GEORGE WASHINGTON

Inscription at Mt. Vernon

Washington, the brave, the wise, the good,
 Supreme in war, in council, and in peace,
 Valiant without ambition, discreet without fear,
 Confident without presumption.
 In disaster, calm; in success, moderate;
 in all, himself,
 The hero, the patriot, the friend of mankind,
 Who, when he had won all, renounced all,
 Then sought in the bosom of his family
 and of nature, retirement,
 And in the hope of religion, immortality.

Washington's First Wish

My first wish is to see the whole world at peace and the inhabitants of it, as one band of workers, striving which should contribute most to the happiness of mankind.

Washington's Words

Observe good faith and justice toward all nations; cultivate peace and harmony with all. It will be worthy of a free, enlightened and a great nation, to give to mankind the example of a people always guided by an exalted justice and benevolence.

The cause of America and liberty is the cause of every virtuous American citizen, whatever may be his religion or descent.

It is incumbent upon every person of every description to contribute to his country's welfare.

TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR PARENTS

By Paul M. Pitman, in The Parents' Magazine

1. Thou shalt love thy child with all thy heart, with all thy soul, with all thy strength, but wisely, with all thy mind.
2. Thou shalt think of thy child, not as something belonging to thee, but as a person.
3. Thou shalt regard his respect and love, not as something to be demanded but something worth earning.
4. Every time thou are out of patience with thy child's immaturity and blundering, thou shalt call to mind some of the childish adventures and mistakes which attended thine own coming of age.
5. Remember that it is thy child's privilege to make a hero out of thee, and take thou thought to be a proper one.
6. Remember also that thine example is more eloquent than thy fault-finding and moralizing.
7. Thou shalt strive to be a signpost on the highway of life rather than a rut out of which the wheel cannot turn.
8. Thou shalt teach thy child to stand on his own feet and fight his own battles.
9. Thou shalt help thy child to see beauty, to practice kindness, to love truth, and to live in friendship.
10. Thou shalt make of the place wherein thou dwellest a real home—a haven of happiness for thyself, for thy children, for thy friends and for thy children's friends.

The name of Lois Goldberger was omitted from those who participated in the pageant last Sabbath morning.

The illuminated globe used in the pageant was furnished by Taylor & Co.

PRAYER BOOK MEMORIAL

THE NEW PRAYER BOOKS, which were introduced into our service last Friday evening, offer an opportunity to members to memorialize their dear ones through the Prayer Book Fund. The names of those memorialized will be inscribed on a memorial plate placed within each prayer book.

Our Congregation has acquired several hundred prayer books but still needs several hundred more.

THE BRITISH WAR RELIEF has just received a SOS from England for warm clothing for the Allies. The British War Relief is conducting a drive through the month of February and will accept your contribution of clothing at their headquarters, Perry House 2157 Euclid Avenue. They will also see to it that the garments are cleaned and repaired if necessary.

Story of the Week

Peter the Great once inspected a battalion of soldiers. Anxious to test the loyalty of his troops, he approached a big overgrown peasant, in uniform, and said: "Listen, soldier, if I should tell you to shoot me, would you obey?"

"Yes, Your Majesty," returned the sturdy trooper, "I must do whatever my superiors tell me."

Putting the question to numerous other soldiers, the sovereign received the same reply.

At last the Czar approached a Jewish soldier, and to his query whether he would shoot him upon request, the Israelite emphatically declared that he would not.

The great ruler was deeply moved. There was at least one soldier whose love for his King outweighed his sense of duty.

"Tell me, my child," said the monarch, emotionally, to the faithful soldier, "why wouldn't you?"

"I am a drummer," stated the loyal soldier, in a matter-of-fact tone, "and I am not supposed to do any shooting."

—From "Laughs from Jewish Lore," by Jacob Richman.

SOME PARENTS

"Some parents say that religion is an intimate, personal matter, which every child has a right to choose for himself, and that they propose to leave the child neutral while he is growing up, and then let him freely select his own religion. Even if we try to, we cannot keep the child neutral religiously. Religion is not an addition to life but the very climate that pervades the whole of living. As soon as a child is born in any home, it begins creating in him a spiritual climate, teaching him basic relations to life, feelings about life, which inevitably enter into the very substance of any religion which he will ever possess."—Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick.

ABOUT JEWISH SOLDIERS

Robert Cushner, the son of a rabbi in Danville, Va., distinguished himself by doing substitute medical duty after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, where there was a great scarcity of physicians. He thereby saved many lives. His work was greatly appreciated by the professional physicians in Hawaii, and the "Hickman Highlights," a newspaper issued at the flying field, featured him as the "Soldier of the Week."

Though handicapped by the lack of surgical equipment, Lieut. Commander Dr. Lionel Oster, a New York Jewish physician, performed a successful operation on a nurse on board a transport ship carrying the A. E. F. to Northern Ireland. The entire convoy had to stop while the operation was performed, and although such an operation usually takes forty-five minutes, Dr. Oster completed it in only thirty minutes.

Corporal Theodore J. Lewis of Philadelphia, who was mortally wounded when the Japanese struck Pearl Harbor, gave his life in the act of saving men under his command who were in the line of enemy machine gun fire, according to a letter from Captain H. E. Lieber of Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, to the mother of the deceased. The Captain writes: "Corporal Lewis lived only three hours after being wounded. Several of his comrades owe their lives to him, since it was because of his action in carrying them out of the line of fire of the machine guns of an enemy plane that he exposed himself. For this act of valor you should be proud, and the Government is proud of his unselfish action. Corporal Lewis was the first member of his battery and of his battalion to give his life for his country during the war."

"GOD SHOWS IN YOUR FACE"

You don't have to tell how you live each day;
 You don't have to say if you work or you play;
 A tried, true barometer serves in the place,
 However you live, it will show in your face.
 The false, the deceit that you bear in your heart
 Will not stay inside where it first got a start;
 For sinew and blood are a thin veil of lace—
 What you wear in your heart, you wear in your face.
 If your life is unselfish, if for others you live,
 For not what you get, but how much you can give;
 If you live close to God in His infinite grace—
 You don't have to tell it, it shows in your face. —Author Unknown.

SILENCE AS A NET

Silence is a net which holds many things. There is a moment after a song is sung, when silence seems full of music; when the thought remembers the sounds' wonders.

Silence is so much more than the absence of all sound. In a green valley, the silence is a kind of golden dream in which the imagination lingers. But in the high places, where the mountains lift their heads above the clouds, silence is a cool hand laid on the heart, a deep river seen far off. On the vast desert, under the dome of stars, silence is a deep well in which we gaze. On the blue sea silence is full of rhythm, and the eyes follow the tides, and seek the pathways hidden from the sun, far below the water-surface where an unknown silence dwells.

Silence broken can be a lovely thing. The brittle snow breaking under the foot breaks the silence of the winter day, and in the sound is the echo of frost and the music of cold. In autumn, one leaf falling wakes the stillness, and drifts through the blue shadow of smoke like a quiet word said. In summer, the white fountain makes a pattern of sound against the dark stone, against the languid hour. And in spring, the first bird-note wakes the heart, after the long silence of the winter season.

Silence is a gift offered for solace.
