RESTRICTION OF IMMIGRATION CONTINUES

Summary of Legislation Enacted in 1934-1935

By the Jewish Statistical Bureau

Legislation relative to immigration enacted in 1934 and in 1935, continues to follow the migration policies inaugurated in the various countries in the years following the World War, according to a summary prepared by the Jewish Statistical Bureau. The legislative acts passed, either restrict the admission of aliens, or they prohibit aliens to engage in wage-earning occupations. The result is the same, namely, the restriction of the immigration of aliens from one country to another, for settlement or for work. The policies of controlled emigration and of registration of aliens, are likewise evident in recent legislation.

A statement of migration legislation enacted during 1934 and 1935 follows below. (The reader is referred to Jewish Library of Facts, No. 1: "Jewish Migration 1920-1930," by H. S. Linfield, for a discussion of post-war migration policies and their effect on the migration of Jews.)

Belgium. Order of February 15, 1935, provides that aliens desiring to engage in any occupation must secure a permit from the Ministry of Labor.

Royal order of February 28, 1935, provides that beginning April 1, 1935, contractors for municipal or provincial work, must employ labor of Belgian nationality.

Columbia. Decree of January 28,

JEWS GET PUBLIC BUILDING

Mexico City—The largest Jewish celebration ever held here greeted the opening last week of the first Jewish public building in Mexico City, the new building for the Jewish School endowed by three local Jews.

More than 2,000 persons attended the dedication. There was a musical program and performances by Jewish school children and M. Berger, director, outlined the history of the school for the last eleven years. Joseph Tchnoritzky, a teacher, made the opening address and H. B. Tafelov presided.

The school, which has been recognized by the Government, was the gift of Meyer Katz, H. S. Barru and Sam Rosen.
