Sunday Lecture Service

"How to Keep Your Balance in an Unbalanced World" will be Rabbi Brickner's subject at the services next Sunday morning.

The Rabbi will discuss the psychological unbalance and the dislocation of standards which are taking place in our day, in human relations, in international affairs, in economics, in religion, in morals, in politics, in education and in the family life, and will treat the subject with reference to the forces that are responsible for this upset. He will suggest how the individual can keep his intellectual and spiritual balance. This lecture will prove helpful and stimulating.

A large congregation, many of whom were visitors, attended the service last Sunday. Rabbi Brickner would like to see more of our own members present each Sunday; his lectures are specially prepared for them. He reaches thousands over the radio each Sunday afternoon.

The services commence promptly at 10:30. They are preceded by a fifteen-minute organ recital, and conclude at twelve sharp when the Religious School is dismissed.

Members will find temple attendance a source of spiritual consolation and strength, especially in these days when we need faith in ourselves and in life.

MEN'S CLUB

Round Table Next Tuesday

A very fine gathering at which a number of new faces, especially of younger men, attended the opening meeting of the Round Table last Tuesday, with Rabbi Brickner leading the discussion and Harry Wolpaw as chairman. The Round Table meets every Tuesday noon at the Statler Hotel.

For next Tuesday, November 4th, G. Harold Noyes, United States Weatherman, will give us "Thirty Minutes with the Weatherman." The weather is always a subject of conversation, and Mr. Noyes is an unusually fine speaker.

Mr. Albert I. Cornsweet, Secretary to the City Manager, will be the speaker on Tuesday, November 11th.

Opening Meeting Successful

The first meeting of the Men's Club, a Symposium on "Unemployment—Is There a Cure?" in which four prominent Clevelanders participated, was an auspicious beginning of a season which promises to be one of the best in its history. The audience of several hundred men followed the discussion with keen interest, and at the close of the evening the spirit of sociability was promoted over a cup of cider and a doughnut.

St. Louis: We reprint with pleasure the following taken from the editorial page of the St. Louis "Post-Dispatch" of Sunday morning, October 12th: "In Germany during the First Crusade, in the year 1096, a community of Jews, fearful of violence and sudden death, took refuge in a Christian Church. The Soldiers of the Cross battered down the door, violated the sanctuary and slaughtered them all—all, that is, but those who slew themselves and their loved ones to escape the Christian touch.

"In Frankfort-on-Main the other day, not far from the scene of this ancient massacre, 30 Christians—Steel Helmets often given to outraging the Jews—were attacked by Communists and driven to refuge in a Jewish Synagogue. The Jews hid their enemies from the mob and called the police to rescue them." We reprint this editorial, not only because it tells how a group of Jews practiced the finest teachings of Judaism—"When thine enemy be hungry, give him food to eat; when he be thirsty, give him water to drink"—but also because it is a fine religious expression on the part of the Christian editor who wrote it.—(Bulletin Exchange.)

Rome: A monument will be erected here to the memory of Moses Romano, Italian Jewish soldier recently killed on the Serbian frontier. He has been proclaimed a national hero.—(The Jewish Standard.)

New York: Congressman Samuel Dickstein accused Congress of inhumanity because it failed to provide for the admission into the United States, outside the regular immigration quota, of persons over fifty-five years of age who are parents of American citizens and who because of their age cannot compete economically with American labor.—(The Jewish Standard.)

Warsaw: It is generally believed by observers that the Jews of Poland, as a minority political entity, will suffer their greatest downfall in the coming elections. Effort to present a united Jewish ticket have been frustrated by Dr. Isaac Gruenbaum, President of the Polish Zionist Federation, through his refusal to include the Agudath Israel in a united Jewish party.—(The Jewish Standard.)

Cincinnati: Dr. Julian Morgenstern, President of the Hebrew Union College, declared at the fifty-fifth opening exercises of the College, that both Zionism and Reform Judaism are indispensable to Judaism and that world Jewry must leave unreasoning partisanship for the path of true vision.—(The Jewish Standard.)

Montreal: The bill which gives Jews the right to have their own school system, in Montreal, is being fought by the Mayor of the city in the hope of its repeal.—(Bulletin Exchange.)

England: Lord Reading, most prominent Jew in England, whose real name is Daniel Rufus Isaacs, recently celebrated his seventieth birthday.—(Bulletin Exchange.)

Australia: Rabbi Jerome Mark is continuing to create excitement with his teaching of Progressive Judaism in the conservative atmosphere of Melbourne, Australia.—(Bulletin Exchange.)

Germany: Not all supposed Fascists are in favor of the Hitler program with its keynote of anti-Semitism, as is evidenced by the counsel given by Lord Rothermore that anti-Semitism be eliminated from the Hitler program because Jew-baiting is a stupid survival of medieval prejudice.—(Bulletin Exchange.)
