Sunday Morning, February 20, at 10:40
RABBI NEWMAN
will preach on
"EDWARD MY SON" AND "DEATH OF A SALESMAN"
When Parents Spoil Their Children as Seen in Two Outstanding Plays.

THE SERMONS
This Friday Evening, Rabbi Newman will discuss the spiritual message of "Death Be Not Proud," the remarkable book by John Gunther with a contribution by his wife, Frances, dealing with the heroism of their young son, Johnny. The discourse will not deal with the medical and surgical aspects of the volume, but rather with its instruction in fortitude.

Sunday Morning, Rabbi Newman will discuss the two dramas "Edward My Son" in which Robert Morley is appearing, and "Death of a Salesman" by Arthur Miller, who twice has addressed our Sunday Morning Congregations. The particular emphasis of these two plays on the relationship of fathers to their sons, and the "spoiling" of children by parents will be considered. Now that Britain has recognized Israel de facto, Rabbi Newman feels free to deal with a British-born play.
Friday evening, Mrs. Irving J. Nehe will recite the Blessing over the Sabbath Candles.
Friday evening, February 25th, Prof. Cecil Roth will speak.
