srael On My Mind

"Was it real or was it just a dream?"

These were the words of the poet Rachael, written from a far away room in 1927, as she imagined the Sea of Galilee and the days when she used to run her feet through the waters as blue as the heavens.

These were the words which, in 1993, we twenty pilgrims from Temple B'nai Or read anew as we stood at Rachael's palm-shaded Galilee grave. And later, as we were about to board the buses that would take us to Ben Gurion Airport and back to our New Jersey homes, we stood in the raincleansed Plaza of the Western Wall and vowed that we would not ask ourselves if it was all just a dream. For the Israel we had experienced together was more real than any other place we had ever been before.

Israel is the only place I know to which you can travel for 6,000 miles and, never having been there before, feel like you are coming home.

Israel is not as far away as the miles would have us believe.

And this month, the two most important organizations that link us with our Jewish homeland are reaching out to us.

ARZA, the Association of Reform Zionists of America, works for the kind of Jewish State that we Reform Jews believe should be - an Israel in which all Jews can practice their own form of Judaism freely and on an equal footing, an Israel in which religion is a force for good and for peace, not just another political party, an Israel which strives to make real the vision of the prophets for a just and righteous society.

The new Executive Director of ARZA is Rabbi Ami Hirsch, who will be our guest speaker on ARZA Shabbat, Friday

MARCH TORAH DIGEST

MARCH 4 - 5

VAYAKHAYL / SHABBAT PARAH Exodus 35:1 - 38:20 Numbers 19:1 - 22

Materials for building the desert Tabernacle are donated. But before the work begins, Moses reminds the workers that the day of rest, the Shabbat, must be observed, even when working on "God's abode." The people bring more than is needed and are told to stop bringing. The Tabernacle, that portable sacred place, is constructed.

SHABBAT PARAH focuses attention on the purity required prior to the celebration of Passover.

MARCH 11 - 12 PIKUDAY / SHABBAT HACHODESH Exodus 38:21 - 40:38

Moses makes an accounting of all the materials collected and used for the Tabernacle. The book of Exodus concludes as the Tabernacle is set up and God's presence, which will guide the people throughout their wanderings, enters the Tent of Meeting.

SHABBAT HACHODESH: An extra reading from Exodus marks the new Hebrew month of Nissan, the time when the Israelites were freed from Egypt and when we relive this event as we celebrate Passover.

MARCH 18 - 19

VAYIKRA Leviticus 1:1 - 5:26

In the ancient world, reality was divided into categories: holy and ordinary, pure and impure. The third book of the Torah, Leviticus, is largely concerned with the laws regulating these categories, especially in the life of the sacrificial cult. This first portion begins the description of some of the standard sacrifices which were to have been done in the desert Tabernacle and later in the Temple in Jerusalem.

MARCH 25 - 26

TZAV Leviticus 6:1 - 8:36

More details concerning the actual method of sacrifice are given along with regulations concerning the eating of the sacrifices. Care is to be taken not to eat blood which is seen as containing the "life-force." Aaron, brother of Moses, and his sons are ordained into the priesthood. It is they who have responsibility for overseeing the proper functioning of the sacrifices and purifications.

SHABBAT HA-GADOL: The Great Sabbath, precedes Passover. It derives its name from the Haftarah reading which introduces Elijah, the prophet, as the one who will herald the next great redemption.

night, March 11. Under his direction, the Reform Movement in Israel is continuing to fight the good fight on behalf of Reform Jews and Reform Judaism. Come and hear the latest!

March will also bring us Super Sunday, as the UJA reaches out to all of us to perform the mitzvah of building up the land of Israel and its people. Just as it is our sacred obligation to support a strong and vibrant synagogue, so must we support the wider Jewish community - our "meta-mishpacha." Say yes to Israel and to all the other needs of the Jewish Community when the United Jewish Appeal reaches out to you this year. As our Rabbis say, give until it hurts and then give a bit more.

What else can, should, must we do to link ourselves with Israel?

Stay informed.

Invest in Israel's economy.

