they were all filled with an abundance of love. As the years have progressed, I have become blessed/faced with the daily challenges of raising my own children. Recently, I came across something that I found to be an interesting perspective on how to help teach children what they are responsible for in the world. I though I would share it with you:

CHILDREN'S BILL OF RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES:

Children have the right to be loved and protected from harm, and the responsibility to show others love and caring. Children have the right to be proud of their heritage and beliefs and the responsibility to respect others origins and beliefs. Children have the right to be taken seriously, and the responsibility to listen to others. Children have the right to a good education, and the responsibility to study and respect their teacher. Children have the right to a safe and comfortable home, and the responsibility to keep it neat and clean. Children have the right to make mistakes, and the responsibility to learn from the mistakes. Children have the right to be well fed, and the responsibility to to not waste food. Children have the right to quality medical care, and the responsibility to take care of themselves.

Let us all work to give our children what they rightly deserve, but also take the time to teach them their responsibilities to make the world a better place.

B'shalom,

Please try to remember your Temple's gift shop when looking for that special religious item. If you don't see what you need, speak to Debby directly or call her at 837-0141 and she will do her best to accommodate you.

Early Childhood Center

pre-schoolers learn about the Jewish holidays?" is a commonly-asked question. I inform parents that we plan a curriculum that is child-centered and make certain that activities can appropriately meet the developmental needs of young children. Children learn about the holidays by singing songs, cooking appropriate foods, creating art projects and listening to stories.

Throughout the year, our classes celebrate Shabbat on Fridays. This program teaches the children the blessings over the candles, wine (grape juice) and challah. Songs are sung and the giving of Tzedakah is encouraged. We visit with Rabbi Gurvis and Cantor Zvulun on the bimah twice a month to hear stories and sing songs. Moms and Dads have volunteered during the year to be Shabbat guests and have read a book to the class or have planned a project. We have a program called "Project Challah" which provides participating children an opportunity to bring home a challah every Friday.

Many of our teachers have planned projects to further support the celebration of Shabbat. Children have made challah, challah covers, kiddish cups and candlesticks to bring home. Many parents have been excited to discover their children have learned the blessings. Children love rituals and look forward to celebrating Shabbat on Fridays.

We at the Early Childhood Center have been very involved with enrollment for the 1997-98 school year and believe we will have another successful year. classes are beginning to fill up, however many options are still available for two, three and four-year-old children. if you are interested in registering your child, please contact us as soon as possible.

Our annual Kabbalat Shabbat Evening will be held on Friday February 28, 1997

On Friday, February 28, Everyone is invited for a brief service starting at 6:30 pm, conducted by Rabbi Eric Gurvis and Cantor Ellen Zvulun. It will last about thirty minutes and it will be our only service of the evening.

Immediately following, we will sit down to a traditional Shabbat dinner, catered by Ella Hill, accompanied by classical zemirot (Shabbat songs) and blessings.

After dinner Rabbi Gurvis will stimulate our minds

After dinner, Rabbi Gurvis will stimulate our minds with some provocative thoughts on a timely topic that affects us all. Everyone will have an opportunity to express their ideas and opinions The evening will conclude around 10:00 pm.

We're looking forward to sharing Shabbat with you. Act quickly to join us for this unique Shabbat evening of good food and lively discussion. Please return the reservation form below to the Temple office. For more information, call Gwen Dubno at 385-9396 or Elaine Pollack at 385-2085.

FROM THE SOCIAL ACTION COMMITTEE...

June 1 will be the first annual Temple Emeth Mitzvah day. What does that mean? It means the entire congregation – adults and children alike – working together in all sorts of community Service projects. For instance, helping our 3 area hospitals, pitching in at our beautiful Teaneck town parks, activities at local senior citizen and children's facilities, etc. We plan on the afternoon of this beautiful June day (we hope) to be both fun and fulfilling. More details to follow.

