Dear Temple Family:

A thousand thanks for all your cards, calls, flowers, gifts and contributions following my recent shoulder surgery. The road to recovery, beginning as it did after my automobile accident in June of 1991, has been a long one, but I think the end is finally in sight. By the time you read this, I should be back at Temple, one step closer to holding the Torah again. Your prayers have been a source of strength for me and your love, caring and concern an important part of the healing process. I am most grateful.

-----Rabbi Sally J. Priesand

BAR/BAT MITZVAH PROFILES

MELISA MESSINGER

Melisa Messinger will celebrate her Bat Mitzvah on February 13. Melisa, a seventh grader at the Knollwood School in Fair Haven, is a member of student council and enjoys playing basketball and soccer. Her favorite subjects are science and math. Under the supervision of a teacher, Melisa is part of a group effort to write and present an original play about freedom of different types—to do and be whatever you want.

Melisa says she has enjoyed working toward her Bat Mitzvah, especially learning more about her Torah portion. Although she admits to being a little nervous, she looks forward to celebrating with her family, including grandparents from Florida, parents Lawrence & Bonnie, and brother Robert. Mazel tov to all.

ALAN CAGLE

Alan Cagle, who will celebrate his Bar Mitzvah on February 27, attends Thorne Middle School in Middletown where he is in seventh grade. His favorite subjects are math and English. An avid stamp collector, Alan specializes in United States stamps, and enjoys listening to music of all types, especially pop and reggae.

Alan says he has had fun preparing for his Bar Mitzvah but he found the workbook very time consuming. He looks forward to the participation of his family which includes his mother Marika and brother Steven. Congratulations to all the Cagles.

---Peggy Baker

ARTS FESTIVAL FEBRUARY 1, 1993

It is only 48 days until the opening night reception!

We are offering a new feature at this year's Festival—audio-taped tours. These tours will be available for a nominal rental fee. Needed are cassette players with headphones for the duration of the show. If you have one which we can borrow for this purpose, please let us know ASAP.

Remember that you can purchase Festival gift certificates up to the last minute. They make a unique gift item, so don't think Macy's or Lord & Taylor, think '93 MFA!

Shortly our personnel committee will be contacting you. Different from previous years, you will receive one call addressing all the possible volunteer aspects, ie., sales, set-up, etc. If you wish to volunteer on receiving day, Monday, March 15, you'll need to attend a prep meeting on Wednesday, March 10 at 7:30 PM.

We meet regularly on the second Thursday of each month at 7:30 PM. Everyone is invited.

REMEMBER TO CIRCLE March 20-24 on your calendar.

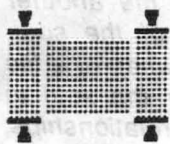

---Semmes Brightman

REGARDS FROM TERRY LAYMAN

The Reisners recently returned from a terrific trip to Israel. One of the highlights of the trip was seeing Terry Layman, former principal of our religious school, who moved to Israel 10 years ago. Terry lives in Eilat where she runs a language school and an eyeglass business. It was great to see her and catch up on news about her family and get an American perspective on life in Israel. Terry sends regards to all and wanted us to let everyone know that she would love visits from MRT members. If you are planning a trip to Israel ask Marilyn Rice for Terry's address and phone number in Eilat.

---Rosalind & Gerald Reisner

FROM RABBI PRIESAND

An article in the recent edition of FAMILY CONCERNS, a quarterly publication of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, caught my eye. I hope you find its advice helpful.

The National Institute of Mental Health asked the following question of 50 parents who had raised their children to become well-adjusted, productive adults:

"Based on your personal experiences, what is the best advice you can give new parents about raising children?"

Here are their responses:

1. Love abundantly. The most important task is to love and really care about your child. This gives him or her a sense of security, belonging and support. It smoothes out the rough edges of society.
2. Discipline constructively. Give clear direction and enforce the limits on your child's behavior. Emphasize "Do this," instead of "Don't do that."
3. Whenever possible, spend time with your children. Play with them, talk to them, teach them to develop a family spirit and give them a sense of belonging.
4. Give the needs of your mate priority. One parent put it this way: "A husband and wife are apt to be successful parents when they put their marriage first. Don't worry about the children getting 'second best.' Child-centered households produce neither happy marriages nor happy children."
5. Teach your children right from wrong. They need to be taught basic values and manners so that they will get along well in society. Insist that they treat others with kindness, respect and honesty. Set personal examples of moral courage and integrity.
6. Develop mutual respect. Act in a respectful way toward your children. Say "please" and "thank you," and apologize when you are wrong. Children who are treated with respect will then know how to treat you and others respectfully.
7. Listen, Really listen. This means giving your children undivided attention, putting aside your beliefs and feelings, and trying to understand your children's point of view.

8. Offer guidance. Be brief. Don't give speeches. And don't force your opinions on your children.
9. Foster independence. Gradually allow children more freedom and control over their lives. One parent said, "Once your children are old enough, phase yourself out of the picture, but always be near when they need you."
10. Be realistic. Expect to make mistakes. Be aware that outside influences such as peer pressure will increase as children mature. One parent said, "Don't expect things to go well all the time. Child rearing has never been easy. It has its sorrows and heartaches, but it also has its rewards and joys. This is what makes it all worthwhile."

