PRESBYTERIANS FLAY RACIAL BIGOTRY

Acting to stem the increase of bigotry, the Presbyterian Church at its 87th General Assembly this summer at Montreat, North Carolina, said in a special report:

"We cannot rightly assume that all denials of civil rights are perpetrated by secret bands that parade in sheets by night. The possibility of similar misdeeds in less spectacular fashion should keep us eternally vigilant."

To implement its stand against prejudice, the assembly asked the congressional committee on un-American activities to "be no less concerned to investigate and expose the un-Americanism of organizations like the Columbians and the Ku Klux Klan, than it is to expose organizations whose subversive activities stem from their communist character."

The assembled churchmen asked the American people to "throw their influence and the influence of their local churches on the side of those forces that seek to uphold for all kinds and classes of Americans their civil and constitutional liberties."

SOLITAIRE

The guard on an Italian train (on which gambling is prohibited and punishable by a heavy fine) suspected three passengers in one carriage, an Englishman, an Italian, and a Jew, of playing poker. They denied the charge; and he cross-examined them squarely. "As a Catholic," he said to the Italian, "do you swear by all that is holy to you that you were not playing poker?"

"I swear it," replied the Italian.

"As a Protestant," said the guard to the Englishman, "do you swear that you were not playing poker?"

"I swear it," replied the Englishman.

He then put the equivalent question to the Jew.

"Sir," said the Jew, "can a man play poker alone?"

The Play House currently is presenting a play of particular interest because of its frank and honest portrayal of the fight of a Jewish soldier against two enemies in the Pacific—the Japanese and discrimination. The play, "Home of the Brave," is written by ex-GI Arthur Laurents and won its author the Sidney Howard Memorial Award for the 1945-46 Broadway season.

Acclaimed by critics during its New York run, the play brings to the stage the predicament of a lad who is a soldier and a Jew, but above all is a human being. The scenes range from a hospital where the soldier, Coney, is being treated by a psychiatrist, to a mapping expedition on a Jap-infested Pacific Island.

LIFE IN PALESTINE

(On the 30th Anniversary of the Balfour Declaration, Nov. 2, 1947)

BUTTERFLIES

The greatest collection of butterflies in the Middle East and one of the greatest in private hands, was recently opened to the public in the Jewish settlement of Herzlia.

The collection represents the life-work of Dr. Paul Reich, a former Berlin physician. Besides travelling all over Europe, Dr. Reich paid two visits to Brazil, where he succeeded in finding rare specimens on the banks of the Amazon. He was the first to catalogue and describe 70 new varieties. His collection now numbers 15,000 specimens. During the last few years he has been engaged on forming a collection of native butterflies.

His collection has been the envy of butterfly lovers the world over. Tempting offers have come from America, but for Dr. Reich the wings of the butterflies are Gold enough.

LENSES

Contact lenses in place of the usual glass spectacles is the latest achievement of opticians in Palestine. It has taken 2 years to bring the experiments to a successful issue. As a result of long years of labour these lenses can now be made to fit every eye. Hitherto the great Zeiss works at Jena produced only standard sets.

Credit is due to two Hungarian Jews, Drs. Dallos and Rasskos for their researches that have finally enabled the lenses to be put on the market.

These new contact lenses will be a god-send to those suffering from cornea spots and other eye diseases for which the usual glass spectacles are of no avail. These lenses are placed under the lid and contact the eye. They can stay there, however, only 3 hours at a stretch. But experiments are still going on and further improvements will no doubt soon be registered.

One hundred people in the country have already been supplied with these contact lenses. Glass spectacles will soon be a thing of the past. Women, specially, will be grateful to be able to see properly without having over their noses a contraption that spoils their charms.

CACTUS

In the NEGEV, the Desert of South Palestine, experiments to produce a thornless cactus for use as a cattle food, have given excellent results. Palestine has no grass lands and this new cattle food will be a boon to farmers who have hitherto found the question of fodder their greatest worry.

Cactus fruit is delicious. Many people in Palestine prefer a plate of cactus, 10 to 15 pieces, to the usual breakfast of eggs, toast and coffee.

But the cactus season is short, only 2 to 3 weeks in July.

ADVERTISEMENT

A Tel-Aviv cinema hit upon a novel way of advertising a coming film, called DO YOU LOVE ME? It sent out thousands of neat little envelopes to the women of Tel-Aviv and on the envelope were written the words: DO YOU LOVE ME?—Telephone _____ (here was given the cinema's telephone number).

Curiosity got the better of common sense and the cinema's telephone was ringing all day.

