Deadlines and Guidelines

In order for the office staff to provide quality service to the congregation in a timely manner the following guidelines need to be followed:

Items for the mid-month mailer:

All flyers should be in the office camera ready for printing by the 7th of the month (faxed copies do not photocopy well).

Items for the Bulletin:

All items should be in the office by the 10th of the month.

Flyers to go to specific Temple organizations should be camera ready and in the office at least 10 days before mailing date.

FROM THE Executive Director

Temple Israel wishes to thank its Brotherhood and Sisterhood for the installation of our new handicapped-accessible rest room at the south entrance to our building. The unisex facility will also feature a baby changing-area. The project was funded through advertising sold in the Temple Israel Directories over the past couple of years. Construction began February 12 (and if it is not completed by the time this Bulletin is in your hands, it will be very shortly)! Projects like the handicapped-accessible rest room are shining examples of what caring congregants can do for others when asked. We urge you to support the Temple Israel Brotherhood and Sisterhood when called upon to do so and to thank those whose advertising dollars made the project possible.

At their January meeting, the Temple Israel Board of Trustees asked that letters be sent to congregants who have fallen behind in payment of their 1995-96 membership pledges. In many instances it is just a question of having misplaced a statement or good intentions being forgotten. If you are the recipient of one of those letters and it is a question of financial difficulty, please don't hesitate to contact me or the congregation's Treasurer Bob Kellerman, regarding any extenuating circumstances. All information is kept in strict confidence. We want to serve all our congregants needs as best we can.

Comments on the look of the February Bulletin were most welcome. We've made a couple of other changes in this issue and continue to seek your input. Those wishing to advertise in the publication may contact either Les Somogyi (864-7194) or me (866-0010).

Noteworthy

SIMCHA! MUSIC ON JEWISH THEMES, featuring Daniel Kazez cellist, will be the first in a series of special musical offerings in celebration of Temple Israel's Sesquicentennial year.

Friday evening, March 22 at 8:00 PM, we will gather in the sanctuary for a beautiful Shabbat Service, followed by a very moving concert of music for cello. This concert will be a celebration of classical music influenced by the many musical styles of the Jewish world - Sephardic, Yiddish, Klezmer, Yemenite, Hebrew, Hassidic, Israeli. We will be transported by the musical images of Jewish life - to prayer, to the Kol Nidrei, to an Israeli dance, to a Sephardic dance, to the wedding canopy. We will experience the gamut of Jewish emotions from joyously festive to poignantly plaintive.

Daniel Kazez began playing the cello at the age of five, under the tutelage of Leonard Feldman, cellist of the Alard String Quartet. He has performed as a soloist in many of the musical capitals of Europe, including Berlin, Salzburg, Brussels, and London. His Paris and Florence debuts (in 1995) earned him standing ovations, and he recently performed to a standing-room-only crowd in Rome. His first performance in eastern Europe was at the 1995 Prague International Festival of Jewish Culture. In addition, Kazez has appeared, as performer or speaker, in most of the major metropolitan areas of the U.S. For two seasons, he performed at the Aspen Music Festival. He is currently Associate Professor of Music at Wittenberg University.

This past summer, Daniel Kazez, achieved what most musicians can only dream of: a concert tour of Europe. His activities as a cellist and as a researcher in the field of Jewish art music attracted invitations to perform in eight major centers of culture - Prague, Berlin, Rome, Florence, Salzburg, Paris, Brussels, and London. He performed to full houses in some of Europe's most significant synagogues, community centers and museums.

