Temple Briefs

The last few weeks have been notable ones in our Temple calendar . . . The Religious School conducted a Patriotic Service and Pageant . . . The Men's Club Father and Son dinner drew a capacity attendance of close to 500 . . . Brotherhood Week featured a service on Friday evening with the John Howard Choir of radio-fame in a program of spirituals . . . The Alumni Youth Service attended by 200 young people . . . The celebration of National Jewish Music Week by the Sisterhood and by the Congregation . . . The very successful Welcome Home for our servicemen . . . The supper meeting with Rabbi Brickner for parents of the primary department . . . These are special events and do not include the usual activities carried on regularly from week to week. Most of these events have already been described in previous Bulletins.

About 500 attended the Welcome Home Open House and Dance for ex-Servicemen on Saturday evening, February 23, a most enjoyable affair. It was a delight to watch the many reunions accompanied by warm handshakes and happy smiles. Rabbi and Mrs. Brickner were on hand to greet their guests together with Judge and Mrs. Maurice Bernon, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kane, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Gardner and Howard Klein, presidents, respectively, of the Congregation, Sisterhood, Men's Club, and the Alumni . . . Thanks for a swell job to the committee: Bernard Kaufman, chairman; Mrs. Sidney Weiss, Mrs. Otto Zinner, Mrs. Maurice Bernon, Mrs. Norman Less, Mrs. Marvin Gardner, Mrs. Bernard Pincus, Ruth Gal, Pauline Harris, and Ray Fox. Also to the Boy Scouts who handled the check room.

The Sisterhood Musicale, on Tuesday, February 27, presented Eunice Podis, Saul Meisels, and Harry Fuchs in a program of Jewish music that delighted and thrilled the audience of 700. The afternoon was a high point in the year's program of the Sisterhood.

The "Songs of Israel" on Friday evening, March 1, marked the second annual Service of Music, presented by Erwin Jospe and his Euclid Avenue Temple Festival Chorus of 50 voices. This event too was part of our participation in National Jewish Music Week observance. Mr. Jospe again demonstrated that in addition to his other musical talents, he is an outstanding choral director. The Temple was filled to capacity.

A LIVING MEMORIAL

Some 20 years ago, two elementary school boys established a friendship that was destined to last until death. They were inseparable during their school years, and, later, through their high school years. After their graduation, they shook hands and said good-bye, for they wouldn't be seeing much of each other from then on. One of them came from a well-to-do family; he was to start his pre-medical training at the University of California in the fall. The parents of the other boy were poor; he was going to work.

And that's the way it went, and things went along like that until the war came. The pre-medical student left the university and joined the Air Force. The other shifted to a vital war industry job, and kept plugging. One day, the flyer's mother received a War Department telegram. It was bad news. The hospital plane her son had been flying was shot down. Her son was dead.

He was an only son, and it took his mother many months to get over it. Not to get over it exactly, but to accept the fact of his death, to adjust herself to his never coming back. When she could look ahead again, an idea began to turn in her mind. An idea for what would, in a way, be a living memorial to her dead son. She sat down and wrote a letter to his boyhood friend.

"Dear Joe: By now, you must have heard of Arthur's death in action. I remember you when you were playmates together, and I remember how fond you were of each other. And now he is gone, living on only in the hearts of a loving mother. But I have thought of a way in which he can live on in another sense, a broader, more unselfish sense. Like him, you wanted to be a doctor, to ease human pain and suffering. But your family was too poor to pay, or even to help pay, your way through the long years of university training. They needed your help, so you did the only thing you could. But now they are in better circumstances, and you are more free. If you are still interested in being a doctor, I want you to be one. I want you to take Arthur's place at the University. Nothing would make me happier than to pay your way, every bit of it, and thus do for Arthur's best friend what I had so hoped to do for him. I have thought of it as a sort of living memorial to him, and I know it is what he would want . . ."

Humble, grateful and determined to live up to the faith placed in him, Joe entered the pre-medical school at the University of California two months later, and, ordinarily, that would be the end of this story. But there's something to add, and it's this: The dead pilot was a Jew. His boyhood friend, the one who's carrying on in his place, is a Negro.—Robert Obrien, Free Synagogue Bulletin.

PLIGHT OF CHILDREN IN EUROPE

James Marshall, member of the New York City Board of Education, urged yesterday that Jewish teachers "go in person or give their support to sending other teachers to Europe to help rebuild the spiritual and educational life of Jewish children remaining in continental Europe."

Mr. Marshall, who returned recently from a tour of Europe, addressed 750 members of the Jewish Teachers Association at their seventeenth annual luncheon, held at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

"Before the war there were 1,200,000 Jewish children in continental Europe, outside of Russia," said Mr. Marshall. "Today there are about 150,000. Most of the orphan Jewish children—especially those in Germany—are at loose ends, completely aimless, among demoralized adults. The problem of how to care for them will last for several years, and the morale of the children may be irretrievably lost. In most countries—notably in Germany, Poland and Yugoslavia—these children are receiving no formal education at all."—N. Y. Times.

I HAVE FAITH IN JUDAISM

"Not only is Judaism my faith but I have faith in Judaism. I have faith in its capacity to enhance the value and dignity of the human personality, to nourish human brotherhood, to cultivate a willing subjection to morality and justice, to foster humility and mercy and love, to keep in high esteem learning and intellectual honesty, to mould its adherents to prefer the ways of peace, of social justice and democracy."—Judge Simon Rifkind.

AND WHAT DOES GENERAL MORGAN SAY?

