ANNUAL MEETING INTERFAITH NEIGHBORS

Interfaith Neighbors will hold the annual meeting on October 27 at 7:30 PM at St. Anselin's Roman Cathlic Church, Tinton Falls

Our Temple will be honored at this meeting for its participation and support over the past five years.

The events of the past year will be reviewed, including the status and plans for the two-family home on Norwood Avenue in Long Branch which was willed to Interfaith Neighbors.

Several families who have been assisted by Interfaith Neighbors will be at the meeting and will speak about what this assistance has meant in their lives.

Please plan to attend. If you have any questions call me at 542-2399.

FROM THE RITUAL COMMITTEE

Off and on through the years, the MRT Ritual Committee has explored possibilities for a Temple burial area in a local cemetery. MRT now has the possibility to make available to our members a block of cemetery plots in a memorial park in Marlboro. These plots have been offered to us by Temple Emanu-EI, Edison, with terms that would not require payment by MRT until individual plots are sold to our members.

The offer appears to be quite generous and more within the Temple's means than previous ones. A committee has been checking out the memorial park and asking questions of Temple Emanu-El's representative. At the time of writing this article, it is the intention of the Ritual Committee to ask the Board to approve a letter of intent to Temple Emanu-El expressing our willingness to assume responsibility for 96 plots with the understanding that they would be sold to our members at a cost of $400 each. (When a plot is to be used as a gravesite, there are other fees due to the memorial park.)

The Ritual Committee hopes this arrangement will be of service to our congregants.

INTRODUCTION TO JUDAISM PROGRAM

AL DIAC

Our Temple will be hosting the Monmouth County session of the UAHC Introduction to Judaism program this year. Classes will be held on Monday evenings from 7:45 PM to 9:45 PM for 16 weeks, beginning November 1 and extending to February 21. The fee for the course, for an individual or couple, is $250.

This course of study is for individuals and couples interested in considering conversion to Judaism, for interfaith couples desiring information about the heritage of the Jewish partner, and for basic knowledge of Judaism. Topics covered include: Shabbat, Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur, the festivals, birth, conversion, marriage, and other Jewish customs and rituals. For more information and an application form, stop by the Temple office or call the UAHC at (201) 599-0080 and ask for Kathryn Kahn.

ADULT EDUCATION COMMITTEE

Adult education at Monmouth Reform Temple this year is primed and ready to go. Arrangements have been made to have Professor Deborah E. Lipstadt of Emory University as our Scholar-In-Residence the weekend of March 4, 5, and 6, 1994. Her new book, Denying the Holocaust: The Growing Assault on Truth and Memory is receiving critical acclaim around the country. Who are the people that insist that the Holocaust is a lie? What are their goals? How can they continue to win adherents? These topics and more will be part of our discussions with Professor Lipstadt in March. Save the date!

In late October we will begin our Fall Adult Education Series by studying life in several Eras of Jewish History. For four consecutive Thursdays beginning October 28, you will have the chance to learn more about the Dead Sea Scrolls, life for Jews in Turkey, in the Jewish Community of Palestine (1935), and during the Italian Renaissance. Each session will feature an audio or video tape followed by analytical give-and-take among those of us who attend. Write down these dates: Oct. 28, Nov. 4, Nov. 11, Nov. 18, 1993. Come join us for the Fall Adult Education Series.

By now all of you have received the new Temple calendar. Every page of dates is paired with a Hebrew lexicon prepared by this committee. You can learn several new Hebrew words each month by keeping the calendar open and reading the word, its pronunciation in English, its transliteration and its definition. This project is our way of providing an educational resource for our temple family all year long. Pin it up somewhere that is prominent in your house. Use it in good health!

The Adult Education Committee works diligently all year to plan and deliver valuable learning experiences for all of our members. We do not charge admission to any of the programs we sponsor, not even Scholar-In-Residence Weekend. You can help us continue to provide outstanding events by remembering the Joan Goodman Fund when making special contributions to the Temple. Thank you.

FROM RABBI PRIESAND

Shemini Atzeret is one of Reform Judaism's most forgotten holidays. Torah commands us to observe the Festival of Sukkot for seven days and then adds these words: "The eighth day shall also be a scared occasion for you." Thus provision was made for Shemini Atzeret, which literally means "the eighth day of gathering or assembly."