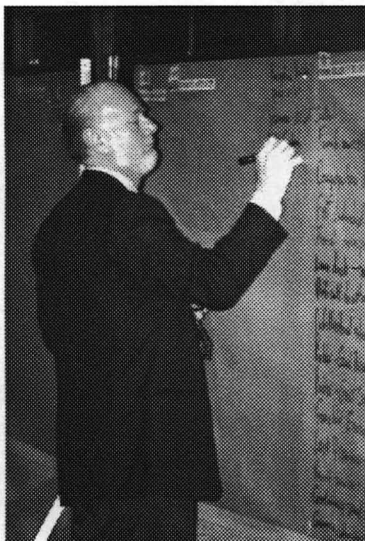

Appearing with Dr. Kazez will be our own organist, Mikhail Popov. I will also have the great privilege of performing several pieces written for cello, voice and keyboard with them.

This promises to be a wonderful evening of Shabbat worship, music and celebration. Simcha! Music On Jewish Themes, Friday, March 22, 1996, at 8:00 p.m.

Cantor Vicki L. Axe

"This concert will be a celebration of classical music influenced by the many musical styles of the Jewish world - Sephardic, Yiddish, Klezmer, Yemenite, Hebrew, Hassidic, Israeli."

THE Educator's CORNER

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL DIRECTOR

In March and April, our teachers will begin a three-lesson mini-curriculum in conjunction with Temple Israel's Sesquicentennial Year. These age-appropriate lessons, written by Karen Elson with assistance from Joan Folpe, archivist Kim Feinknopf-Dorrian, and teachers Diana Howard, Edie Love, Babette Whitman, Jeni Radin, and Sandy Rossio, are designed to introduce students to the rich history of Temple Israel.

Some of the activities will require input from parents and other Temple Israel members. If you are a long-time member, please volunteer to speak about your experiences. If you are a parent, you may be asked for a family tree. Students may request interviews with long-time members; board, auxiliary, and committee members may be asked for their expertise. If you are asked to help with this project, we hope you will respond positively.

Culminating activities for the curriculum will include special events on our closing day, as well as a large project, such as a quilt, to which everyone can contribute. We look forward to your cooperation in re-creating 150 years of memories of Temple Israel!

Karen R. Elson, RJE

PRESCHOOL AT RELIGIOUS SCHOOL

Sunday, March 31 - 11:00 AM - Noon

Temple Israel's Preschool-At-Religious School is an award-winning series of programs designed to introduce 3-4 years young children to come to Temple Israel with their families and to learn about holidays and festivals. Although sponsored by the temple's Outreach committee, the program is open to all current and perspective congregants.

The topic for this session will be Passover. The hour will be filled with songs, stories and art projects, all age-appropriately designed to help the children understand the joy of the festival. Teachers are Bev Shafran and Helen Speyer.

There is no charge for attendance, although a count of children and adults is desired to assure ample supplies. Please call the synagogue office by Friday, March 29, with the number of people you'll be bringing. The Temple Israel phone number is (614) 866-0010.

"Jews for Judaism" is a counseling and education center dedicated to counteracting the proselytizing efforts of cults. Please see the flyer elsewhere in this Bulletin for further information. This is an important program for all, particularly for parents of high-school and college-age students.

Among those who helped with our Tu B'Shvat Seder were Audri Eyerman (buyer), Carla Skaggs, Steven Winter, Marcy Lichtcsien, Judy Ridgway, Joan Lustig, Anna Grinshpun, and Brandon Smith. Thank you!

THE TOP 3 REASONS WHY I SEND MY CHILDREN TO TEMPLE ISRAEL PRESCHOOL

by Karen Mozenter

1. Ugly Art. If your child attends Temple Israel Preschool, she won't be bringing home a beautiful piece of artwork with finely cut pieces neatly glued on. You'll see big messy paintings, and sculptures made of different shaped blocks of wood that are painted in wild colors with glitter and big globs of glue oozing out. You'll see art that is created by your child, not his teacher. In art, as in the curriculum in general, the program is child-centered. You won't find the children all doing the same thing at the same time. You'll see them choosing from among several play-oriented activities. They'll play with children ranging in age from 2 1/2 to 5. Last year, my son and daughter, Ben and Ali, loved playing with and learning from the "big kids." This year, they're "pre-K" kids and for 1/2 hour 3 days per week they work on their letters, numbers and other pre-Kindergarten skills. The rest of the time, they play with kids of all ages, and their faces shine with the confidence and self-esteem that comes from helping the little ones with everything from tying shoes to reaching the paper towels in the bathroom.

