

From the Rabbi's Study by Jerome P. David, D.D.

he High Holy Days are a solemn reminder that time is finite and all that anyone ever has is today because yesterday is gone, and tomorrow exists only in hope. They bid us to be very careful to grab hold of each and every day – don't wish them away! Live them!

Some time back I heard a radio commentator reflecting on his new appreciation for the NOW. I liked what he said, and I wanted to share it:

"When I was a kid, I lived with my mother and spent weekends with my father. Sunday nights meant just one thing: the long drive home....Bored, I'd gaze out the window and wait for the lone diversion - a tower that loomed over the greenery. Built to look like a windmill, it had a sign on it - "The Batter: Real Home Cooking'. Next to it I knew there was a restaurant, but it was blocked from view.... Now, in my world there are only two kinds of food: what my working mother dished on the fly and what my father's second wife doled out by rote....But real home cooking - in my mind it was always breakfast... and the woman serving me would look like Aunt Bee and Mrs. Butterworth. Each time we sped past that sign, I'd picture that meal and long to say, 'Dad, pull off'. But I was just a kid, and he was always in a hurry - and the Sundays piled into dozens, then hundreds, and soon I was grown. In my travels I often drove that stretch and saw the windmill and the sign. But now I, too, was in a hurry, on the run, and so I'd say 'someday, but not now,' until a Sunday, not long ago as my tires ate that stretch and the shadow of the windmill swept over me. I watched it diminish in the rear-view mirror, then caught sight of the gray in my hair. And so I said, 'not some day- now,' and swerved off down the ramp. I pulled into the driveway, killed the engine and climbed out, but it was not as I had imagined. Where the building had stood, only a foundation remained, and up close the windmill was rusted and broken - thick weeds grew through cracks in the parking lot, and as I stood there, the wind raking my hair, disappointment filled me, and I blamed myself for my delay. If I had just acted sooner and kept the promise to my child-self."

The greatest deterrent to a full life of possibility is to postpone our living. How was it that Rabbi Hillel put it "Im lo achshav eimatai?" If not now, when?"

This day, not yesterday or tomorrow, but now - and let us rejoice in it!

Shana Tova. May it be a good New Year in which each day and every moment are lived fully.

PRESIDENT'S Message

by Joyce C. Hoff

Since Matt and I joined Temple Emanuel 15 years ago, preparing for the High Holy Days has always presented challenges for me as a mom. I'm sure many of you share the same issues and can relate. You see, the holidays were not only about praying for a happy, healthy and peaceful New Year and having our fate sealed in the Book of Life or preparing many healthy and delicious holiday meals. In our house, it was all about the clothes!

The clothes? Well, I must explain. Having three sons meant getting them out of soccer shorts and cleats, getting them into suits and real shoes (and if I was really lucky, a tie around each of their necks). When accomplished, it was like getting a shot on goal and scoring! Once this was expertly maneuvered, my next task was getting them into the sanctuary with their shirts still tucked in and shoes tied. As they have grown up, I still have the suit battle, but I have relaxed somewhat and don't stress as much about the way they look. I guess I have matured too.

Maturing (not only them, but me too) means that those special times when we are together are rarer, and I have learned, more special. I yearn for those holidays when I would have all of them sitting with Matt, my mom and me, sharing the beauty of High Holy Day services. Again this year, our son Brian is away at school - too far away to come home for the holidays. I miss seeing him in the pews, maybe a little rumpled, sitting beside his brothers. David and Philip will participate in our family's time honored tradition of spending the High Holy Days together, hopefully enjoying – or at least listening to – the sermons and music. And this year, hearing their mom give the Kol Nidre Appeal.

As the holidays approach, I eagerly await the sound of children entering the building for High Holy Day enrichment programs and watching the teens who help make that program such a success. I am impatient for the sound of the music as Murray Savar strikes up the organ as we all enter the sanctuary to find our seats. This - accompanied by friends and neighbors greeting one another and wishing "Good Yuntuf" - always makes Temple Emanuel feel like home. You see, it is not about the clothes at all; it is about community and the joy of participating together as one voice. I hope you and your family, not only on the High Holy Days, but throughout the year, find the sense of community and spirit that is alive and well at Temple Emanuel.

