As a first year rabbinical student at the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion in Jerusalem I witnessed the first ordination of a woman rabbi in the State of Israel. (There were already several women rabbis serving in Israel, but until 1992, all of them had been ordained in the Diaspora.) That ceremony, more than any other in my experience, captured the importance and potential of Reform Judaism in Israel.

In a country that has had a woman prime minister and where women are integral to the efficiency and preparedness of the armed forces, the only thing to wonder about the ordination of women rabbis in Israel is why it took so long. That ceremony was a powerful statement that Reform Judaism has a message for the vast majority of Israeli Jews: Judaism is modern and Judaism is meaningful.

The potential of Reform Judaism in Israel will be realized, however, only when there are enough rabbis to spread that message to every corner of the country. Currently when Israeli Reform rabbis are ordained, most of them serve as rabbis part time. This is because the Israeli government funds Orthodox synagogues with taxpayer money, but leaves Reform synagogues to operate solely on private donations. In many Reform synagogues, the funding is not there to pay their rabbis a full-time livable salary, and so they must seek income elsewhere. In doing so these rabbis are unable to share all their talent with their congregations.

MESSAGE from the Rabbi

RABBI STEVEN SIRBU

The only way the situation will change is with help from us.

In December, Temple Emeth's Board of Trustees adopted a new project to support Reform Judaism in Israel called Hineini: Embracing Our People, Building Our Future. Over the next two years, Temple Emeth, together with other Reform congregations in North America that are participating in the project, will be raising money for the sponsorship of Israeli Reform rabbinical students. This will enable them to do what they have been trained to do — lead the Jewish people toward a modern understanding of Torah.

The scholarships, given to Israeli rabbinical students studying at Hebrew Union College in Jerusalem, will finance the last two years of the students' seminary tuition and provide the rabbis with seed money to create new Reform Judaism projects once they are ordained. Throughout the next two years we will have the opportunity to establish lasting

"TEACH YOUR CHILDREN WELL"

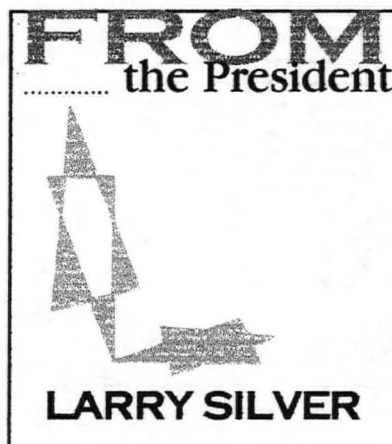

The title is a line I remember from a popular song entitled "Teach Your Children", written in the early 70s by Graham Nash and sung by the group Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young. Another line goes, "And feed them on your dreams."

In December, I asked in this column how many of us belong to Temple Emeth because it is required for our child to become a Bar or Bat Mitzvah here. We know that a number of our families discontinue their membership soon after their youngest child becomes a Bar or Bat Mitzvah. There are an even larger number of our families who, though they continue as members, allow their children to stop their Jewish education at that point.

Though there are many reasons that this happens, the message that often gets through to our children, intentional or not, is "We are Jewish! The Bar/Bat Mitzvah is important! The rest is not!" If a major reason we put our children through the B'nai Mitzvah process is so we can look our Jewish neighbor in the eye, this message will not be lost on our children. As they grow older, many of them will come to see it as cynical and hypocritical, and when their turn as parents come, they will be less likely to bother at all.

I say this as one whose Jewish education ended after my Bar Mitzvah, and for the longest time afterward, did not care. That attitude carried forward to my parenting years, and had it not been for the influence of my wife Carla, would have been passed on to my children.

My point being that if you are a member of Temple Emeth, then assumedly there is at least a part of you that feels that Judaism and being Jewish is important to you. But many of our children will not learn this or even care unless we set an example and encourage and even prod them.

This brings me to our own Religious School at Temple Emeth and the educational force behind it, our director Dora Geld Friedman, otherwise known as Morah Dora. All who meet Dora are charmed by her warm, nurturing personality and her dramatic flair as she works with our teachers and children. The Hebrew language literally becomes music to our children's ears as she speaks it to them in the context of a lesson.