Announcing the 2nd annual Purim Toy Drive. Last year, we gave over 250 toys and books to local children's social service organizations. we and they were overwhelmed, but his year, we plan to do even better. Of course, we are counting on all of you. Please bring new toys and books (no gift wrapping) to the special "box" outside the sanctuary between march 9 and March 23. Thank you all in advance.

Thank you...

National Council of Jewish Women to Offer Tuition Aid

"The National Council of Jewish Women believes that Judaism bequeaths to every Jew a rich legacy of ethical and religious values, a cultural heritage and a strong sense of individual, family and community responsibility. Transmitting this legacy through education and implementing its principles strengthen Jewish identity, the Jewish community and our commitment to Jews throughout the world"

....National Resolutions

To fulfill this directive, the Greater Teaneck Section offers tuition aid grants to college students who are pursuing studies towards certification in Jewish Education. Applicants must be senior or graduate level; residents or work in Bergen County, New Jersey and be available for a personal interview after May 1, 1997. Awards are based on financial need, scholarship and commitment.

Symposium for Women to Focus on Building A Strong Community of Jewish Women in Bergen County

Jewish women throughout Bergen County can explore ways of responding to critical issues facing the Jewish community at "It Takes a Jewish Village: We Can Make A Difference – A Symposium for Women Only". This event will be held on Sunday, March 9 from 9:30 am to 12 noon at the JCC on the Palisades, 411 East Clinton Ave. in Tenafly.

Professor and author Sylvia Barrack Fishman will be the guest speaker at this symposium. Dr.
Fishman is assistant professor of Contemporary Jewish Life; Sr.
Research Associate for Modern Jewish Studies and Brandeis University. She is the author of A Breath of Life: Feminism in the American Jewish Community; Follow My Footprints: Changing Images of Women in American Jewish Fiction and Changing Jewish Life, along with several other titles and articles.

The symposium will also feature round table discussion groups which will be led by key leaders in the Bergen County Jewish Community and resource materials will be on display.

One way participants can make an immediate difference is by supporting the event's Food Drive. Women who attend are requested to bring canned or non-perishable kosher food items to be distributed to a local Jewish pantry.

A kosher brunch will be served from 9:30–10:00am. The cost is $8 for both the brunch and the symposium when you register before March 3 or $10 at the door.

This event is sponsored by the Jewish Women's Agenda of the JCC, The Women's Division of the UJA Federation of Bergen County & North Hudson, Women's Tefillah of Teaneck, and the Jewish Leadership Forum of the jewish Community Relations council of the UJA Federation of Bergen County and North Hudson.

For reservations and information, call the UJA Federation at 488-6800 or the JCC on the Palisades at 569-7900, ext. 204. ❖

How JCS Makes a Difference— and How You Can Help JCS

More than two million college, theological seminary and secondary school students have benefited through JCS-

sponsored programs.

We all have to face the reality of the topic Rabbi Gurvis's recently-concluded quartet of Brotherhood breakfast lectures: anti-Semitism is still a problem in this country, in New Jersey, here in Bergen County and on the Internet and the World Wide Web.

Since 1948, the year our own Temple Emeth was founded, the Jewish Chautauqua Society has been leading the fight against anti-Semitism through a unique combination of education programs. Reform rabbis like our own Eric Gurvis are sent by JCS to provide students at all academic levels with basic myth-shattering facts about our people. The goal is to use facts to destroy the ignorance upon which anti-Semitism is based.

More than two million college, theological seminary and secondary school students have benefited through JCS-sponsored academic courses, day lectures, presentations and scholar-in residence programs. In addition to sponsoring over 150 accredited courses every year, the JCS has donated more than 125, 000 volumes of Judaica to school libraries, produced 52 video programs, and sponsored 80 interfaith institutes.

Sponsored by the National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods, JCS has accomplished a great deal in its total 102-years-plus of fighting anti-Semitism, but much more remains to be done. The harsh reality is that in the last few years, JCS was forced to turn down requests for lectureships due to budgetary limitations.

