Temple Briefs

THE CONGREGATION HAS BECOME SO LARGE (1640 families, "Ken Yirbu") that it is next to impossible for the Rabbi to know where a call from him would be appreciated. You will render a real service if you will notify him or his secretary, Miss Vivian Weiss, Cedar 0862, of cases of illness in the families of the congregation, or where there is a significant anniversary. Though the Rabbi is an unusually busy person, with a tremendous number of local and national demands, he and his wife nevertheless find time to visit when they are notified.

RABBI ARTHUR LELYVELD, of New York, addressed the High School Department last Sunday morning.

ENROLLMENT IN THE HIGH SCHOOL DEPARTMENT now stands at 111 and the total enrollment of the Religious School at 913. The Special Hebrew Department has 138 pupils while the Club Department which had an attendance of 172 during its first week of meetings expects a considerable increase.

THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION CULTURAL GROUPS started last week with young an attendance of more than 60 young people.

A discussion group with Mr. Leichtman meets every first and third Tuesday of the month in the Library. The Choral Group under the direction of Mr. Erwin Jospe meets every Wednesday evening in the parlor. A second discussion group will meet Friday evenings immediately after the service. The meeting days of the Hebrew group will be announced.

HONORED!

Eunice Podis, a 1936 confirmand, is the winner of the National Federation of Music Club Award, $1,000 cash prize and appeared on the General Motors program over the N. B. C. networks.

Her future engagements include appearances with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, Chautauqua Music School, and recitals in Omaha, Baltimore, Portland, Maine and various cities in Ohio plus a date scheduled for Town Hall, New York.

Another Temple-ite, Sonja Monosoff, has won the Louis Persinger fellowship in violin in the Graduate Department of the Juilliard School of Music, New York.

Miss Monosoff received her musical education at the Cleveland Institute of Music and was concertmaster not only at Heights High School but also with the Cleveland Philharmonic Orchestra.

Miss Monosoff is a confirmand of our Temple and graduated from our three-day-a-week Hebrew School.

Carole Lasher, an eighth grade student in our Religious School recently won the title of "Quiz Kid" in a city-wide contest. Thirteen year old Carole also won the Press Spelling contest in the spring. She was on a nation-wide Quiz Kid broadcast Sunday night, October 4. Nice going, Carole.

We also take pride in the achievement of four of our confirmands and graduates of our High School Department who are on their way up in the Rabbinate.

Rabbi Bernard Starkoff has just been elected Rabbi of Ohev Shalom Temple in Norfolk, Virginia.

Sanford Rosen, a senior at Hebrew Union College has been appointed acting Rabbi of B'nai Zion Congregation in Shreveport, Louisiana.

Robert Raab and Benno Wallach, also students at the Hebrew Union College, occupied the pulpits of Jackson, Tenn., and Mansfield, Ohio respectively, for the High Holy Days.

DIETZ BOOK ON ATOMIC ENERGY

David Dietz, science editor of the Scripps-Howard Newspapers and one of the world's foremost popularizers of science has just completed a book entitled "Atomic Energy and the Coming Era." In it, Mr. Dietz discusses the atomic bomb that ended the war with Japan, the scientific researches that led up to it and their meaning for the future of America and the world.

Mr. Dietz has been following the researches in the field of atomic structure and the release of atomic energy for more than 25 years. His first article on atom-smashing appeared in 1919 and resulted from an interview with the late Sir Oliver Lodge. In 1921 he wrote his first interview with Prof. Einstein and in 1923, while in Europe, he interviewed Lord Rutherford, the great pioneer in atom-smashing.

Born in Cleveland October 6, 1897, Mr. Dietz received his B. A. degree from Western Reserve University in 1919 and carried on postgraduate study in biology and physics there and in astronomy at Case School of Applied Science.

We are proud too of the fact that Mr. Dietz is a member of our Board of Trustees and active in Temple activities for many years. He was confirmed here as were also his two daughters. We take this opportunity of congratulating him on the appearance of his new book which deserves and undoubtedly will have a wide circulation.