Our children learn about our core Jewish principles: our belief in God; the study and engagement of Torah; how we can become a spiritual community through Avodah, the worship experience; that each of us, individually and as a community, are responsible for G'milut Chasadim – to do acts of loving kindness and to repair and perfect the world; and that we have a special relationship with Eretz Yisrael – the land of Israel. Dora does this with the help of Rabbi Sirbu, our teachers, our school administrator Barbara Sabella, our adult and student volunteers and our volunteer Religious School committee, chaired this year by Paula Dillon and Ken Hoffman. It is done in the classroom, in the sanctuary, by connecting to the rest of the Temple community through Jewish holidays such as the upcoming Purim celebration and events such as Mitzvah day; and by involving us as parents through Family Education programs.

We entrust the Jewish education of our children to Temple Emeth, through Dora and her professional and administrative support staff. But like many other things, the message learned within the four walls of Temple Emeth can be enhanced or diminished, re-enforced or undermined, by the messages they receive from us, their parents, within the four walls of our homes.

"What the child says in the street is his father's words or his mother's"

Babylonian Talmud, Sukkah 56B

So if Judaism is important to us, then we must teach our children. Teach them well! Teach them by our example and our attitude. "And feed them on our dreams."

B'Shalom and Happy Purim

Larry Silver, President

LOOK WHAT WE'VE BEEN UP TO...

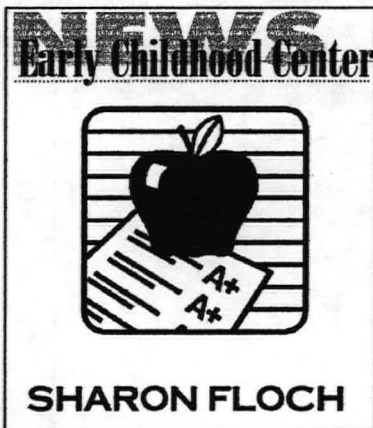

Having reached the halfway point (and beyond) of our school year, I thought that this would be a good time to share with you all of the wonderful activities we are working on here at the ECC.

With Purim just around the corner, our nursery school children and staff are eagerly awaiting the arrival of Allan Lieberman on Monday, March 1st. Mr. Lieberman's interactive performances celebrate the cycles of the Jewish year in song and dance.

Many thanks to Paul Wilson and the Institute for the Living Arts, whose grant has made it possible for us to have this wonderful Purim experience.

Our celebration of Purim continues on Friday, March 5th with an ECC-wide Walk-A-Thon. In the spirit of fun and charity, our costumed children, ages 2-4, will walk laps in the social hall, with the proceeds for their efforts going to Magen David Adam – Israel's Red Cross. Feel free to adopt a child to sponsor; we have 115 of them available!

As a result of the efforts of our newly formed Publicity Committee, chaired by Temple member Abbe Greenberg, we will be hosting two open houses in the month of March. By opening up our beautiful facility to families in the area who may still be nursery school shopping, and by giving them the opportunity to witness the wonderful work being done by both teachers and children, we hope that more people will be turned on and tuned in to the Temple Emeth ECC.

So – please help us spread the word about how much we have to offer our little Jewish learners, and have a very happy Purim.

PURIM: THE HIDDEN AND THE REVEALED

Our tradition, in its infinite wisdom, instructs us that when we come into the month of Adar, we need to "increase our happiness". As we approach the celebration of Purim, which falls in the month of Adar, how does this instruction challenge us? How does this mandate instruct us, students and families alike, to live a more meaningful, joyous, Jewish life?

On its simplest level, Purim celebrates the "hidden" Esther (masks) and "revealed" - Mordechai, the proud Jew. The holiday of Purim inspires us to examine our faith and imbue it with meaning and personal dedication. In Temple Emeth Religious School, both parents and students are examining, struggling, and dedicating themselves to serious questions of Jewish identity and practice. Our students are involved in learning through a variety of strategies: text, art, music, guest lecturers and artists - a variety of Jewish experiences that will weave for them memories and connections to our Jewish tradition. Here are some examples:

Grades 5 and 6 have led inspiring services demonstrating fluency and an understanding of the importance of prayer in their lives and in our school community. I know that the 4th grade will also successfully lead us in meaningful "tfilah". Our 7th grade curriculum has been enriched immeasurably with a new concentration of Torah, as well as heritage arts reflecting holidays and life-cycle events. Our family education programs for grades K-7 are well attended and students, teachers, and parents enjoy learning, discussing, singing and dancing - in short, creating a dynamic Jewish community.