I am happy you have chosen Temple Emanuel as your family's spiritual home. On behalf of the Executive Committee, the Board of Trustees, the clergy and staff I wish you a very happy and healthy New Year.

L'shanah Tovah from our family to yours,

Oprge C. Hoff

High Holiday Junior Congregation Services for Young Congregants in Grades 4 and Above

For the second year, Temple Emanuel will be offering a new prayer option on the High Holy Days – a Junior Congregation. This service will be geared to young congregants in grades 4 and above, and will take place during both the early and late services on the mornings of Yom Kippur and Rosh Hashana (first day only!). The themes and liturgy of the High Holy Days will be presented in an age-appropriate manner.

Young congregants, who want to participate in this service, should attend the main service with their parents. Approximately half way through the main service, an announcement will be made from the pulpit and a brief interlude will be given for our young congregants to quietly leave the main sanctuary. Congregants in grades 4 and above are not required to participate in Junior congregation; it is an optional program. Parents may choose to have their children in these grades remain in the main sanctuary to pray with them.

Junior Congregation will take place in the Chapel and will be led by Rabbi Debbie Cohen.

Memo from MAYDA

At this time of year, we reflect on the year past and the year ahead. As our congregation greets 5766, many of us have much for which to be thankful. Each day brings new opportunities to learn, to grow, to study, to discover new and interesting questions for which to seek answers and the capacity to meet new friends.

For those members of our Temple family who are experiencing difficult days, it is a time for you to look to our Temple's Caring Community for support. Perhaps you should consider joining the caregiver's support group, attending a healing service, or calling about the support groups for those contemplating or experiencing divorce and separation.

As we join together for Rosh HaShanah and Yom Kippur, think not only of the Book of Life into which we all hope to be inscribed, but also about the book you are writing about your life each day. You are the main character in your story. Consider how your Judaism has played a role in your way of life and how you will transmit our heritage to others. Consider how your faith, your friends and/or community have enhanced your life.

I invite you to reflect on the following:

"Life is like a book with many different chapters, some tell of tragedy and others of triumph. Some chapters are dull and ordinary, others intense and exciting. The key to a successful life is to never stop on a difficult page and never quit on a tough chapter. Champions have the courage to keep turning the pages because they know a better chapter lies ahead."

Wishing you, and all those you love, a sweet year filled with peace, harmony, good health and success. May we all be here together to greet many years to come.

Looking forward to seeing you often at Temple Emanuel.

CANTOR'S NOTES

by Miriam Eskenasy

ust a few weeks ago, I spoke to a good friend from New York who had lost her daughter to cancer a couple of years ago. She has been the President of my student pulpit, East End Temple for a very long time. Her daughter's sickness lasted a couple of years and I watched as my friend and her family valiantly devoted themselves to their daughter. Since this tragic event happened, my friend has helped others in difficult situations. She was very supportive to Cantor Renee Coleson (East End Temple's first Cantor) who suffered from the same illness. She was there for other congregants who were suffering and is always open and eager to help others. What impressed me the most about this friend was how she used her grief to "...serve and bless the living." She made it her responsibility to help others – to help people understand and to help people embrace our great gift of life.

Many of us were quite devastated by the major event of the past month – Hurricane Katrina and its aftermath. I keep thinking about what happened, and what we are doing now to help all of those people who were so severely harmed, displaced and lost. Most of us jumped to do what we could – donate money, food and supplies.

As I prepare and think about the High Holy Days, I keep coming back to a line that I remember from our Shiva service, ... "in truth, grief is a great teacher, when it sends us back to serve and bless the living..." How often I have thought of these words – and how powerful they have become when I think of my friend and others like her. And how apropos these words are to all of us as we enter into our season of renewal. We come together as a community to pray for a good year. A good year probably means similar things for each of us – including life, health, and prosperity.