FROM THE PRESIDENT

Following our standard procedure leading up to the Annual Meeting, a committee has been appointed to nominate a slate of officers and trustees and it has begun to work. Sheila Leavitt chairs the committee composed of Florence Cohen, Elliott Familant, Vallerie Hersch and Gerald Reisner. The committee is happy to have your suggestions for people who you feel would be good officers or trustees. (It's fair to suggest yourself!)

Traditionally, Temple members move into positions on the Board after serving on committees. Through committee work, one gains experience and expertise. These assets are especially important to the smooth running of the Board and the Temple as a whole.

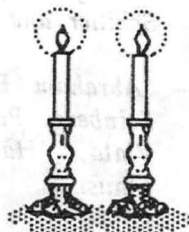

In the past several years, fewer and fewer congregants have chosen to join committees, thereby reducing the pool of members prepared to join the Board. Unlike many congregations where board membership is a reward for special financial contribution, at MRT it recognizes a concern for our congregation expressed in a willingness to serve it.

I hope that even if you feel you will never want to serve on the Board of Trustees you will consider giving some time to MRT through committee work. As I have said before, we need your participation as well as your financial support. Please check out the committees that make MRT an interesting, active, concerned temple and add your voice and ideas to one of them.

---Rosalie Rosin

TRADITIONAL SABBATH EVE CANDLE LIGHTING

REFLECTIONS

Having grown older has given me another reason to believe in the immortality of the soul. When you look back and you see the sweep of a life and you realize how long it takes for the soul to grow, and how long it takes to build relationships, one gains a new respect for the value of time and the stages of life. When I am fortunate enough to see the long, difficult and wonderful growth of the individual soul and love between persons, I am filled with wonder and I have an intuition that there is a stage or stages beyond this life we know. The plan seems to be too vast not to include other stages.

LIBRARY NOTES

We know that many MRT members are interested in the archaeology of the Bible. The Library subscribes to Biblical Archaeology Review, an excellent magazine that covers news of digs in Israel, among other things. Our subscription is up for renewal, and at $22. per year, we need to be sure that the magazine is used. If you are a fan of Biblical Archaeological Review, please let us know. A contribution toward subscription renewal, small or large, would be greatly appreciated by the Library Committee.

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL NOTES

I was delighted to see so many parents enjoy their children's skits and songs at our Chanukah Celebration. To me, the highlight of the morning was in the social hall with the semi-circle of families all kindling their personal Menorahs as one Temple family.

To *Laurie Lowenstein, *Rachel Mendelsohn, *Susan St. Lifer, and Sylvia and Al Paley thank you for extending yourselves to make our 1992 Chanukah Celebration a great experience for students and adults. Temple events cannot take place without the efforts of many volunteers. Every year the Paleys donate the latkes for our party. Laurie, Rachel and Susan coordinated the party for over 200 participants, including the latke cooking, serving and cleanup. Eric Rosenberg and his AT&T Ensemble added to the festivities with their interpretations of favorite Chanukah songs.

The Religious School Committee sponsored a School Family Day on January 17 to permit the school faculty to attend a regional teachers' workshop. Several activities for students and their parents were programmed during the usual 9:30 - 12 noon period. Laurie Lowenstein taught challah baking; Miriam Torok, with help from Aliza Torok and *Phyllis Kinsler, led the class on Israeli dancing; and, Ellen Duane and Sarah Sachs, school assistants, coordinated the arts and craft's project. Gerald Reisner, committee chair, Susan St. Lifer, *Richard Goldberg, Richard Sachs and Rachel Mendelsohn added their talents to make this program successful for the 120 in attendance. My appreciation and thanks extend to the class parents for notifying our school families.

On January 24, the Religious School honored Janet Bell for 20 years plus service to our children. Gerald Reisner presented Janet with a lithograph representation of her favorite Hillel proverb. Matty Kalb created a book of photographic memories for Janet with a picture and personal message from each student in the fourth grade and above.

As Janet's friend and supervisor for ten years, I attest to the fact that Janet hasn't lost a beat in all that time. Her dedication to her craft and your children is still extremely strong and I expect Janet to remain at our school for many more years.

Tu B'Shvat, the New Year for Trees, will be celebrated on February 6. Tree certificates for $ 10.00 each are still available through the Temple office.

On Sunday, February 28, our children shall again visit area nursing homes. Our annual nursing home visitation usually scheduled for December was changed this year. Several nursing homes' activity directors mentioned that their guests receive many visits in December but few during the winter months. The children will sing Purim and Shabbat songs. Divided into four groups, the children will visit four different nursing homes. Please volunteer to drive and chaperone our children at the nursing homes when the notices are sent home with your children.

PURIM is coming. Start planning your children's costumes. The family dinner and Megilla reading are on Saturday, March 6, beginning at 6:00 p.m.

Get ready for our PURIM CARNIVAL on March 7. The Purimspeil begins at 10:00 a.m. and the youth group led carnival is scheduled for 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. Although intended for fun, the carnival is a fund raiser for the youth group; moderately priced tickets will be sold at the door. Loads of prizes will be available.