The study of Torah, prayer and celebration of the holidays "with joy" add meaning and purpose to our lives. This poem by the famous Israeli poet, Leah Goldberg, challenges us to look at the "hidden" and "revealed" in our lives and commit ourselves to renewal and joy.

*Teach me my God, a blessing, a prayer
On the mystery of a withered leaf
On ripened fruit so fair
On the freedom to see, to sense,
To breathe, to know, to hope, to despair.
Teach my lips a blessing, a hymn of praise
As each morning and night
You renew Your days,
Lest my days be as the one before
Lest routine set my ways.*

Rabbi Joshua Trachtenberg Memorial Library Update: FOR A GREAT TIME

ASSOCIATION OF JEWISH LIBRARIES ACCREDITATION

This month the Rabbi Joshua Trachtenberg Memorial Library showcases the "Great Jews" series. These books contain many biographical sketches of Jews who have attained fame in different fields. Great Moments in Jewish History is equally informative, but it focuses on events rather than individuals. So for a great time, come to the library!

Great Jewish Men by Elinor Slater & Robert Slater. The authors pay tribute to Jews who have achieved prominence worldwide by virtue of the excellence of the works they have produced, the discoveries they have made, and the ways they have improved the lot of humanity. Included are Abraham and Moses, Rashi and Maimonides, Theodor Herzl and Chaim Weitzmann, as well as Franz Kafka, Irvin Berlin, Albert Einstein, Sigmund Freud, and David Ben-Gurion.

Great Jewish Women by Elinor Slater & Robert Slater. The Slaters give special recognition to those Jewish women who have persevered and succeeded, sometimes against great odds. Among those profiled in this book are Golda Meir, Ruth Bader Ginsberg, Wendy Wasserstein, Estee Lauder, and Dianne Feinstein.

Great Moments in Jewish History by Elinor Slater & Robert Slater. This book brings to life events that have shaped the character and essence of the Jewish people. In Moments of Courage, we find Esther saving the Jews of Persia and the Jews in the Warsaw Ghetto fighting the Nazis. "Moments of Joy" include the discovery of the Dead Sea Scrolls and the birth of the State of Israel. Jews have endured too many "Moments of Despair" such as mass suicide at Masada, expulsion from Spain, and Kristallnacht. In the final section, "Moments of Creativity," we learn about the beginning of mysticism the founding of the first kibbutz, and the first bat mitzvah.

Great Jews in the Performing Arts by Darryl Lyman. Throughout the ages Jewish actors, singers, dancers, and comics from all parts of the world have graced the stage and screen and delighted audiences. This book celebrates the lives of performers from Joey Adams to Efrem Zimbalist, Jr.

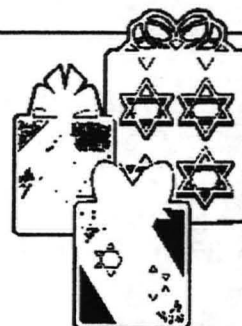

Great Jews in Music by Darryl Lyman. This compendium consists of over one hundred major biographies and hundreds more thumbnail sketches of singers, conductors, composers, and virtuosos, everyone from Maurice Abravanel to Pinchas Zukerman.

EMETH EXPRESSIONS

A beautiful hand-crafted wall hanging now graces the entrance to the sanctuary. The project began as an outgrowth of the Arts Shabbaton last spring. Individual squares were designed and stitched by Temple members, each of whom expressed a connection to Temple Emeth and Judaism in their work, via quilting, embroidery, sewing and photo imaging.

Visit Emeth Expressions the next time you are at Temple. It is truly a labor of love.

THE REFORM MOVEMENT & YOU

Temple Emeth is a proud member of the Union for Reform Judaism: Serving Reform Congregations in North America.

Each month this space will highlight programs or events sponsored by the Reform movement.

Every year, our region of the Reform Movement sponsors a choral festival at which Reform synagogue choirs from throughout the region perform. This year, Temple Emeth is proud to host this regional event on Sunday, March 21 at 3:00 pm. Come and hear some of your favorite songs. You are sure to learn some new songs as well!

PR Committee Needs Members

On behalf of the Publicity Committee Grace and Irving Borowitz are seeking one or more temple members who have the desire to write publicity releases for Temple Emeth events. The person(s) should be "computer comfortable" to the extent of sending PR copy e mail and faxes to the media. We will need backup personnel especially in April and then June to early October this year.

