BAR/BAT MITZVAH PROFILES

JEFFREY MENSON

Jeffrey Menson, whose Bar Mitzvah takes place May 1, is in the 7th grade at the Thorne Middle School, where math is his favorite subject. He enjoys playing basketball and plans to join a team next year. In addition to talking on the phone, Jeff likes to listen to music, especially rap hip-hop by his favorite group "Naughty by Nature." He thinks he might like to be in the music production business as a career.

Jeff indicates that he has enjoyed learning his Torah and Haftarah portions. He's looking forward to having grandparents from Jupiter, Florida with him as he celebrates his Bar Mitzvah. We all join in congratulating Jeff, his parents Jill and Steven and brother Adam.

JACKIE SUZETTE BIRNKRANT

Jackie Birnkrant, daughter of Arthur and Karen, will celebrate her Bat Mitzvah on May 8. Jackie is a 7th grader at the Forrestdale School in Rumson where social studies is her favorite subject. She enjoys both softball and basketball and collects postcards, American stamps, and foreign coins. Jackie continues to take piano lessons and says that she finds real joy in playing the piano.

Most of all, Jackie has enjoyed learning Hebrew and says she has been working hard. Learning her Haftarah portion has been her favorite part of her preparations. Jackie says that Rabbi Priesand has been really friendly, helpful and very encouraging. She's counting the days until her big event when her brother Michael and sisters Dara and Gwen will help her celebrate, along with grandparents and other relatives from Georgia, New York and Florida. mazel tov to all.

SCHOLARSHIP NEWS

The committee met in March and awarded three scholarships. Brandon Corbett and Marissa Ciociari will be going to Camp Harlam and Aliza Torok will be going to Israel. Congratulations to the recipients. The Scholarship Fund, which is supported by congregants, has made these awards available to our young people. As always we count on the generosity of our Temple family for their continued support.

----Florence Diller

BRANDON CORBETT

Brandon Corbett's big day is May 22. Brandon is in seventh grade at the Thompson Middle School in Middletown where his favorite subjects are science and computers. He likes to play both basketball and football. Brandon says he's a "huge" music listener and loves rock and roll, especially the group "Guns n' Roses." He also plays guitar and likes reading magazines of all types, especially those centering on music, such as "Rolling Stones."

Brandon has just been awarded a scholarship to Camp Harlam for this summer and will be willing to share his experiences upon his return. He has found his complicated Haftarah portion very difficult to learn. He's looking forward to celebrating with family and friends who are coming from Maryland and Virginia. Brandon says he's the kind of guy who wants to have fun and likes to make the best of every situation. Congratulations to Brandon and his parents Alan and Sandy.

ARTS FESTIVAL:

From all of us
To all of you,
THANKS
WE DID IT!

I am pleased to announce that this year's Arts Festival was the most financially successful one in 23 years!

Congratulations to each and everyone of you who supported this by getting ads, donating cakes, being a friend, working during set-up, working during the Festival, and taking it down. Each and every part was important to making this a success.

Please remember that we continue to meet the second Thursday of each month at 7:30 PM. We encourage you to join us. If you would like to get more involved in the 1994 Arts Festival, please let us know.

----Semmes Brightman

FROM RABBI PRIESAND

A recent article in the Jerusalem Post caught my eye. It was written by my classmate and colleague, Rabbi David Forman, who made aliyah shortly after we were ordained and who serves as spokesperson of a group called Rabbis for Human Rights. In commenting on the media obsession with Israel, he wrote: "Every time Israel is criticized, other nations feel superior. This sense of superiority is necessary because the behavior of other countries in so many parts of the world is a legitimate subject for harsh judgment. In short, a country's media can excuse, if not justify, its own shortcomings by doing a little comparative shopping at the Jewish mall, Israel. If Jews, who purport to be a 'light unto the nations' fail, then a little backsliding on the part of other peoples is understandable, even acceptable...Jewish frailty has always made the world feel good. It is true that we in Israel have done things that are indeed shameful. Yet they aren't that shameful compared to what's done in the rest of the world."

Agreeing as I do with these sentiments, it was refreshing to see in the Asbury Park Press during Passover an editorial praising Israel for its response to the tragedy in Bosnia. In case you missed it, here's an excerpt: "Does Israel have its own worries? Don't ask! The country has been working 'round the clock to find housing and jobs for more than a million Jewish refugees from the former Soviet Union and Ethiopia. Most of its Arab neighbors do not recognize its existence. And Israel hardly enjoys economic prosperity."

"Yet without hesitation, Israel has offered sanctuary and sustenance to Bosnian Muslims. The Jewish state knows deadly prejudice when it sees it and understands all too well what a policy of 'ethnic cleansing' involves."

"Passover, on the other hand, celebrates liberation of people—from captivity, from ignorance, from need. Its observance goes beyond the family unit to embrace the family of Israel and, poignantly, the global family. It calls upon Jews to redeem the collective soul through action and deeds, not words."

"Israel has answered that call by opening doors to Muslim strangers in Bosnia. This gesture writes a fresh chapter in the ongoing Passover story that binds generation to generation in a common dream of freedom and justice for all humanity."