Here's how each of us can help JCS, the Jewish community and most important, ourselves:

• A $50 gift arranges a day's visit by a rabbi to a secondary school.

 A $150 donation helps buy Jewish reference books for a small college in the South.

• A $250 contribution will send a rabbi to a Midwestern University to explain the differences and similarities between Christians and Jews.

• A $1,000 Torchbearer gift will fund a scholar-in-residence course at a seminary where future priests and/or ministers are trained.

You can learn more about how JCS makes a 'difference at the upcoming Brotherhood breakfast on Sunday, March 9, 10:00 am, in the Youth Lounge. Joseph Puder, JCS director of development and ex-Israeli Air Force veteran of the Six Day War, will share some insight on the valuable work of JCS.

Your support is essential to the continuing work of JCS, and your contributions to the current "Understanding Through Education" campaign, co-sponsored by Temple Emeth Brotherhood, are most appreciated.❖

TEMPLE EMETH ADULT EDUCATION Tuesday Night Mini-University of Jewish Studies

Semester III: March 25 - May 27, 1997

First Hour (7:30 p.m. - 8:40 p.m.)

Wrestling With the Holocaust – Francie Schwartz

In this course the focus will be on celebrating the lives of European Jewry, rather than focusing on their deaths. Building on an introductory historical overview, the class will explore topics such as German Jewry, Polish Jewry, life in the Warsaw ghetto and the role that the various Judenrate (Jewish councils) played in controlling the destinies of the Jews under their charge.

Francie Schwartz holds a M.A. in Judaic Studies from Hebrew Union College -Jewish Institute of Religion in New York. She is currently working on a book on Jewish Virtues with Dr. Eugene B. Borowitz.

☐ Advanced Hebrew — Ronald Weiss

This course builds on the basic of Hebrew reading to allow students to increase their reading fluency and begin working on understanding some basic Hebrew words and concepts.

अन अन अन

Second Hour (8:45 p.m. - 9:55 p.m.)

□ Torah Cantillation — Cantor Ellen Zvulun

Here is an opportunity for those who have an interest in learning to chant Torah according to the classic system of trope (cantillation marks). A reading knowledge of Hebrew is a pre-requisite for this class. Students will have the opportunity to chant Torah at a service in the late spring.

Radical Amazement: The Teachings of Abraham Joshua Heschel Rabbi Eric S. Gurvis

Dr. Abraham Joshua Heschel, one of the foremost Jewish savants of our time, was a prolific and internationally known scholar, author and theologian. He was also an activist. His writings are among the most enduring works of modern American theology. In this course we will explore Dr. Heschel's life and teachings through reading and discussion of selections from his works.

Teens: Spend a Summer with NFTY

There is still time to make summer plans, and NFTY has some outstanding summer programs for teens entering grades 9 to 12:

Over 1,000 Reform high school students will participate in the six-week NFTY in Israel-Exodus trip. The trip will begin with a three-day voyage of the Exodus to Palestine. This is an incredible way to launch your Israel experience. "The trip was the best experience I've had in a long time, maybe the best ever," reflects one teen participant.

Teen participants have the opportunity to spend time with Israeli teens at their homes, as well as tour in Jerusalem, Tel Aviv, Haifa and Galilee. The groups spend several days at one of Israel's outstanding nature centers, they camp in the Negev desert, and they enjoy a taste of Israeli Kibbutz life.

Songleading, youth group leadership, art drama, and Israeli dance of some of the opportunities open to participants in the four-or sevenweek sessions at the NFTY Leadership Academy at Kutz Camp. Participants in the NFTY Mitzvah Corps at Kutz Camp will have the opportunity to work one-on-one as a mentor for a child with autistic behavior.

Purim is a Silly Celebration Starring a Savvy Jewish Queen

This month, Jews will celebrate Purim, a joyful, silly holiday sometimes likened to Mardi Gras.