Notice that the text says nothing about Simchat Torah; indeed, it is never mentioned in the Bible. It developed relatively late, and because of the joy it represents, its observance soon overshadowed that of Shemini Atzeret. In most Reform synagogues, Shemini Atzeret and Simchat Torah are celebrated together.

In his book, SEASONS OF OUR JOY, Arthur Waskow talks about the symmetry of the Jewish calendar and how a fourth festival was needed to mark the beginning of winter. Just as Passover welcomes spring, Shavuot comes at the beginning of summer, and Sukkot marks the start of fall, so Shemini Atzeret was meant to welcome winter. But because of the weather at that season of the year—torrential rains and muddy roads—it was not possible for our ancestors to make pilgrimage to Jerusalem; therefore, the winter festival was placed immediately at the end of the fall festival, when the pilgrims were still at the Temple.

Just as Passover, the spring festival of new life and liberation, is not complete until we have counted seven weeks plus one day to Shavuot, the summer festival of fullness and revelation, so Sukkot, the fall festival of ingathering and redemption, is not complete until we have counted seven days plus one to Shemini Atzeret, the winter festival of sleeping and inwardness. Thus there accompanied the pilgrims on their journey home not just the unrestrained joy of the sukkah but also the quiet celebration of a sense of inner peace.

Now what of the link between Shemini Atzeret and Simchat Torah? Jewish legend suggests that God was hesitant to let the people go, having so much enjoyed their participation in the seven days of Sukkot. So the Holy One of Blessing said to them: "Stay with me a little longer." Thus, an eighth day, shemini, was added, a day of atzeret, derived from the Hebrew root meaning "to hold back." In other words, the people were held back a day so that God's delight in them could be expressed.

But this is only half the story. The people needed to respond to God's request and to do so with enthusiasm. If God has expressed happiness with them, then they must show how happy they are with God. How best to do that? By rejoicing in God's most precious gift to the people of Israel—the gift of Torah. Thus, Simchat Torah is our response to Shemini Atzeret, and opportunity to express our joy in knowing that God takes delight in us.

When I was a student in Religious School decades ago, I always had difficulty understanding the difference between Simchat Torah and Shavuot, for on both days we celebrate the giving of Torah. Finally, I found an explanation I could accept. On Shavuot, Israel stood at Sinai and entered into covenant with God without knowing what was in Torah. God chose them and they chose God. But it was from Shavuot to Sukkot that the people studied the Torah they had accepted sight unseen, and from their study, there grew a feeling of love for God's word, and from that love, there emerged a sense of joy that was unparalleled in their previous experience. Thus does Shavuot commemorate the acceptance of Torah, but the end of Sukkot brings with it the joy of Torah, and that joy has inspired and encouraged Israel in every generation. Do join us for our celebration of Simchat Torah on Wednesday evening, October 6. It promises to be a lively evening. Chag Sameiach!

A call to the Temple Office would be appreciated to let Rabbi Priesand know when a member of the Congregation is hospitalized so she may visit or call. Thank you.

Better late than never! I would like to thank all those who volunteered to cover the office while Marilyn was on vacation this past July. They are Marika Cagle, Joyce Christie, Bobbie Goldstein, Trudy Goldsmith, Ellie Goodman, Marcy McMullen, Barbara Morreale, Sylvia Paley, Debbi Patrouch, Arlyne Saunders, Betty Schulman, Cora Tuchband, Joan Unice and LIIa Singer. As it turned out it wasn't necessary for all to take a shift. However, it's nice to know that so many people were available to pitch in.

It is my pleasure to announce that Chris Rosen has agreed to serve on the Board of Trustees to finish Alan Corbett's unexpired term. Chris will be chairing the Social Action committee previously headed by Paul Brenner. Paul has assumed leadership of the Youth Committee. We wish all the best to both Chris and Paul in these endeavors.