In our liturgy it is written: On Rosh Hashana it is written and on Yom Kippur it is sealed. May you be sealed on this Rosh Hashana for a year filled with blessing, life and peace. I pray that in this new year, we will also seal our own destinies by strengthening ourselves and our community; by learning from others and striving everyday – not only in times of devastation and grief – to serve and bless the living.

Shana Tova Tikateivu v'Tikateimu.

by Rabbi Deborah Bodin Cohen

Once upon a time, a young boy climbed in the apple orchards as his mother a baked sweet round challah for Rosh Hashana. He grew bored.

"What can I do now?" asked the boy.

After thinking for moment, the mother answered, "I think that you should go on a hike. See if you can find a little red house with no windows or doors, but with a star inside."

The boy was perplexed but liked challenges. He went from friend to friend asking where to find this little red house, but nobody knew where to direct him.

The boy went to his bubbe's house and she smiled and said, "Use your eyes to see the beauty of God's world, then maybe, you will find your little red house."

The little boy walked back through the orchards, thinking about his grandmother's words.

Just then he looked down and saw a shiny red apple that had fallen from a tree. He picked up the apple and ran back to his mother.

"I have found a little red house with no windows or doors," he said, holding the apple. "But, where is the star inside?"

His mother took the apple and sliced it in half. There in center, formed by tiny seeds, was a perfect star.

"L'shana Tovah," the mother said to her boy, as she dipped the apple in honey. "May you have a sweet year."

As we enter the High Holy Day season and the New Year of 5766, I wish you a very sweet new year. May it be a year of exploration, discovery and introspection for you and your family. I look forward to learning with you at Temple Emanuel and exploring Judaism with your child in our creative and caring Religious School and Pre-School. A year of challenging adventures awaits. I am excited to see what grow from the seeds of possibility.

This class goes where no other Yiddish class has gone before. No boring drills. No memorization of words or conjugation of verbs. Every attendee is an integral partner in learning. The class learns conversational Yiddish quickly through Yiddish music recordings. Prior experience is not necessary. Big Al Rubin, the class leader, spoke Yiddish as his first language. ### King David and Rabbi David Rabbi David's family history as told to Phillip Miller

Question: What do a Rabbi, an architect and a teacher have in common?

Answer: They are the accomplished sons of Rabbi Jerry David & Peggy David: Ben the Rabbi, Jon the architect and Adam the teacher. And, they are the latest generation of Davids. Generations that possibly go all the way back to King David. Yes, I did say King David.

King David is one of the most important figures in Jewish history. Born in 907 BCE, he reigned as King of Israel for 40 years, dying at age 70 in 837 BCE. King David established Jerusalem as Israel's capital, choosing a place that Jacob called "the gate of heaven."

When you put the name David (as Rabbi David did) into the Yad Vashem "Hall of Names" computers, they will print out page after page, tracing the David family name all the way back to the last name to print out - King David.

OK, this may or may not prove to be a direct link to King David, but how many of us have documents recording the family history back to the 1500's and 1600's? Rabbi David does, thanks to an industrious member of the David family in the 1920's or '30's who took the time to research and record his findings (in German). According to these documents most of Rabbi David's relatives lived in or nearby Cologne, Germany, for hundreds of years. Who knows? Maybe relatives of King David went on vacation and liked Germany so much they stayed.

The David family has lived though centuries of Jewish history. In fact, a ring that Rabbi David cherishes and wears all the time was passed down through generations of his father's side of the family. Looking at his ring, Rabbi David remarked, "This all that is left of my grandparents. It is a perpetual memory of my roots. At my ordination, I felt my grandparents' presence."

If that ring could talk it would tell us of the ups and downs of Jewish history. Like a roller coaster riding through generations, it would tell of the highs of the happy occasions and the downs of the sufferings.

The David's Fashionable Dress Shop

Rabbi David's grandfather, Karl David, and his wife Paula, made their home in Cologne, Germany. His mother's parents, Jakob and Selma Kaufmann, were originally from Romania and had settled near Berlin.

Karl David owned a well-established, very prominent dress shop in Cologne. It had been there for years, catering to both Jewish and non-Jewish clientele. The large glass windows always displayed the latest fashions.