In 1921 Mr. Dietz assumed his present post of science editor of the Scripps-Howard newspapers. In 1923 he was sent to Liverpool to report the meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science and to visit France. As a result of this trip, Mr. Dietz was elected a fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society of Great Britain and a member of the Societe Astronomique de France. He is also a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Ohio Academy of Science and the American Astronomical Society.

"The Story of Science," Mr. Dietz's first book was published in 1931 and his second book, "Medical Magic" in 1938. In 1937 he won the Pulitzer Prize in Journalism, the most coveted honor in the newspaper world. Mr. Dietz is widely known not only as an editor and author but as a lecturer as well. Mr. Dietz combines a brilliant and non-technical style of writing with a fund of information that is as authoritative as it is broad.

THE JUNIOR ALUMNI at its Inaugural Dinner-Dance installed Lilly Kramer as President; David Shaber as Vice-President; Carolyn Cort as Recording Secretary; Annette Weiss as Corresponding Secretary; and Irving Gray as Treasurer. Edith Merlin, Audrey Parnes, Richard Porus, Cyvia Cort, Gloria Werner, Annette Matyas, Bert Dragin and Joanne Gomberg are members of the Junior Alumni Board.

CLASS 4B had 100% attendance on that very rainy Sunday of October 14.

COURSES FOR ADULTS SPONSORED BY BUREAU

The Institute of Jewish Studies, a school for young people and adults is announced by the Bureau of Jewish Education and the Cleveland Hebrew Schools. Sessions will be held at the Friedland Education Center, 10501 East Boulevard.

Elementary Hebrew is offered Tuesday and Wednesday evenings 7:30 to 8:30 P. M.; conversational Hebrew and Grammar on Thursday evenings 7:30 to 8:30; advanced courses on Sunday 2:30 to 4:30 P. M. and Tuesdays from 10 to 12 A. M.

Courses in Jewish History, Literature, Jewish Law and Customs, Yiddish, Classroom Management, Bible, and Palestine, are in the process of organization. The day and the hour of the courses may be changed to suit the convenience of those wishing to take them. Courses are free.

Here is a fine opportunity to acquire a knowledge of our language and history. For further details call Mr. Schub, Cedar 3376.

YOUR FAMILY AND MINE

Respect for Children

Growing up is a process of moving from the helplessness of infancy to greater and greater independence and self-reliance. It is slow and full of uncertainties, but the most natural thing in the world and it can be thoroughly enjoyable. One important fact about this process is that its success or failure—the child's success or failure—usually depends to a large extent upon someone else, the mother and father.

The well-cared-for child knows and feels that he and his doings are important in the eyes of his parents. He feels wanted, though not indulged nor imprisoned with affection. Routine and discipline are a part of his life, and not usually a very unpleasant part if there are also fun and good times in which the mother and father share. He probably won't mind too much having his father tell him to clean up his room and go to bed at 8, when his best friend stays up until 9, if he knows that his father is also the kind of a man who may take him to a ball game next week.

The child's most damaging experience may be simply fears, with or without foundation, which seem trivial or unimportant to his elders—fear of being left, fear of being displaced by a new brother or sister, fear of competition, and fear of not being liked. Fear, caused by the never-ending succession of new experiences and demands on the growing child, always needs careful and patient handling.

The growing child needs the warmth and devoted interest of his parents in order that he may more nearly measure up to the demands of parenthood some day himself.

OUR APOLOGIES to Sydney Deutsch whose name was inadvertently omitted from the list of ushers who served on the High Holy Days.

IN MEMORIAM

Our heartfelt sympathy is extended to the bereaved family of Oscar A. Drucker.

DR. STEINBERG WRITES A GUIDE FOR JEWISH LIVING

RABBI MILTON STEINBERG again proves himself one of America's great scholars of Jewish affairs in his new book, A PARTISAN GUIDE TO THE JEWISH PROBLEM. The author approaches his subject with an understanding reverence and clarity which cannot help but illumine for the reader the many paths leading to the future of American Jewry. These paths, as represented by the dominant points of view now extant in the Jewish community in the United States, are treated by Rabbi Steinberg on a factual basis that almost belies the title of the book.