From Paris:

... "Jewish life in Europe is at low ebb. Jews in Europe look to the U. S. for material help and spiritual as well ...

"My campaign for clothing for the orphans of Paris has brought gratifying results ... Friends and B'nai B'rith have been generous in their response. The kids are having a more comfortable winter because of them ... Baroness Rothschild, with whom I talked, is now interested in a more vital educational program for the children. The Jewish Scouts of France is the only organization I've come across which has the genuine enthusiasm and limited personnel capable of carrying out a rounded program of activity ... Another idea is the conversion of one of the Rothschild buildings into a Youth Center. The orphanage program will be used as a stepping stone. The baroness has just returned from a five year stay in the States and is therefore in a more receptive frame of mind than most influential Jews of Paris ...

"The J. D. C. has been giving some financial assistance to two orphanages now run by the Jewish scouts. These places seem to be the only ones that have some sort of Jewish program for the children. To get such a program introduced in the Rothschild places and others will be a wonderful achievement from a Jewish point of view ..."

Lt. Sam Gursky.

And from Hochst, Germany:

... "This past week I met Rabbi Lookstein who was visiting the Jewish Chaplains as a representative of the JWB. He told me that his inspection and visit was a primary mission when he left the States but he's pushed that into the background and is now concentrating on the problems of the Jewish DP's. He said that the only way to convince the Anglo-American Committee that Palestine is the only solution for the remaining Jews in Europe is to have them visit the DP camps. There is one near Frankfurt which I expect to visit shortly. The JWB Center people told me that they would gladly accept anything I had to offer. So I've written to the folks to send me food and clothing. I've always given away my candy ration so now I'll have a more worthwhile cause. There are 80 Jewish children. We have a box in the building where the boys can drop their candy ration which is then taken to the DP camps. They also give their extra toilet articles, soap, medical items and a host of other things. Perhaps this outlet will decrease the number who deal in the black market, which I understand exists even in this poverty-stricken area. Frankfurt seems almost completely devastated except for the buildings occupied for official purposes. It's a horrible sight to have about you all the time ..."

CARDINAL FAULHABER TO ASK POPE TO ISSUE PASTORAL MESSAGE AGAINST ANTI-SEMITISM

Munich, Feb. 10 (JTA)—Cardinal Faulhaber, Archbishop of Munich, told members of the Anglo-American Palestine Inquiry Committee yesterday that he plans to ask Pope Pius to issue a pastoral message calling on all Catholics in Europe to fight anti-Semitism.

The Cardinal, who is to leave for Rome today, declared he would present a memorandum to the Pope requesting that he take every step possible to eliminate anti-Semitism not only from Germany but from the rest of the world, particularly Europe.

Cardinal Faulhaber voiced these sentiments during a two-hour audience he gave Bartley Crum, American member, and Sir Frederick Leggett, British member of a Palestine inquiry sub-committee, in his palace here.

"Anti-Semitism is a curse against humanity," Cardinal Faulhaber was quoted as declaring. "The whole Christian religion was founded on the Old Testament, a product of the Jewish spirit, and therefore anti-Semitism is completely an act of Anti-Christ. I, as Cardinal, will do everything in my power to convince the Catholics of Bavaria that they must eradicate from their hearts any remnants of anti-Semitism.

"A Germany without Jews is unthinkable. We must have Jews in Germany. Jews have the same right to live in Germany as I, having been born in Germany, have a right to live here. The Jews likewise have a right to live in peace here. I hope to see German Jews return to Germany. I had hoped to see our great Jewish physicians return to our hospitals. I am astonished to learn that only one has returned."

JEWS WANT PALESTINE

The committee members pointed out to the Cardinal that in their questioning of displaced Jews in the American zone of occupation they had found that virtually 99 percent of them wished to go to Palestine. These DP's have made up their minds, the committee members said, that there was no future for them in Germany, and that if the Americans withdrew from Germany the Jews felt they would be slaughtered as their relatives were.

Cardinal Faulhaber asked Crum to take up with President Truman the possibility of bringing into Germany canned milk and clothing collected under the auspices of the Catholic Church, which is now being held in Switzerland because it has not been cleared by the American authorities for shipment to Germany. These supplies, he said, would be used not only for Germans but for Jewish children as well.

THE FRUIT OF DISCRIMINATION

"America will never come to full flower until discrimination against Negroes and all Jews and all minority groups is erased from our national and personal lives, for of such groups is made the greatness of America. Any discrimination tears into shreds the solidarity of the human race and makes a mockery of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Christ. We have asked the Negro and the Jew to fight and die for democracy; it would be the basest cynicism to refuse to share with them that democracy."

Bishop Bernard J. Sheil.

JEWS ON ALL FRONTS

Incomplete record reveals that 600,000 Jews served in armed forces of U. S. during the war; 29,000 of them were decorated! The Jewish Welfare Board has announced that, according to very incomplete records to date, some 600,000 Jewish men and women have served in the armed forces—or a number equal to 40 divisions! Other facts announced:

29,004 Jews were decorated in service.

22,042 were combat casualties.

Of those decorated, one received the Congressional Medal of Honor; 76 earned the Distinguished Service Cross for the Army or the Navy Cross, the second highest awards.

40 Jewish families lost two sons each in the service and one family is known to have lost three.

15 Jews served with the rank of General, and three with the rank of Admiral or Commodore.

More than 50% of the American rabinate volunteered for the chaplaincy, and half of them served overseas.

One-third of the Jewish physicians of all ages were in uniform, and of those under 45, 60% were in service.