We also request that all PR requests be sent to us, 2-3 weeks in advance of the event, on the forms provided in the office. This can be best done by email or, second best, by submission to our mailbox. Pictures should be in jpeg form by either email or on a diskette or, less desirably, regular pictures put into our box. We will return those pictures after use.

Youth Scholarship Awards Available

We have money!

Funds are available to offset the cost of URJ (formerly UAHC) summer camps, NFTY events and other URJ youth programs. Anyone participating in these youth programs is eligible to apply for a Temple Emeth Youth Scholarship Award.

Application forms for Youth Awards are available at the temple office. Please see Marion Schecter or call Joy Firshein for more information: 201-287-9067.

Adult Ed Lecture SUNDAY, MARCH 14 @ 2:00 PM

GUEST SPEAKER:
RABBI LAWRENCE TROSTER

"STOP THE WORLD! IT NEEDS A FIX"

Co-Sponsored by Temple Emeth's Adult Ed and Environment Committees

Spiritual leader of congregation Beth Israel of Northern Valley, Bergenfield, Rabbi Troster serves on the executive board of the Coalition On the Environment and Jewish Life (COEJL) and the Board of Directors of the Religious Coalition for Reproductive Choice. He is also the author of "Environmental Ethics", a chapter of "Living a Jewish Life," Vol. II, scheduled for publication in 2005 by the Rabbinical Assembly.

Rabbi Troster will speak about the sources of Jewish Environmental Ethics in Traditional Texts.

By guiding us through the critical issues of the environmental crisis of our time, Rabbi Troster will help us formulate a "Jewish First-Aid Kit" that can help us fix a damaged world.

Be sure to attend this informative event!

Rabbi Sigel to be Honored at Yale

Rabbi Sigel was honored on the weekend of February 27, 28 and 29 at his alma mater - Yale University - at the Joseph Slifka Center for Jewish Life.

He and two older rabbis were honored at the Jewish Alumni Weekend where, among other things, there was a havdalah service and a presentation by Magevet Jam - Yale's world-famous Jewish a capella group.

Rabbi Sigel spoke about his Jewish experiences at Yale and how very different they were, compared to today's Jewish student life.

CALLING ALL HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS

Temple Emeth is planning a service this spring to honor you on your high school graduation. We don't want anyone to be left out, so please call (833-1322) or email Rabbi Sirbu at (rabbisirbu@emeth.org) the Temple with your name, school, and graduation date. Passover is Coming!

Are you...

- Hosting or leading a Seder for the first time?
- Inviting guests to your table who have never been to a Seder?
- Ready to replace those tattered Maxwell House Haggadahs with something respectable and inclusive?
- Trying to come with ideas to keep the kids interested in the Seder?
- Wondering how best to welcome non-Jews to your celebration?

"MEL GIBSON AND THE JEWS"

Mel Gibson's recent movie has been the talk of the Jewish community, despite the fact that so few of us have seen it. The film revives the long-separated notion that the Jews are responsible for Jesus' death, but does that necessarily make it anti-Semitic? Rabbi Sirbu will give his opinions of the controversy and led a discussion on whether one movie can really damage Jewish-Christian relations.

Due to the overwhelming response to this topic, your RSVP is ESSENTIAL by March 17. Please do not call the Temple Office. Fill out and tear off the form below and leave it in the Temple B'Yachad box. Please include a check for $5 per person.

Who Needs Florida?

Again, our Temple provided ample warmth in this cold winter as it celebrated my election to the presidency of the National Association of Retired Reform Rabbis (NAORRR) on a Shabbat Eve in late January. It was an overwhelming event in the lives of Mimi and me.

No all retired rabbis, nor even those few that are elevated to such an exalted position as president, are as lucky as I to be emeritus of this consistently warm and welcoming congregation.

Mimi and I were overjoyed to observe our four grandsons on the Bema during the Torah Service. That truly was a crowning moment of "nahas" for us.

I want to thank Rabbi Sirbu, Cantor Tilem, Temple President Larry Silver, for all of their kind words. Especially - I want to single out Lynne Graizel and her coterie of "bakers" who planned and executed the makings of what turned out to be a truly festive occasion, an Oneg Shabbat in the full meaning of the term.