Palestinians are fond of the cinema. There are 12 in Tel-Aviv, 6 in Jerusalem, 4 in Haifa, where the latest was opened only a fortnight ago. There must be another 20 scattered up and down the country.

There are two Hebrew periodicals devoted to the film. A review of the week's films is a regular feature of the Palestine Radio.

BUSES

An Arab bus driver was fined 10 shillings in Haifa for coming to work unshaven. A Jewish bus driver was fined 2 shillings for eating his breakfast at the wheel.

This is part of the new drive to make the roads of Palestine safer. Look after the drivers, see to the roads, and the pedestrians can be left to themselves.

FOUNTAIN-PEN

A rich Trans-Jordan merchant, known to be unable to read or write, recently had to put his name to a legal document. Taking out from his pocket, with an air of importance, the most expensive Parker pen here, he placed the gold nib to his thumb; when there was enough ink, he made—a thumb-print on the document.

FISHING

The latest addition to Palestine's fishing fleet is the 50 ton KARISH (Hebrew for shark) which cost £9000, is 18 yards long and 5 yards wide. It is fitted with a 115 horse power engine and has a speed of 10 knots. The automatic refrigerators in the ship can hold 2 tons of fish.

Let Us Help The Jews Raise $170,000,000

By Robert Durr
For The National Negro Press Association

In the name of all that makes the world of humanity one, I most fully urge that colored people contribute to the United Jewish Relief Campaign to raise $170,000,000 for the relief of suffering Jews in Europe.

Colored persons, who know what it is to suffer as those Jews suffer, know how their hearts must be overwhelmed with anxiety as trials and tribulations beyond the poor power of words to describe beset them on every side. We must count it a great effort for the alleviation of suffering of the great Jewish people of Europe.

Two years after VJ-Day no less than 250,000 uprooted victims of the war still are interned in camps for displaced persons, and thousands more are suffering from the aftermath of persecution and tyranny.

There is no such thing as a Jewish race. They are a people—theirs is a faith; hence, they are a people. Their faith makes them what they are. It is for this they suffer.

And in this connection it is well that we all never forget that mankind is one. Those of all faiths, races, colors and nationalities came from the same family tree. All superficial differences are by-products of various climatic conditions—things to which people have been exposed.

We are moved by the deep sense of responsibility exhibited by our Jewish citizens for those of their faith, by the demonstration of a sense of devotion which surpasses all past campaign efforts. Jewish communities all over the United States, comprising a very small percentage of the total population, have shouldered the heroic task of raising $170,000,000. For example, in one city with a total population of only 4,245 men, children and women, Jewish citizens have shouldered responsibility of raising $425,000 in the national campaign.

In the community referred to a Volunteer Christian Committee, composed of leading pastors, have united to carry a part of the Jewish load. They have addressed letters in that city, urging them to support the campaign for funds which will be used to help Europe's helpless Jews.

All of us know of many of the Jewish faith in all parts of the United States who have contributed most generously to every worthwhile effort designed to improve conditions among our people. In this respect, many Jews have been outstanding.

We have not been asked to assist those of the Jewish faith in raising their $170,000,000. This gives us a bountiful opportunity to impress our people with the desirability of contributing to this fund.

Giving to this cause will be like bread cast upon the waters, which will come back to mankind multiplied manifold. All men are our brothers—brothers everywhere—and when men suffer anywhere, men suffer everywhere. Be glad you can give to this cause for were it not for the Grace of God you and I might be among the 250,000 uprooted victims of war. And we can never tell what tomorrow will bring.

THE SPIRIT OF SOS

SOS (Supplies for Overseas Survivors), the relief-in-kind collection of the Joint Distribution Committee, has launched an emergency campaign for six million pounds of food and clothing. It will be possible to weigh the amount of your contribution but not its healing spirit—that is immeasurable and priceless. A patient in a tuberculosis sanatorium in Tatraska, Poland, said, receiving a package of SOS supplies, "It reminds me of the long-forgotten and long-missed warmth of family life." Weigh that, if you can.

In Warsaw, a Polish grandmother dries the tears from her eyes. There are many more like her—bereft of their loved ones, parted from their homes and possessions, but still hoping that this New Year will mark the beginning of a new era. You can give meaning to her courage and faith by contributing to the SOS (Supplies for Overseas Survivors) Fall Campaign for 6,000,000 pounds of food and clothing.

SHEEP

The Palestine shearing season is over. This year the Cup award to the quickest shearer was won by a shepherd from the Beit Hashitta settlement. He clipped a sheep in 2 minutes and 15 seconds. The weight of the wool was 3 lbs. 12 ozs.

IN MEMORIAM