And most importantly, go to Israel. Bring your families. Words cannot express the joy of experiencing Israel for one's self. If you have not been there yet, or you have not been there in a while, now is the time to begin to plan.

It is like a dream come true.

THOUGHTS FROM THE CANTOR My Jewish Heroine: Hannah Senesh, A

Blessed Match

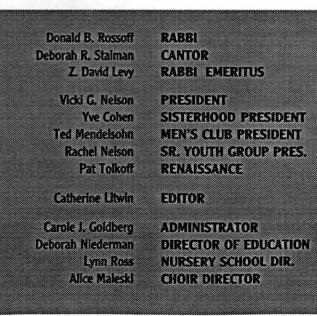

Let me share with you the story and significance of one of my favorite heroines, Hannah Senesh, a young, self-sacrificing Jewish woman, whose life and creative energies have influenced my own.

Hannah Senesh was born in Budapest, Hungary in 1921, into a home of affluence and culture. At the early age of twelve, she began writing poetry and keeping a diary. Her thoughts, poetry and life experiences would become part of the Jewish experience during these momentous years and thereafter.

When she was seventeen, Hannah became an ardent Zionist. Her soul was committed towards the direction of Jewry, Palestine and the future of the Jewish people. On the day of her eighteenth birthday, July 17, 1939, she immigrated to Palestine. Through her spirit, energy, beliefs and arduous labor on an agricultural farm and on a Kibbutz, Hannah contributed to the building of the Jewish homeland.

With the events of World War II and the rising anti-Semitism, Hannah volunteered for a secret mission by the British Royal Air Force to parachute into occupied Yugoslavia, make contact with the Resistance forces and help the Jewish rescue attempts. In Yugoslavia she worked closely with the local partisans, making contact with the Resistance, and sending messages to the British.

On May 13th, 1944, Hannah crossed over the border into Hungary, the same day the expulsion of the Jews from Hungary's cities had begun. On May 15th, she was captured by Nazi forces and imprisoned in Budapest. Despite the beatings and tortures she suffered, she never revealed her secret code by which she relayed messages. Hannah was tried in the courts, where a final verdict was never issued. However, on November 7, 1944, at the age of twenty-two, Hannah was suddenly taken from her cell, and secretly led to her conviction.

Hannah Senesh has become a beloved symbol to the Jewish people of the six million Jewish martyrs of the Holocaust. She is also an example of the heroic efforts made by the Jews of Palestine to save as many of their fellow Jews in Europe as possible during the years of the Holocaust. This young girl sacrificed herself so that others could live.

Hannah's other legacy is the diary she kept and the poetry she wrote, until shortly before her death. She had a most spiritual and creative side. Hannah's life and heroism can be taught through her poems. Her diary is filled with her thoughts on many subjects ranging from family, friends and men, to Zionism and the Holocaust. There are about twenty poems that have survived her; they are touching verses on her feelings about Israel, the meaning and purpose of life, nature's eternity and death. Two of her most famous poems are included in our Gates of Prayer. "Eli, Eli" (O God, I pray that these things never end) on page 267, and "Ashrey hagafroor," (Blessed is the Match) on page 642.

Hannah's heroism and sensitive and moving messages through her words are like a match that continues to kindle those who know her. Indeed, Hannah's life has been an inspiration to all humanity.

Cantor Deborah Staiman

In commemoration of the 50th anniversary of Hannah's death, Cantor Deborah Stairnan has prepared a dramatic presentation entitled: "The Life and Poetry of Hannah Senesh." Hannah's life is dramatized together with a presentation of a variety of musical settings set to her poetry. It will be presented at Drew University in the Great Hall on April 5th, at 8 p.m. It is appropriate for youth and adults.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

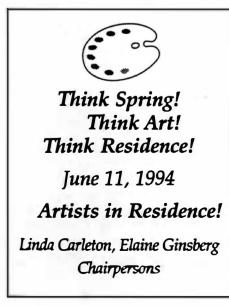

Recently, two of our Temple vicepresidents and I had the opportunity to attend a key leader meeting with executive board members from other temples in our region. There was representation from the relatively new and relatively small congregation in Kinnelon to the very old and very big B'nai Jeshurun in Short Hills. Mostly we fell between the two and had a lot of things in common to share.