Despite the Nazi movement gaining momentum, business was good until Nov. 9th and 10th, 1938. That night there was a tremendous sound of shattering glass resounding all over Cologne. This included Rabbi David's grandfather's women's clothing store. Yes! Kristallnacht.

Kristallnacht left the David's store, along with hundreds of others vandalized and destroyed. A few days later on Nov. 12, 1938 the Nazis fined the Jews one billion marks for damages relating to Kristallnacht. And on Nov 15, 1938, Jewish pupils were expelled from all non-Jewish German schools. The Jews of now Nazi Germany were traumatized.

Nazi Germany was gaining momentum against the Jews. No longer was any German allowed to buy from a Jew. This time, the Jewish roller coaster was no longer on the way up. It was going down a very steep grade.

With the handwriting (literally) "Oust Jews" on the walls, the Davids decided painfully and sorrowfully that after several centuries and many generations of living in Germany it was time to get out while the Germans were still allowing passage.

For Rabbi David's aging grandparents, who spent their entire adult life living in Cologne, this was a very excruciating, gut wrenching decision. But the decision was made to leave Nazi Germany for America.

The Davids were allowed to take with them any possessions they wanted, but only 10 German marks per person.

There was also a Catch-22. It was not only necessary to obtain a passport to get out, but also proper documents showing they had a sponsor who would board them and provide jobs.

Kentucky Bound

Remember, this was the era of the Great Depression. No one had any money. After writing to and being turned down by many relatives, the Davids did locate a wealthy relative residing in Kentucky since before WW I. So Rabbi David's father and mother and grandparents wrote to Colonel Kaufmann of Newport, Kentucky, and asked him to sponsor them. Colonel Kaufmann replied he would. Colonel Kaufmann was Rabbi David's mother's father's brother, in other words, not a very close relative.

It was touch-and-go. But after many anxious months and much correspondence they finally got the necessary papers and documentation to leave Germany. So with as many worthy possessions as they could possibly carry and with the maximum amount of currency allowed, 10 German marks per person, they were all ready to leave Germany for America.

A Last Minute Decision

Alice and Herbert David, Rabbi David's parents, arrived in Newport, Kentucky, in 1939. However, at the last minute Rabbi David's mother's parents, Jakob and Selma Kaufmann, who were probably in their mid sixties, decided not to go at this time. They decided to come at a later date. This decision proved to be tragic.

When Jakob and Selma finally decided to come over, it was too late. The Nazis were no longer letting Jews out of Germany. The Davids did receive one letter circa 1940 saying they had tried very hard, but could not get out of Germany. After that one letter, the Davids in Kentucky never heard from them again. They made numerous attempts to try to locate them, but all in vain. Rabbi David said his mother had a feeling of guilt the rest of her life.

So after centuries of living in Germany, Rabbi David's grandparents were the last generation. His father's father died of natural causes there, and the final chapter was written in blood in Hitler's Nazi Germany extermination camps. The rest of his family and relatives perished in Hitler's notorious death camps.

Multiply this tragedy by 6,000,000 and you have the worst catastrophe ever in Jewish History.

... To be continued in next month's Light

"It's not fair," the recalcitrant child yells as he stamps his foot! It is so difficult in the innocence and simplicity of a child's mind to accept what he perceives as unfairness. It is human nature to try to impose order on our world. The way that we do that is to fool our-friend."

selves into thinking that life follows the rules of cause and effect. If I do the right thing, then good things will happen. Unfortunately, that is not always the case.

One of the harshest realities of adulthood is the realization that life is not always fair! Is it fair that thousands of good people were left homeless by Hurricane Katrina? Is it fair that innocent children go hungry every day in a world filled with excess? Is it fair that good people with so much to offer are cut down in their primes by disease? Of course not!

The mitzvah of tzedakah is the Jewish response to trying to restore a semblance of fairness to an unjust world. In fact, it comes from the Hebrew root word for "righteousness or justice." Tzedakah is often used synonymously with charity, however the words are not interchangeable. Charity comes from the Latin root word for, "love," and refers to something extra that you do when you feel like being generous. Tzedakah on the other hand, is a commandment. It is incumbent on Jews to give tzedakah in order to try to restore fairness to an unbalanced world.