My thanks to the Temple's Beautification Committee for its gift of a new chair for my Temple study.

Rabbi Emeritus Louis J. Sigel

Grace Borowitz Photo Show

Grace Borowitz, Teaneck resident and Temple Emeth member, will be featured at a photography show during March at the Teaneck Library. The subjects include landscapes, sunsets, flowers and butterflies in many locations including the Canadian Rockies, our national parks, Western Europe, Mexico and Hawaii.

Grace has used her photographic skills to document her professional ties to the American Chemical Society-New York Section, the Ramapo College-Sigma Xi Chapter and the local Yale and Columbia Alumni groups. She has received honorable mention in contests sponsored by the Gene Hacker Photo Store and Third Place (2002), Second Place (2003) in the Greenbrook Sanctuary Competitions held by the Palisades Nature Association.

College Kids Seeking Summer Employment

A number of our college kids will be returning from school in May and are actively seeking summer employment/internships. If you or your company have the need to hire summer help, please consider our Emeth college kids to fill these positions.

Most of the kids are interested in anything to do with computers and graphics. If you think you might have an opportunity available, please call Lynne Graizel at 201 833 8403 or email her: lynnegee@optonline.net to get resumes forwarded to you. Thanks.

Shabbat Torah Study Information

NOW ON WWW.EMETH.ORG

Weekly Shabbat morning Torah study status reports now appear on the Temple "home" page at www.emeth.org.

If a study session is missed, students who study with Rabbi Sirbu at 9:10 am on Shabbat mornings can now find out where the study group left off on the previous Shabbat.

The Temple website homepage also contains links to information on Temple clergy, worship, calendar, education, youth, directions, Temple organizations, arts and cultural programs, and a variety of other Jewish organizations. In addition to clergy and staff email links, there are also links to Amazon.com, the Union for Reform Judaism and "What Can We Do For Israel Today?".

relationships with these rabbis (through online chats, video pen pal programs, and quarterly newsletters) and learn more about the traditions and challenges of Reform Judaism in Israel.

This project is part of a Reform Movement-wide initiative adopted by the General Assembly of the Union for Reform Judaism at the Biennial convention in November 2003 in order to strengthen the Movement's connection to Reform Jewish peoplehood and the State of Israel. The Board's resolution asks each of our members to contribute at least $18 a year for two years to support the sponsorship of these rabbinical students. We hope that through our efforts and those of other Reform synagogues they will create innovative Progressive Jewish programs that meet the spiritual needs of today's Israelis and enrich religious life in Israel for years to come.

I invite your feedback and questions on Israeli Reform Judaism in general and the Hineini project in particular. You may also direct your questions to Temple members Gloria Barsky and Vicky Farhi, who are coordinating Temple Emeth's participation in the Hineini initiative.

Theodor Herzl is quoted as saying, "If you will it, it is no dream." This statement became the slogan for the pioneers who laid the foundations for the State of Israel. I hope that we will provide the will so that a flourishing reform Judaism in Israel is no dream.

Trouble with Grandfathers

Shalach Manot

'Twas the eve before Purim
when our doorbell rang
And we opened the door
to a cute little gang
There were two little girls and just one other
Who looked much to young to be these girls' mother
Queen Esther and Vashti said, "Shalom" with a grin
That we couldn't resist and invited them in Sure enough the third person who came was none other Than Estelle's Hebrew teacher,
the little girl's mother
They gave us a box full of goodies galore as they cried, "Shalach manot" and went out the door
The three were soon gone
from our hearing and sight
But the glow of their presence made it one special night!

The Renaissance Group Invites You...

to Step Into Spring

At the Grounds for Sculpture in Hamilton, NJ
SUNDAY, APRIL 18TH, 2004

This beautifully landscaped 35-acre museum is a showcase for both large and small works by contemporary sculptors and artists. It is the brainchild of sculptor and pharmaceutical heir J. Seward Johnson Jr. who established this artistic treasure in 1992.

On the way, we'll stop for an elegant four-course lunch at Good Time Charley's, a historic landmark in Kingston, NJ.

Our deluxe motor coach will leave the Temple parking lot promptly at 9:45 a.m. and return between 6 and 6:30 p.m. Space is limited to the capacity of the coach and reservations will be accepted on a first-come, first served basis.