The two chapters on anti-Semitism attempt to analyze the present situation in the light of the "problems's" historical background. Rabbi Steinberg displays a familiarity with anti-Semitism in all its aspects, both historical and contemporary, that gives the reader the privilege of exploring the darkest recesses of this world plague with the aid of an authority, whose most endearing characteristic is simplicity. These chapters alone could suffice as a reason for the book's publication.

The book is really three books in one. In addition to anti-Semitism, it takes up, and in some instances tears apart the intricate network of Jewish organizations, and ends with the most concise, unemotional and therefore most effective plea for Zionism the writer has ever read.

Milton Steinberg has written a guide for Jewish living, as well as a documentation of a centuries' old problem.

Victory cannot be bought with any amount of money, however large; victory is achieved by the blood of soldiers, the sweat of working men and women, and the sacrifices of all people—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The new democracy will give us freedom such as we have never known, but only if as individuals we perform our duties with willing hearts. It will be an adventure in sharing—sharing of duties and responsibilities and sharing of the joy that can come from the give-and-take of human contacts and fruitful daily living.—Henry A. Wallace.

LABOR PARTY IS BLAMED FOR STRIFE IN PALESTINE

If the British Labor party would cease injecting intrigue and fanaticism into the Near East there would be no armed eruption between the Jews and Arabs in Palestine, Rabbi Barnett R. Brickner asserted in his sermon last Friday night.

Palestine today is a war front although no open declaration has—or will be—made, he said. Because the British Labor party, while showing itself mildly radical on the home front, is as Tory as possible in its foreign policy, it fears to take any step which might change the British hold on her colonies, he added.

"Atlee once advocated the Arabs be moved out of Palestine to restore it to the Jews," Rabbi Brickner said. "How they dread any change in the status quo of British colonies for fear a change in their empire policy may throw 20,000,000 British laborites out of work."

No Future for Many

At present there are one and a half million Jews left in Europe. There is no future for these where they now exist. Only about half of these are strong enough or young enough to try to find a new place to live, Rabbi Brickner pointed out. He called the suggestions made by some American leaders to apportion these Jews to the United States, Canada, Australia and a few other larger countries as "surprisingly infantile."

"You can't cart these humans off like rationed potatoes or cabbages," the rabbi said. "And Palestine is home to them by every symbol of designation."

Rabbi Brickner called the Arab Federation a British work of intrigue. The Arabs, he said, are a completely heterogeneous race with nothing in common between the Trans-Jordan Arab and the cultured Cairo resident. They would never want or be able to organize a league of Arabs.

There is no foundation for the fanatical fear being bred among the Arabs that if the Jews are permitted to enter

Palestine, the Arabs' present numerical majority will be wiped out, he continued.

"It's not a question of millions of Jews pouring into Palestine," Rabbi Brickner said. "At the most there will be three-quarters of a million added to the 600,000 Jews who now live there."

"Nor is it a matter of the Jews demanding a Jewish sovereign state. It is a Jewish commonwealth that may in time—once the economic absorption is made possible—give the Jews the same kind of autonomy the world is likely to confer on other small peoples," he said.

What happens to the Jews in Palestine may well be the barometer predicting what will happen to peace in the world, he said. And because peace in the world is our problem as much or more than any other nation's, the United States cannot ignore it.

If President Truman, his cabinet members and Congress would take a definite stand on what is needed in Palestine—and mean it—there would be no delay in solving the problem of Palestine, Rabbi Brickner asserted. As it is, the Palestine Jews mean to fight it out with the British. Thousands of Jewish youth are trained and armed, prepared to protect themselves against lawless elements in the country.

The Jews may, he concluded, refuse to co-operate in continuing to pay 70 per cent of the taxes collected in the Palestine area if they are forced by desperation into aggressiveness.
