SOMETHING NEW FOR THE NEW YEAR

The New Year is soon upon us. The old uncertainties combine with the new. We ask ourselves out of a grinding despair - - - even as we greet one another with, "L'SHANA TOVA - May it be a good year": what may we expect will be either 'new' or 'good' about the New Year?

It is not likely that more than token gestures will mark the negotiations at the Paris Table. Tension in the Middle East will, no doubt, intensify.

Campus disorders are likely to resume with the Fall registration. The issues of race, poverty, escalating military expenditures and inflation will, no doubt, continue to frustrate the sensitive among us. We will labor, hopefully, to ameliorate these ills, but with no illusions of immediate or dramatic results.

There is one aspect of life that is within our power to alter - that is, our own personal life. We can increase our commitment, become more generous, introspective, sensitive, knowledgeable and decent. We can strengthen the moral values we live by and the human relations we conduct. With regard to these at least, it can truly be a 'good' year and a 'new' one as well.

My sincere wishes to you from house to house for a L'SHANA TOVA - a good New Year.

Rabbi
