PALESTINE GROWS

32,000 Jewish immigrants and refugees entered Palestine during the year 1939. This total represents a conservative figure, as it is estimated that the actual number of refugees who entered during the last 12 months is much larger. The same holds true for the years 1937 and 1938. The official figure for 1937 is 29,387 and for 1938 it is 11,263 according to Government reports.

The restriction of imports to Palestine as a result of the war has spurred the local production in industries and in agriculture. Close to 40 new plants have been opened since the outbreak of the war and 70 new articles have been added to the list of Palestine products. Orders for clothing, footwear and other articles have been placed by the British Army in Palestine. Some countries like Turkey, which formerly obtained supplies of industrial products from Germany, are now transferring orders to Palestine, especially for pharmaceutical and medicinal products. On the whole Palestine which now has a Jewish population of over one-half million, has again shown its ability to absorb large masses of newcomers. However, greater financial support is essential to meet the needs growing out of the war situation.

Due to the crisis in the citrus and building industries precipitated by the war, a serious unemployment problem is now confronting Palestine. Every effort is being made to meet this problem by the inauguration of public works and direct relief.

IN MEMORIAM

Our heartfelt sympathy is extended to the bereaved families of Bertha Gluckman, Fred Scheibel and Charles H. Porus.

DR. WEIZMANN, PRESIDENT OF WORLD ZIONIST ORGANIZATION, WILL SPEAK THURSDAY, JANUARY 25th.

Cleveland Jewry will pay tribute to one of the greatest Jewish figures in recent history when it honors Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the Jewish Agency for Palestine and head of the World Zionist Organization at a community meeting Thursday evening, January 25, at 8:30 P. M., at the Public Music Hall. Free tickets for the meeting are available to members of the congregation and affiliated organizations.

Plans are under way to make the event the most distinguished of its kind ever held here. It will be Dr. Weizmann's only visit to Ohio during his short stay in this country, and to the meeting he will bring a first hand picture of events in Palestine and Europe.

More than any other individual, Dr. Weizmann is credited with responsibility for the issuance of the Balfour Declaration in 1917, which paved the way for the growth of the Jewish population in Palestine from 50,000 to 500,000, including tens of thousands of refugees.

He headed the first Zionist Commission that went into Palestine after the World War, formed the Jewish Agency for Palestine to bring such non-Zionists as the late Louis Marshall and Felix Warburg into the task of colonizing and reclaiming the country, and was largely responsible for the founding of the Hebrew University on Mt. Scopus whose Board of Governors he now heads.

His scientific discoveries as director of the chemical laboratories for the British Admiralty are universally recognized as having been of great importance in helping the Allies to win the World War.

Large delegations from other cities are expected to come to Cleveland for the meeting.

JEWISH EXILES IN POLAND

Mr. Villard Reveals Horrors of Hitler Inferno in Lublin Area

To the Editor of the New York Times:

The American public should not be misled by the news that Hitler has temporarily stopped the forced migration of the Jews of Germany, Austria, Czechoslovakia and Poland to the so-called "Jewish State" in Poland. If this horror has been held up for the moment it can only be a temporary interruption, for the determination to "wind up" the Jewish situation in this way was manifested when I was recently in Berlin. The explanation undoubtedly is that reported by the London Daily Telegraph at the end of November—that an outbreak of typhus and other contagious diseases had occurred among the 40,000 to 50,000 people already jammed into what was intended to be the greatest concentration camp in history, and if the policy is continued will become one vast charnel house. For sadistic cruelty—yes, for deliberate wholesale murder—I know of nothing in history to surpass this atrocity. It is reported that the land near Lublin which has been assigned for this purpose is the worst in Poland, but that is relatively of no importance. If it were the very best soil available in Europe it would in no wise mitigate the savage and deliberate intention of Hitler to destroy what is left of the Jews in this way.

Robbed and Exiled

The week before I was in Vienna eighty-four Jews who had been summoned to leave for Poland committed suicide, of whom thirty-six were women. Every remaining Jew, wherever he may be in Germany or in Czechoslovakia, sits in his home expecting with every ring of the doorbell that his death sentence has arrived. Those who have been selected are compelled to leave on twenty-four hours' notice and are allowed to take with them only 300 marks and such clothing and belongings as they can carry—of course, few of them have the heavy winter clothing needed for the trip to Poland. They are robbed of all they possess in accordance with Nazi custom, for they are deprived of furniture, property of all kinds, jewelry, etc., which are at once appropriated by the government. The victims are jammed into open cattle cars without heat or conveniences of any kind or proper food. They are days on the road, for the trains proceed as if they were freight trains, under conditions that would be forbidden by law if the contents of the cars were cattle and not human beings. I have seen letters to American consuls protesting against these horrors, letters written by Aryan Germans who said they could not stand it any longer without appealing to the United States Government to protest in the name of humanity. I still hope that the government will do this, just as it protested during the Administration of Theodore Roosevelt against the Kishineff massacres. Those massacres horrified the world then and were stopped by public opinion in Europe and the United States. They were merciful compared to what Hitler is doing.

Protest is Urged

The only hope that remains, unless the Germans are defeated in this war, is to protest against the concentration-camp policy and to keep up the protest. I believe that if it is in any way possible and the infectious diseases are stamped out, Hitler will again undertake the enforced transportation of the remaining Jews. He is obsessed with this policy of moving minorities, just as he has moved the Tyrolese Germans and is moving the 800,000 Baltic Germans. When the latter arrive in Germany they are met by officials and committees and Red Cross delegations, and all sorts of preparations are made in advance for their reception and their housing. They are, moreover, to be paid for the properties they have to leave behind them. By contrast, no arrangements whatsoever are made for the transportation of the Jews to Poland. They are simply jammed into this camp with their 300 marks and, according to the statements made to me by reliable persons in Germany, are left to starve or perish or to find meager shelter in homes abandoned by the Poles who have been moved away. When it is considered that the large majority of the victims of this policy are people of refinement and culture, or white-collar workers not accustomed to bitter hardships and exhausting manual labor, the deliberate wickedness of the whole undertaking becomes patent and undeniable. Of course, nothing is known of this by the German people; I saw not one reference to it in the German newspapers during the nearly four weeks that I was there. What news has come out has found its way chiefly to Holland.

It is my earnest hope that "The Times" will continue to focus public attention upon the plight of the Jewish victims of Hitler bestiality.