The cost for paid-up Renaissance Group members is $55 ($65 for guests) and includes transportation, lunch, admission to the Grounds for Sculpture, and bus snacks. Your check confirms your reservation. Please mail the coupon below to the temple office.

SAVE THIS DATE-Saturday, June 12, 2004, for a special end-of-the-year theater party to see "The Afghan Women" produced by The Garage Theater at FDU's Becton Theater in Teaneck.

For more information, contact Renaissance Group Co-Chairs Barbara Kaufman, 201-385-8433, or Bea Westin, 201-836-9216.

PLEASE MAKE CHECKS PAYABLE TO THE RENAISSANCE GROUP

I/We will join the Renaissance trip to the Grounds for Sculpture on April 18, 2004

College Kids' Corner

by Lynne Graizel

Probably everyone in the congregation had at least one teacher who made them write an essay on "What You Did On Your Summer Vacation". Well, I asked our college/grad kids what they did on their recent Winter Break. Here are some of their responses:

Russell Falk volunteered to be part of a group of congregants who cooked and slept at St. Cecilia's church in Englewood during Christmas week.

Laura Geisenheimer spent part of her break in England sightseeing.

Ben Wolf went skiing in Steamboat springs, Colorado with his Duke U. ski teammates. The rest of the break, Ben just kicked back and relaxed.

Deborah and Matthew Silver went skiing in Lake Tahoe, California, with their parents. Deb, who turned 22 in December, also went to Baja, CA and then to Mexico for a study abroad trip through Ithaca College, where she's a senior.

Jessica Fershein packed up and left for a semester in Israel. Jess is studying Hebrew and comparative religion at Ben-Gurion University of the Negev. But all work and no play would make Jessica a dull girl – and that's definitely not the case! In addition to everything she squeezes into her life, Jess has joined a Krav Maga group that practices a form of Israeli martial arts (taught to the Israeli Army and US Navy Seals). She is also a black belt in Tai Kwon Do.

The Reiner girls, Sarah and Leah, have gone Hollywood! Older sister, sarah will be attending school in LA for a semester and working as an intern in a production company. Sarah has interviewed at MTV, the WB and several TV shows. We hope she gets the job of her dreams. Younger sister Leah helped Sarah move into her new LA digs and then vacationed in San Diego with the rest of the family. Leah's winter break is unusually long, so she had the opportunity to work as an intern in the technical design department at Sean John Productions. For those of you not in the know, that's one of P.Diddy's enterprises – very cool!

Ben Massarsky is a freshman at Cornell University, where he was accepted to the Cayuga Waiters (an a cappella group). Ben was again 79 other kids who tried out – only 3 kids were accepted. Ben spent part of his vacation in Florida. When school starts, Ben will be taking some interesting classes, including Hebrew, Modern Politics of China and Swedish Massage. Swedish Massage, Ben????

Matthew and Jacob Fox made January 23rd a special night for their grandfather, Rabbi Emeritus Louis Sigel, when they did the Haftorah reading in English and Hebrew at Temple Emeth.

Yep, I'd say the kids did some interesting things on their winter break this year, wouldn't you?

JEWISH MUSIC FROM "ROUND THE WORLD" AT TEMPLE EMETH

MARCH 21ST

Temple Emeth will proudly host the annual Regional Choral Festival which will take place on Sunday, March 21st at 3:00 P.M. Close to a dozen temple choirs from throughout the New Jersey - West Hudson Valley region of the Union for Reform Judaism (URJ) will raise their voices at Temple Emeth in a program entitled "Jewish Music Around the World."

Co-sponsored by the URJ and American Conference of Cantors (ACC), the festival has become one of the most popular programs offered in this region, with choirs attending from as far away as Aberdeen, NJ, as well as from nearby New York State.

"We are honored to be the host synagogue for this event," said Cantor Ellen Tilem, "because it brings the 'best of the best' together in one location to showcase their talent in a diverse range of superb Jewish music." Each choir will present several selections individually, and all the choirs will jointly sing several pieces as well.

There is no admission charge for the program, which will be followed by a post-concert reception provided by Temple Emeth – ;for both musicians and guests. The concert is open to the public

"I hope there will be a large crowd of Temple Emeth congregants on hand," Cantor Tilem concluded, "both to show support for our choir and all the choirs who will be appearing, and to enjoy a wonderful musical program."