I am always amazed by how similar things can be, both the problems and the strengths, no matter how different we may be geographically, demographically, socially, etc.

The difference comes in how we view and solve our problems. For example, there are at least two temples which make SCRIP purchase a condition of membership. The mutual problems of High Holiday overflows, as well as the sale of tickets, was another topic of discussion.

After listening, I came away feeling that we are really doing very well. This is not to say there are no problems to solve, but as we approach our fortieth year, with the Words of Honor Torah restoration well underway, we, as a group, can be proud of our accomplishments and satisfied knowing that we are definitely on the right path.

SCHOOL NEWS

As with many holidays in our tradition, the festival of Passover is called by many different names. One name is Z'man Cheruteynu, the season of our freedom. In Deuteronomy 29:13-14, God says to the people Israel, "I make this covenant, with its sanctions, not with you alone, but both with those who are standing here with us this day before the Lord our God, and with those who are not with us here this day." We are all commanded to experience the seder as if we ourselves were set free from slavery in Egypt.

For all of us, Passover should be seen as a time of release. For many, it may be difficult to try to recall the experience of our ancestors as they were led from freedom by the mighty hand of God. But, surely, we all have many things that burden us today. We are bogged down by the demands of work, the needs and wants of our children, spouses, parents...we all need a time for release.

In many ways we can experience the same sense of release as did our ancestors. In order to experience the same release, we must give power to God. The end of Winter and the harvest of Spring are not the work of humanity alone, nor was the release from Egyptian slavery an act of humanity. Rather, God made possible the release of the Israelites from slavery so that they might enter into a covenant relationship with God. Passover represents the formation of the Israelites from tribal groupings into a community of Jews.

In order for us today to have the same experience, to feel as if we were set free from bondage, we must reach to the next level, we must enter into the covenant with God. In our day, it may require that we consciously release ourselves from our burdens, if only for a week, but to truly experience what the Israelites experienced, we must also accept the yolk of the covenant.

Passover provides a time of renewal for us. We are given a chance half way through the year to evaluate our commitment to Judaism, and are encouraged to make a stronger commitment. One great way to renew our commitment to Judaism is to constantly try out different traditions, search for ways to make the holidays meaningful for us. Passover has been celebrated many different ways throughout the centuries. It is great to highlight your seder with traditional customs from all over the world. For example: Did you know that it is customary at a Persian seder to beat each other with the leafy ends of green onions!? This was done at the beginning of the seder to let everyone know what it felt like to be a slave.

TEMPLE B'NAI OR PASSOVER

Passover is the holiday celebrating the liberation of the children of Israel from Egyptian bondage. The holiday is also known as the feast of unleavened bread, "Chag Hamatzot" and "Z'man Charutanu," Season of our Freedom.

Before Passover begins, every Jewish home is thoroughly cleaned to assure that no chametz (leaven) is found in the home during the holiday.

"It is a mitzvah to abstain from eating leaven (Chametz) during the entire seven days of Pesach. As the Torah states, 'You shall eat nothing leavened . . .' (Exodus 12:20). Among Reform Jews, abstaining from leaven may take many forms -- from not eating those foods which obviously contain leaven, such as bread or cake, to the more stringent avoidance and examination of all ingredients in a particular foodstuff. By consciously making a choice to abstain during the whole week of Pesach, one is constantly aware of the festival and one's identity as a Jew."

Gates of Seasons

Being a Reform Jew means making an informed choice.

What is Chametz?

The special dietary laws of Passover are based on the rule that during the seven days of Passover, a Jew must not eat, own, or derive any benefit from chametz or s'or. Chametz means "fermented" and s'or means "that which causes fermentation." The term chametz refers to products made of naturally or artificially fermented wheat, rye, barley, oats, or spelt. The term s'or refers to yeast and yeast-like products which cause or accelerate the fermentation of these grains. NOTE, that it is fermented grain products which are forbidden and not all food which has been fermented. It is permissible to drink wine which is made of fermented grapes.