2. The Good News From The Bad News. First, the bad news. It's not daycare. We're open from 8:30 until 3:00, not 7:00 to 7:00. There's lots of flexibility though. I've been known to call Cheryl mid-morning when an emergency pops up at work and say, "Can they stay for lunch and "Stay and Play" today?" "Sure, no problem," is always the response, and they get a pb&j for lunch and a fun afternoon with special projects and small group play.

Next, the good news. It's not day care. At Temple Israel Preschool, the warm family environment is apparent. Because the program is small and team-taught, the kids get to know each other and all four teachers extremely well. Our teachers are terrific, and they work together like a well-oiled machine. Laurie Buxbaum is in her 13th year at the school; Patti Greenberg has been there for 5 1/2 years. Believe me, they're not sticking around for the big bucks. They love the kids, and it shows. Donna Gold put her own children through the program, and is now the most enthusiastic big kid around and the undisputed queen of PlayDoh art. Cheryl Greenhut, our new director, joined the program last year and the fit was perfect. When Ben comes home with lipstick-stained cheeks, I know Cheryl's been chasing the kids around the playground again and smooching them. It's a pleasure to see someone who truly loves her work--not to mention your child.

3. The Bim Bam Factor. My children start the school day out singing "Boker Tov." They celebrate the Jewish holidays, including shabbat every week. They sing Hebrew songs with Cantor Axe. They beg us to take them to Friday night services and special events at Temple. When Rachel, now a second grader, started religious school, she was overjoyed to be with all her preschool friends again. Our kids feel very comfortable and happy about being Jewish and about being at Temple Israel. This is their special place and they never call it "Temple;" to them it's "my school."

SISTERHOOD NEWS

TEMPLE ISRAEL SISTERHOOD

Last spring, when our new board was created, we as a Sisterhood were empowered to begin a Caring Community in which Sisterhood members volunteer some time to help those in our congregational family who might be in need of some assistance at home.

The Temple Israel Sisterhood Caring Community has begun to gather their helpers to prepare for those in need of assistance. We feel it is important to continue to add to our list of volunteers and know who will be available and when, so we will be able to serve those who are experiencing needs due to ever-changing life's circumstances.

The areas we have targeted are as follows: grocery shopping; reading to those who cannot; pharmacy runs; providing transportation to doctor's appointments, to and from Sisterhood meetings, to and from Sisterhood functions, to and from services and Temple functions; providing home-cooked meals and providing 1-2 hours' babysitting for a newborn.

If you feel this project is something you would like to participate in or you feel you or someone you know in our congregation could benefit from the Sisterhood Caring Community's services, please contact Carol Boster at 475-4437 or the Temple office.

TEMPLE ISRAEL SISTERHOOD PRESENTS DEBORA GOLDBERG, R.N.

"HOW TO SLOW DOWN THE AGING PROCESS THROUGH HEALTHY EATING"

Monday, February 12th, was an enlightening evening for close to 40 people who attended this Open Meeting of Temple Israel Sisterhood. It was an evening of learning about nutrition which could enhance our lives through proper eating habits. Our speaker was Debora Goldberg, RN who is a well-known nutritionist who shared with us all the good things you want to know about nutrition, not just the things you shouldn't be eating. Many thanks are due those who participated with the evening's success. They include: Sandy Summer for the invitations and reservations; Sheryl Heit for setting up the catering, which was done by Paula Weinstein; Annette Turner for the Physical Arrangements; Barb Guthoff and Harriet Kallenberg for the decorations and The Office Staff and Maintenance Staff for clerical and setup/cleaning duties. The evening was a great success in raising our hopes for better living in the doldrums of winter.