Purim celebrate the courage of Esther, a Jewish girl of ancient times whose beauty attracted the affection of Persian King Ahasuerus.

When the evil Haman, one of the king's advisors, arranged to have all the Jews in Persia killed, Queen Esther and her kindly uncle, Mordechai risked their lives to save their people. Haman was hanged on his own gallows in a final flourish of poetic justice.

The story is preserved in the book of Esther, a scripture full of farcical touches and humorous commentary on the stupidity of many authority figures.

The story shows cleverness overcoming treachery, and weakness triumphing over strength. Therefore, Purim celebrations "turn the world upside-down" for a day, and make fun of the overly serious and stern things of the world.

In many synagogues, a reading of the Purim scroll is accompanied by noisemakers, hisses, stomping feet and "Bronx Cheers" whenever Haman's name is mentioned. When Queen Esther's name is spoken, celebrants sometimes toss flower petals into the air and cheer.

Marcia Landau Elbrand, a Regional Jewish Outreach Coordinator, wrote a Purim commentary in this month's Shomer Emunim newsletter. She finds a 20-century application in the ancient tale:

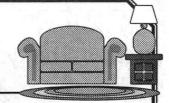

"Did you ever stop to think that the upbeat outcome of the Purim story would never have happened if it hadn't been for the interfaith marriage of Esther and Ahasuerus?" She asks. "Don't be surprised at how often outreach issues − sometimes thought to be the special province of the late 20th century − have already been presented for our enlightenment in our ancient Jewish texts!" (Toledo Blade 3/2/96, p. 10).♥

Fouble with Grandfathers

by Bob Spiewak

When this column was first born, in 1981 By happy coincidence, so was Jeff my cute (?) grandson Yes, he was cute in those days, but now he's six foot one We're playing chess by mail because he lives so far away And at the rate he makes his moves It takes guite long to play Is he lazy or just careful It's very hard to guess Is he concentrating on lady friends Thus has no time for chess? Can a guy that big still be called cute (When his locks are shorn) Or did his cuteness start to fade the day that he was born? It depends on your perspective But from my point of view (And I know that I'm objective) He'll still be cute at 6 ft. 2.

How to Raise a Caring Child in Today's World

A parent workshop co-sponsored by the Caring Community, Early Childhood Center, Religious School, and Social Action Committees

Thursday, March 27 at 8:00pm at Temple Emeth

Speaker: Dr. Andrew Eisen, Assistant Professor of Psychology at Fairleigh Dickinson University and Director of FDU's Child Anxiety Disorders Clinic (Dr. Eisen is a Temple member)

The most important concepts of Judaism have to do with helping others, but how can parents raise caring children in a world where people often seem to be uncaring and self-absorbed?

Through many examples and practical suggestions, Dr. Eisen will help parents foster empathy and personal moral standards in their children as well as kindness and a concern for others. in particular, he will discuss the importance of instilling "caring" and a sense of community within the Jewish family and suggest specific mitzvah projects family members can do together.

This informative, interactive presentation is a must for those parents determined to make Tikkun Olam an active part of their family's life.❖

PHUNDRAISING PHACTS

(Hey, how else can I get you to read this!?)

Save the Date! -SATURDAY. EVENING, APRIL 12 ▲ • PROGRESSIVE DINNER- WATCH FOR THE FLYER ... COMING SOON TO A MAILBOX NEAR YOU! Thank you to those who have volunteered themselves and/or their homes for the April 12 Progressive Dinner. We still need more hosts, especially for the main course. Remember, you can cook a meal and bring it elsewhere or, if you're like me and are not, as they say, "from the cooks", you can set a lovely table at which someone else's meal will be served. Couldya...would ya...WILL ya? If so, please call Jeri Kadison at 836-1969 to tell her. (If dinner totally overwhelms you, we still need cocktail hour and dessert people as well.) So what is a Progressive Dinner anyway? It's when you go to one home for cocktails/hors d'oeuvres, a second home for a main course and, in this case, join up with everyone else for dessert at Temple.