Forbidden products on Passover include:

- □ Regular flour as it would be more subject to fermentation than the matzah meal, which, since it has already been baked, has a much lower moisture content.
- □ Beer and whiskey made from fermented grain.
- □ Vinegar made from grain.
- □ Most prepared products from a supermarket, like salad dressing, pickles, mayonnaise which are usually made with grain vinegar, or sauces which may be thickened with flour.

Forbidden Vegetables:

- Alfalfa sprouts
- □ Barley
- Beans (dried)
- Bean sprouts
- Black-eyed peas
- Buckwheat
- Bulgur

- Chinese Pea PodsChiles (powdered or
 - canned)
- Corn
- Fava beans
- Garbanzo beans
- Green beans
- Kidney beans
- Lentils
- Lima beans
- Millet
- Navy beans
- OatsPeas

- Peanuts
- Rice
- □ Rye
- Soybeans
- Wheat(except matzah)
- Sephardic communities and Oriental Jews permitted the eating of rice, millet, peas, and beans (including peanuts).

The following items do not need Rabbinic certification:

- □ Raw, fresh, or frozen FRUIT, not in any syrup or sweeteners
- □ Raw, fresh, or frozen VEGETABLES, that are permitted, and not in any sauce
- □ Raw, frozen FISH of the Kosher species, unbreaded, not in any sauce
- Eggs
- Raw NUTS (except peanuts)

Miriam's Song

And the women dancing with their timbrels Followed Miriam as she sang her song Sing a song to the One whom we've exalted

Miriam was a weaver of unique variety

The tapestry she wove was one which sang our history With every strand and every thread she crafted her delight A woman touched with spirit she dances toward the light. Chorus:

When Miriam stood upon the shores and gazed across the sea The wonder of this miracle she soon came to believe

Whoever thought the sea would part with an outstretched hand And we would pass to freedom and march to the promised land?

And Miriam the prophet took the timbrel in her hand Had God fed us with manna and not given us the Sabbath, Dayenu'And all the women followed her just as she had planned And Miriam raised her voice in song, she sang with praise and might

We've just lived through a miracle, we're going to dance tonight. ©1988/Deborah Lynn Friedman (ASCAP).

CARING COMMUNITY

Everyone in our congregation is part of a Caring Community. Our Temple is a family and each member cares when another is hospitalized, bereaved or in need of emotional support.

Some of our Seniors could use transportation to Temple activities and services. Other congregants could use transportation, or just a friendly voice on the telephone. What can YOU as a Caring Congregant do to help?

As you think about this, remember the passage from Pirke Avoth,

"These are the obligations without measure whose reword, too, is without measure.

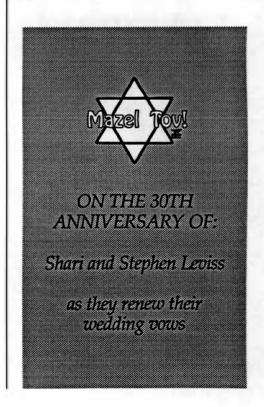

To welcome the stranger,

To visit the sick,

To console the bereaved,

To make peace when there is strife."

and let yourself become a truly Caring Congregant. Call Harriet Samuels at 361-0684 or Phyllis Feinblum at 539-5435 to volunteer or to let them know of your needs.

SUMMER CAMP IN A JEWISH ENVIRONMENT

Are you making plans for this coming Summer for your children to attend Camp? We would like to introduce you to a wonderful opportunity available to your children as members of Temple B'nai Or. Camp Harlam, located in the foothills of the Poconos, provides the finest in educational and recreational activities for Reform Jewish Youth.

Camp Harlam is a place where our youngsters come together with other Reform Jews from our area to live together, play together (there is an extensive sports and swimming program) and learn together. The Jewish learning at Camp often happens when the campers don't know they are learning: in the songs that are sung, in the skits and discussion groups, in the Arts and Crafts projects and in the values that are lived in the bunks, in the dining hall and on the sports field.

If you would like to know more about Camp Harlam, please contact the Rabbi Rossoff or Mrs. Niederman. Some scholarship aid will be available through the Temple.