According to Talmudic law (Bava Batra 98), tzedakah is so important that it is equal in importance to all of the other commandments combined!

So, the bad news is that there is unfairness and misery in the world. However, the good news is that we can all make a difference by doing our part to combat the inequities that exist. Helping our fellow human beings is a win, win situation. Not only does the person suffering benefit, but the donor of the assistance receives satisfaction as well. It is comforting when we hear stories of hope in the darkest hours of tragedy.

Think of the courageous Gentiles during the Holocaust who risked their own lives to help their Jewish neighbors. More recently, I am reminded of the news coverage at the Superdome in New Orleans in the 10 days immediately following the flooding of the city. A woman cried out in anguish for insulin to save a desperate child. Miraculously from the crowd, a syringe of insulin appeared. Somewhere in that sea of humanity, a diabetic who was hungry, thirsty and

"If I want to come closer to God, it is only by coming closer to my fellow human being.

medically at risk himself shared some of his precious medication to help someone in more immediate need. That is the true spirit of tzedakah! The donor of that insulin could not control the wrath of mother nature but, he did have the power to ease the suffering of a fellow human being. Talk about acting in the image of God! Elie Wiesel once said:

"If I want to come closer to God, it is only by coming closer to my fellow human being. If I am not your friend, I am not God's friend."

In December 2001, the Tzedakah Collective was established by the Social Action Committee at Temple Emanuel to enable congregants to pool their resources in an effort to make a greater impact on improving the lives of those in need in our community. Congregants are encouraged to mark life cycle events (i.e. births, weddings, b'nai mitzvahs, deaths) by making honorary or memorial donations to the fund. Disbursements are made several times a year to local, regional, national, and international organizations dedicated to ameliorating human suffering. To date, over $8,000 has been distributed. Most recently, an emergency donation of $2,000 was made to the Hurricane Katrina Disaster Relief Fund established by the Union of Reform Judaism. I hope that all Temple Emanuel families will consider making donations to the Tzedakah Collective in the future to mark your life cycle events.

The Social Action Committee is furiously planning many opportunities to fulfill the mitzvah of tzedakah. We are involved in several relief activities to assist victims of Hurricane Katrina. In addition, we will be holding a food drive at services on Yom Kippur. The food collected will be sorted on October 15th at 10 am. We need many volunteers for this activity. ### PRE-SCHOOL

by Lyn Harley

hat a wonderful start to the school year! As the new Director of the Pre-School program, I have been delighted and impressed by the energy, caring, commitment, and professionalism of The Pre-School staff. From the moment I walked in the door I was surrounded by a swirl of activity focused on making sure everything was ready and perfect for our very important learners - your preschoolers!

Our preparations paid off! The children smoothly sailed into their classrooms and busily began their "work" – playing, learning, making new friends, adjusting to new routines and discovering that The Pre-School at Temple Emanuel is the most wonderful place in the world to learn and grow!

I am extremely happy to have the opportunity to work with this incredible staff, and the most amazing children in South Jersey. As a Speech Language Specialist, who has spent the last 15 years exclusively in pre-school, my focus will be on communication in all aspects of the preschool – among the children, staff, parents, Temple and community. Please do not hesitate to share your ideas, concerns and thoughts. I look forward to meeting you and working with you throughout the year.

Step into a world of happiness and learning! Visit the Pre-School at Temple Emanuel! As the holiday season in now upon us, I will be adding a prayer of thanks for enabling me to taste the sweetness of being part of the family at The Pre-School at Temple Emanuel!

To save one life is to save the world.

The next Temple Emanuel blood drive will be SUNDAY OCTOBER 30TH, from 9:00 AM – 2:30 PM in the social hall.