Finally, my thanks to everyone for their cooperation in adhering to the parking regulations instituted for our Holy Day observances. A huge thank you to our custodian John Allen and his crew for the terrific job they did in supervising parking during the Holy Days. Shalom,

REFLECTIONS

It is not necessary that there be large occasions for being grateful. The sun that rises over the hill. The shy smile of a trusting child. A bird's lovesong in the evening. The loyalty of a friend in a moment of adversity. A father's unselfish sacrifice for his family. The mother love no less real for being joked about. The nobility shown in fighting for a just cause. The gracious forgiveness of a mistake. Yes, the chance to be useful, to rise each morning with something to do, something to believe in, to work for, the realization that somebody somewhere depends upon us, thus sparing us the despair that we live for ourselves alone.

JEWISH SINGLES DIRECTORY

io ribidi oni no alla ashini a si maa

The Jewish Singles Directory is an exciting new way for Jewish singles over the age of 21 throughout the New Jersey-West Hudson Valley region to meet one another. This newly created introductory network will enable Jewish singles to meet each other in a non-threatening, mutually agreeable fashion.

The Jewish Singles Directory is a nonprofit project of the Reform Movement sponsored by the New Jersey-West Hudson Valley Council of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

For $36 each year your listing with photo lets you match your interests with other Jewish singles. The listing allows you to send a postcard of introduction to anyone you choose or receive a postcard from someone interested in meeting you.

For further information about The Jewish Singles Directory, please call Gilda Fier, Project Coordinator, at the UHAC office in Paramus (201) 599-0080.

DAVID LEVINSKY'S 10th ANNIVERSARY

It is with great pride and joy that we approach the celebration of the 10th anniversary of our Religious School principal, David Levinsky. On Sunday, October 31 at 11 AM in the Sanctuary, everyone is invited to help the religious school show David how much we appreciate his unique brand of educational leadership.

Anyone who has had a child in the religious school, or who has worked with David knows that he has a very special way about him. He has made friends, directed traffic, talked, listened and most especially taught great numbers of parents, teachers and students.

David truly cares about the whole religious school experience. He cares deeply about the children of MRT and how best to help them have vivid Jewish memories. Among the valuable gifts David lavishes on our Temple is his boundless energy, his wry sense of humor and an unswerving devotion to all the kids in our school.

It is important to mention the working relationship he shares with Rabbi Priesand based on mutual respect and a shared commitment to the concept of an on-going Jewish education. Together they work to create an atmosphere for teachers, students, parents and the religious education committee that is stimulating and creative.

David is a much loved and highly respected member of the MRT community. We are all very lucky to have him as our principal. We are confident and proud of the fact that among the Jewish memories MRT students carry with them are those with David Levinsky featured as a role model someone who lives his Jewish values and teaches them with a flourish.

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL NOTES

Children like to teach. Often, I observe a student point out the basics of the Hebrew alphabet to a parent while waiting for Religious School to begin on a Sunday morning. I enjoy standing in the hallway listening to beginning Hebrew students point out the shapes and sounds of the Alef-Bet to a parent who is usually more taken with the child's enthusiasm than with any understanding of the lesson.

Teaching a parent is as meaningful to the young mentor as scoring a soccer goal or sinking the winning basket. A parent is used to cheering on the athletic field, and the child is delighted to perform. Even misses or poor attempts earn parental encouraging shouts.

Parents do not cheer for Religious School involvement as they do for other children's activities. Cheers do not have to be loud, involve the neighbors, or become a telephone call to the grandparents. I suggest that parents ask another question after "What did you learn in Hebrew School today?" The second question should take a form similar to: "Tell me three things your teacher talked to the class about today." Then proceed to discuss one or two ideas with your child. We know that children, as well as adult teachers, enjoy center stage, especially when they have a willing audience.

Topics, such as, the Holocaust, American Jewish history, Israel and current events make for stimulating conversation with little effort. Children like to teach, but I suggest that discussions with your children demand a certain command of the facts. Opinions can only go just so far in any parent -child talk. By giving your children a forum at home, you are helping them internalize classroom material.

I hope that older children are given the satisfaction that comes with the opportunity to educate adults. There is simply too little time for classroom teachers to hear every student on every issue. Students in grades six and above need to focus on their feelings and beliefs with adults who care the most—their parents.