2. Work on the Cookbook, if you're wondering why you haven't been called, it's because we have to get the Dinner out of the way first. We are planning a pub-lication date late in 1997 or possibly in conjunction with a special Emeth weekend in February,'98, so April is not too late to begin. Meanwhile, keep those recipes and ideas percolating; the book may be on the "back burner" but we'll move it up front soon.

Miracles Do Happen Dept. Our still-new member Dick Gross has volunteered to chair Bazaar next fall!!! We didn't even have to ask! (Can we clone him?) I've promised him a hard-working committee; now if we only have a useable social hall...

4 Speaking of my favorite event, we have some lovely silver jewelry and one or two other items still remain-ing from Bazaar that we would rather sell than save, so if you need a gift, especially for a young woman, please call Temple and ask that a note be put in the fundraising box. We'll arrange to show it to you.

5 • son is offering to donate to Emeth a percentage of monies spent at his or her establishment. Please patronize these kind people. Everybody wins! Oh yeah, and when did you buy scrip last? Check it out!

April will be my last meeting as fundraising chairman (yay!). To sum up the past two years, we will have an evaluation and planning meeting, date to be an-nounced, with refreshments! All are welcome—your ideas are needed. Remember, fundraising is every-body's business—unless we want to pay higher dues.

Please call 837-2306 to reserve a place.❖

• The Temple Environment Committee will present colorful Tree Planting certificates to every b'nai mitzvah celebrant during their Shabbat morning service, chairman Paul Kaufman recently announced. The certificates, issued by the Jewish national Fund (JNF) will be presented by the Rabbi or by the Board member on the bimah that day.

The Certificates will offer a direct connection between the recipient and Israel, and serve to strengthen the student's ties with the Earth and the Environment. Furthermore, they will help the land of Israel and demonstrate to students, parents, family and friends the importance of Israel and Jewish values to the congregation.

Monies for the Certificates will come from the Temple's Environment Fund, to which contributions are always welcome.

- In other "tree-related" matters: the Temple's annual Tree Planting will take place Sunday, May 4 in conjunction with our observance of Holocaust memorial Day. In recent years, individual congregants have donated the tree(s) in honor in o in memory of a loved one. Anyone wishing to make such a donation is urged to contact Committee Chairman Kaufman at 385-8433, or leave ma message at the Temple office.
- Also, several people who attended the Tu B'Shevat seder on January 25 were interested in obtaining the Haggadah "The Festival of Trees" by Adam Fisher. the book is published by the Central Conference of American Rabbis. For more information on obtaining a copy, call the CCAR at 2212-684-4990.❖

Hi! My name is David Groveman and I'm in the seventh grade at Thomas Jefferson Middle School and in the Religious School at Temple Emeth. I live on Pine Street in Teaneck with my parents Harry and Lori, my 15-year old sister Marisa, and my two gerbils: Einstein and Bell. My favorite subject is Science and I enjoy computer games, Super Nintendo, soccer, swimming, volleyball and tennis. I will be making my Bar Mitzvah on March 8 and will read about Vayakhel: The gathering of the materials to build the Tabernacle. $\Preceq$

Hi! My name is Amanda Jill Graizel. I am a seventh grader at Thomas Jefferson Middle School and at Temple Emeth Religious School. My parents, Lynne and Bill, and my sister Dana and I live on East Lawn Drive. My favorite subjects are Social Studies and Science and I like springboard diving, swimming, gymnastics and hanging out with my friends. I will be making my Bat Mitzvah on April 12 and I'm excited to know that family from all over the country will come to celebrate with me and my family. My Torah portion isTazria: dealing with sickness and health. From early Jewish history, the care and treatment of the sick was considered of great importance to the Jewish community. $\price$