There are two ways to make an appointment:

1) Call the temple office at 856-489-0029

or

2) go to www.pleasegiveblood.org/donate and use code 6C31

will be held on October 16th from 9 am to 12 noon at Cooper River Park. The cost is $18.00 per family, plus whatever additional sponsorship that participants can muster. Families are encouraged to attend. Please call the office to pre-register.

In November, we will be asking families to donate food for Thanksgiving. This will include an opportunity for congregants to sign up to donate the ingredients for a complete meal for a needy family for the holiday. Those meals will be delivered to the synagogue on the evening of November  $21^{st}$ . On that evening, we will also be holding a religious service for peace to honor the brave Americans serving in the armed forces in Afghanistan and Iraq. Following that service, congregants will be given the opportunity to write letters to service men and women and to make care packages. On December  $4^{th}$  from 9 am - 12 noon, we will be holding a Mitzvah Mall. This will be an opportunity for congregants to interact with people from local community organizations and to make donations in honor of loved ones as Hanukkah gifts.

Finally, later in December we will be holding our annual holiday toy drive.

Volunteers are needed for all of the aforementioned events. We welcome B'nai Mitzvah students and their families as well as all members of the congregation eager to help to make the world a little bit better place! I would love to hear from you with your ideas and your offers of assistance at, schleper247@comcast.net.

he new year is fast approaching, and the Temple is filled with the positive energy and zeal that each new year brings with it. Yet this new year is different on many levels for all of us; we are all more aware of and appreciative of our families, our possessions, our routines - our lives.

Hurricane Katrina and its devastation opened our eyes to the meaning of loss and destruction; it also opened our eyes to the power of commitment, to the dedication of all peoples to help those in need.

Youth Group is an incredible movement within our synagogue; it provides a social outlet, a spiritual awakening, a social action venue for our teens and pre-teens alike. Tefty and Tefty Junior give our youth the chance to grow and learn while having fun. What more can you want for your children?

This year our youth groups have already grown and have learned how to be part of our larger caring community. Spearheaded by Becca Dittrich and led by Jill and Allie Cogan, Tefty held a bake sale on the first day of Sunday school. Helping the Sisterhood sell Wal-Mart cards and raffle a pair of Eagles tickets, we raised over $1,200 for Katrina evacuees. The feeling of giving and making a difference totally energized our youth group. We know that this year will find us committed to being there where we can aid and assist.

A recent Youth Group Shabbat was a meaningful and inspirational evening, one that combined the power of our dedication to Judaism and our enjoyment of being together as a group. Both Tefty and Tefty Junior combined forces for the service, led by Abby Eron and Janna Lambson. A family pot-luck dinner preceded services and was a success as well.

Socially, youth groups also meet the needs of our teen members. Tefty Junior, with many Tefty members acting as chaperones/role models, enjoyed an opening dinner together at LoneStar Restaurant. Tefty is anticipating a Fall night out in October.

Our participation in our region's combined youth groups, NFTY/PAR, is very strong in Tefty. We have two representatives from Tefty serving on regional executive board: Allie and Jill Cogan are Social Action and Religious and Cultural Vice presidents, respectively. Leadership Training Institute found six Tefty members learning how to better lead Tefty to greatness! Everyone is looking forward to Fall Kallah (convention) from October 21-23 at Camp Harlam. Please mark your calendars now and try to be part of this awesome week-end of excitement, meeting new friends, and living Jewishly.

Of course, we want every single teen at Temple Emanuel to plan to participate in Winsty, the Winter Convention that we are hosting right here at Temple Emanuel. January 13-15 - Martin Luther King Weekend - will surely be memorable for all of us.

It is important that we all remember the power of being a teenager; certainly, each one can change the world. Together, united in youth group, we can change our world and ourselves. I am looking forward to seeing each and every single one of you in youth group!

KOL EMANUEL

by Beth Strum

ol Emanuel has been busy rehearsing for the High Holidays with music and prayers that go back thousands of years. Kol Emanuel, under the direction of Julia Zavadsky, will usher in the eves of Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur (Kol Nidre).

In our ongoing musical bios of our dedicated members, this month we learn about Jane Kresman.

"Music has always been a part of my life," says Jane. "My mother was a talented pianist and a poloniase, mazurka or waltz could often be heard in my home."