All too often we are bombarded by negative headlines that scream of crisis and bring in their wake heartache to us all. As we mark the forty-fifth anniversary of Israel's rebirth, we owe it to ourselves to look at Israel in its larger context and always to remember just how much there is to celebrate. I urge you and your family to participate in Israel Expo '93 to be held this year on Sunday, May 16, from 12:00 Noon to 6:00 PM, at Marlboro High School, Route 79 near Route 520. A cooperative effort between synagogues, churches and community organizations, it provides a marvelous opportunity to express our support for Israel and experience for ourselves the richness of Israeli life and culture. Special activities have been planned for children, making it a fun-filled afternoon for the whole family. Admission is free and so is parking. I hope to see you there!

HOSPITAL VISITS

A call to the Temple Office would be appreciated to let Rabbi Priesand know when a member of the Congregation is hospitalized so she may visit. Thank you.

FROM THE PRESIDENT

To paraphrase Charles Dickens, "It was the best of times, it was the worst of times." Our temple, for its size offers so much in the way of activities, programs etc. When attending UAHC conferences and exchanging information with representatives of other synagogues; we stack up very well. In fact we offer a lot more than congregations of greater membership. This is due largely to the leadership of Rabbi Priesand and to many dedicated members volunteering their time. "It was the best of times."

"It was the worst of times." I say this because there are so many people who do not get involved. It is my goal to have as many of our congregation take part in as many activities as possible. In so many cases, demands upon your time would be minimal. There are, of course, instances that require more of a commitment.

In the recently concluded and highly successful Monmouth Festival of the Arts, approximately 60% of our Temple family participated! That is a terrific turnout. If we can do it for Festival, there's no reason we can't do it other times. Yet for some unknown reason, we don't. For some people, serving as an usher or Oneg Shabbat host or hostess seems to create a hardship.

So, my initial message is...get more involved; sit in on a committee meeting, serve as an usher. Try it! You'll like it! The next time you are asked to volunteer, just say "yes."

Shalom,

----Baldwin Davidson

REFLECTIONS

To the geologist, mountains are evidence of seismic activity, the process of reshaping the earth's surface over the course of the millennia.

To the tourist, mountains are sometimes beautiful, sometimes inconvenient features of a landscape.

To the skier, snow-covered mountains are an opportunity to enjoy a challenging outdoor activity.

To the religious person, a mountain is where God and human beings meet. It symbolizes reaching up to touch Heaven, and Heaven bending down toward earth. (So the ancient Greeks told stories of the gods living atop the tallest mountains, and the Bible describes Moses climbing a mountain to receive the tablets of the Law from God.)

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL NOTES

At its March meeting, the Religious School Committee spent a great amount of time trying to find a way to advertise its belief that all Temple families should have easy access to anyone connected to our Religious School's operation. You may address questions, suggestions and opinions to your principal, to the Religious School Chairperson, and to members of the Committee. The Committee formulates all policies and, as a Temple member, you have a right to help shape these policies.

Concerns relating to a specific child can be discussed with me in confidence. Learning disabilities, conflicts with other children or teachers, report cards and poor attendance are a few examples.

Curriculum, textbook selection, teacher qualifications, school policies and the calendar are general in nature and addressed by me whenever requested.

You may also provide suggestions or express concerns directly to the Religious School Committee by attending its monthly meeting. If you wish, a Committee member will present your point of view for you; your attendance is not required.

You may ask, "Why is the idea of access being brought up at the end of the school year?" May and June are perfect months in which to discuss Religious School progress. The school is in recess and I have ample time to devote to you and to your child. We can use the final report card as a jumping off point to discuss your particular concerns. I want to emphasize that parents should sensitize the educational professional to a learning problem or family situation before it surfaces in the classroom. I do not believe in the idea of "self-fulfilling prophecy." I am always in a better position to assist a child when I become a knowledgeable partner in the child's Religious School education. (If not me, then avail yourself of the Religious school Committee process.)

As I am preparing this article, our fourth grade class is anxiously looking forward to its April 30th Shabbat service. This service is the culmination of the class' Hebrew studies under Mrs. Bell's direction. From observing several rehearsals, I am impressed with the children's knowledge and their intense desire to do well.

I am positive that parents, friends and Temple members thoroughly enjoyed the fourth grade's service and program.

Under the inspiration of Susan St. Lifer, the kindergarten, first, second and third grades had their bowling parties earlier in the year. The fourth and fifth grade bowling party is scheduled for May 2. Hopefully, these opportunities for socialization away from school will help our children cultivate long-lasting friendships from within our Temple.

A Religious School cannot be successful without dedicated teachers and dedicated volunteers. We have both. As well, we have wonderful class-led Shabbat services, family programs, the Purim festivities, the model seder, and school trips.

I cannot close out the school year without thanking several Temple members who volunteered many, many hours for your children. Gerald Reisner, Susan St. Lifer, Richard Goldberg, Rachel Mendelsohn and Laurie Lowenstein provided the energy, ideas, and good will to help guide our school through 1992-93. Brian McMullen (and Steven) spent frequent Sunday mornings getting the paper work out, keeping track of tzdakah and helping me at dismissal.

Student Cantor Metzger provided musical direction to our school and accepted the responsibility for coordinating all student led services. To Marilyn Rice, I include a special thank you for not letting last minute requests go unattended.

As a classroom teacher, Religious School Committee participant, program innovator and advisor, Rabbi Priesand continues her strong attachment with the school and with your children this year. Whether leading a holiday program or guiding my efforts, Rabbi Priesand is always a teacher's teacher.

In June, 1993, I shall complete my first decade at Monmouth Reform Temple. I cannot think of a more enjoyable environment in which to spend my Sunday mornings than with your children. Thank you for your continued trust in my leadership.