Jane began her musical training at the age of 5 when she began piano lessons.

"Evenings in the Catskills were often spent sitting outside at the bungalow colony listening to my parents and their friends from my father's home town of Opotov, Poland as they sang the familiar Yiddish folk songs that I still love today," remembers Jane. "My first organized group singing was when I participated in 'Sing!' – the annual vocal competitions that were held in all Brooklyn high schools."

As an elementary school teacher, Jane always made sure there was a piano in her classroom in order to incorporate music into all areas of learning.

Jane's sister, a member of Temple Emanuel, urged Jane to attend a rehearsal of Kol Emanuel seven years ago. She has been singing with the group ever since.

"I am continually inspired by our wonderful director, Julia, and the other voices of Kol Emanuel," she says.

Blessing of the Pets

On the week that we read about Noah's Ark, let's create our own Noah's Ark – right here at Temple Emanuel. Bring your dog, cat, rabbit, goldfish, iguana, ferret... for a special Blessing of the Pets. (Yes, your rabbis love pets, too.)

Bring your pet to the Temple Emanuel parking lot on November 6 at 1:30 pm for this special event. However, if your pet would not have done well on Noah's Ark (if he or she is aggressive or unfriendly to strangers), we ask that you not bring him.

We will be collecting pet food and toys to donate to the local animal shelter at that time.

If you plan on participating, please RSVP to (856) 489-0029.

Ways we can help with the Katrina Disaster....

As a Temple family our thoughts and prayers are with those who have lost so much as a result of the deadly Hurricane Katrina. Yet we must also turn prayers into deeds of loving kindness and acts of real assistance. We have embarked on the following efforts and are seeking additional ways to help.

We read in the Torah that every person is responsible for one another. We take our responsibilities to heart, with a full heart, commitment and a lot of love. The victims of Katrina do not stand alone.

Rabbi Jerome P. David

Karnival for Katrina -- Temple Emanuel's Response to Hurricane Katrina

In keeping with our tradition of Tikkun Olam, "repairing the world", Temple Emanuel will hold a carnival to benefit those affected by Hurricane Katrina. This carnival is one of the Temple's many responses to hurricane relief.

Karnival for Katrina will take place on Sunday, October 16, 2005, from 12:30 P.M. until 4:30 P.M. Circus Time Amusements and Entertainment will provide the rides, games, prizes, crafts, and carnival snacks. Dance to the rhythms of DJ Connection, meet special personalities, clowns, face painters and more. Munch on carnival food and join in on the fun to be had. All the while you will be doing your part for Tikkun Olam.

Admission is $10.00 per child (3-18), $5.00 per adult (over 18) and children under 3 are admitted free. Your admission price includes rides, games, and crafts. Food will be available for an additional charge. ALL proceeds benefit the victims of Hurricane Katrina. Come help us help them.

For further information call Mayda Clarke at 856 489-0029

In addition to this we have several other committees. Please watch your Temple Emails for more information

Torah Portions of the Month

October 1 - Nitzavim Deuteronomy 29:9 - 30:20

Moses continues his farewell speech to the people. He tells the Israelites that "you are standing" (in Hebrew "nitzavim") this day before God to conclude the covenant. This covenant binds the Israelites to God and God to the Israelites and was made not only with those present that day but also with all Israel, past, present and future.

October 8 - Vayeilech Deuteronomy 31:1-30

Moses prepares the people for his death and announces that Joshua will succeed him. He instructs the priests and the elders regarding the importance of reading the Torah. God informs Moses that upon his death, the people will commit idolatry and "many evils and troubles shall befall them." God tells Moses to teach the people a poem that will "be My witness."

October 15 - Ha'azinu Deuteronomy 32:1 - 52

Parashat Ha'azinu is the shortest parasha in the Torah. It consists of only one chapter of just fifty-two lines. The first 47 lines are a song that Moses sings at the threshold of the Promised Land, within hearing distance of all the people of Israel. Ha'azinu hashamayim, he begins. "Give ear, O heavens, let me speak; let the earth hear the words I utter!" In the concluding five lines, God speaks to Moses, telling him to climb Mount Nebo and view the Promised Land from there, for he will die on that mountain.

October 22 - Shabbat Chol HaMoed Sukkot

The Torah portion for Shabbat Chol HaMo-eid Sukkot (Exodus 33:12-34:26) prepares us for Simchat Torah.

On the Shabbat before the Simchat Torah celebration, we are given a strong textual reminder that seeing is believing. It comes in the midst of a crisis of faith for Moses: "Now, if I have truly gained Your favor, pray let me know Your ways" (Exodus 33:13) followed by "Oh, let me behold [har'eini] Your Presence!" (Exodus 33:18) Moses is an ordinary human being with an extraordinary relationship to God. When all the pressures of leadership and its responsibilities become too much to bear, Moses declares a need to see God, to actually experience the reality of God's existence. His is more than a crisis of faith. Moses has a burning need to know that despite everything that has gone wrong between Israel and God (e.g., the golden calf episode), God still favors Moses.

October 29 - Bereshit Genesis 1:1 - 6:8

"Bereshit bara Elohim et ha-shamayim v'et ha-aretz....
"In the beginning, God created the heaven and the earth." So begins the book of Genesis, the first of the Five Books of Moses. Genesis 1:1-2:3 tells of how God created the world. God separates light from darkness, day from night and land from water. God makes the earth sprout trees and plants, and sets the sun and the moon in the sky. Fish and birds, creeping creatures, cattle and wild beasts are created by God before God makes man and woman, who are created in God's image and are to rule over the whole earth and all that is in it. As God creates each of these things, God pauses to see that they are good. Having finished the work of creation on the seventh day after beginning, God blesses the seventh day and declares it holy.

Shabbat Morning Torah Study

Rosh Hashanah Honey Cake (Pareve)

Copied from www.myjewishlearning.com
Preparation Time: 15 minutes
Baking Time: 60-75 minutes

Ingredients

1 cup very strong coffee ( I use decaf)

1-3/4 cups honey

4 extra large eggs

4 tbsp. canola oil

1-1/4 cups packed dark brown sugar

3-1/2 cups unbleached flour

1 tbsp. baking powder

1 tsp. baking soda

1 tsp. cinnamon

1/2 tsp. ginger

1/4 tsp. cloves

1/4 tsp. nutmeg

1 cup whole or half candied or plain almonds

1 cup raisins

Preheat oven to 300 degrees. Grease and flour 2 9x5 inch loaf pans or one 9x13 pan. Set aside.

In a saucepan, combine the honey and coffee and bring to a boil. Cool and set aside.

In a large mixing bowl, blend the eggs, brown sugar and oil. Do not over-beat.

Sift the flour, baking powder and baking soda and spices together. Stir the flour and honey into the eggs alternating and ending with the liquid. Stir in the raisins. Blend well. Pour into the prepared pans and place the almonds over the cake. Bake for 60-70 minutes, or until the cake springs back. Let sit overnight before serving

Dear Friends,

Hanukkah in Summer is TEFTY's (Temple Emanuel's youth group) first annual fundraiser. We are asking for gelt in summer instead of December. Exchanging gifts at Hanukkah is customary, so we plan to reciprocate your generosity with a gift from TEFTY.

TEFTY's Hanukkah gift to you is free bowling and other great offers at Playdrome Bowling & Entertainment Center. Please don't make us strike out. Simply send us your spare bucks in the enclosed envelope (you'll bowl us over no matter what amount you send).*

Don't worry, the money is not going towards ugly bowling shoes. TEFTY is raising funds for scholarships for us to attend conferences, workshops, and conventions. These events bring Jewish teens together from our region, and from across the country. At these functions, we have the opportunity to learn more about Judaism, celebrate our heritage, and strengthen our Jewish identity.

If you have any questions, please contact Sandy Umansky at 856-489-0029 x46. Thank you in advance for exchanging Hanukkah gifts with us.

B'shalom,

Semple Emanuel's youth Group & you'n Committee
