Dad Thank You For Everything

Sy and Marcy Syms stand in front of a collection of Syms Corp. clothing. Despite going public, the company has managed to keep its identity as a family firm.

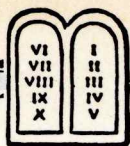

May 17, 1990

I have such special memories, Dad,
Of you and me together--
Of all the special moments that we shared.
I still remember all the times
Your love and understanding Reached out to show me
just how much you cared.
I'll always be so thankful, Dad,
For everything you've done...
For everything your life has taught me, too.
You've always meant so much to me
As a father and a friend
And that's why I'm so very proud of you.

Happy Birthday With Love

This card really almost says
it all - I just want to add what an incredible opportunity it has been to work with you all these years.

Love, Marcy

Baby's Night Prayer

Before in sleep I close my eyes,
To Thee, O God, my thoughts arise;
I thank Thee for Thy blessings all
That come to us, Thy children small;
O keep me safe throughout the night,
Until I see the morning light.

Sh'ma Yisroel
Adonoi Elohenu Adonoi Echod.
Hear, O Israel,
The Lord Our God, The Lord Is One.

A LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear Co-Workers,

I have often thought how wonderful it would be if I could have a face to face dialogue with each and every one of my Co-Workers. Realizing this is perhaps overly ambitious, I finally decided to "talk" to you directly through our new company newsletter, "The Educator".

The Educator is published by and for Syms Co-Workers and I am pleased to have the opportunity to communicate with you in each issue published, about four per year.

Syms has grown a lot in 1994. We've opened four stores as of the date of this letter and by publication we will have opened our fifth store in Hurst, Texas. This means we've opened ten stores in two years! Because we are growing so fast, it's even more important to remember who we are. We offer a broad range of in-season, first quality, brand and designer apparel and accessories for men, women and children at substantially lower prices than found in traditional retail stores. Our customer is both fashion and price conscious, willing to shop in a no frills, courteous atmosphere to get a bargain. We are consistent in our dealings with our customer and recognize the needs for consistency of policy, merchandise presentation and selection. All stores consistent in all things.

It is also important to reflect on our One Store Concept whereby all educators and managers in a store are cross trained in all areas and aspects of merchandising and operations. Hence, we are flexible to meet the demands of our store under all circumstances.

And we mustn't forget that we attribute our success to our deep respect for the intelligence of every customer who walks in our stores. Even our new advertising campaign in 1994 elevates our most recognizable slogan "An Educated Consumer is Our Best Customer".

I hope all of you feel the same way I do about Syms - As a real part of the growing Syms family. You, as Managers and Educators, are Syms to every customer who visits us every day. As President, I depend on you to exercise good judgment in all situations based on your knowledge and understanding of Syms.

It is my hope we can all continue to grow and prosper for many years to come.

The 21st Century will provide the world with great challenge and with great opportunity: the opportunity of increased progress as a result of the technology and information explosion, but also the great challenge of gaining some measure of career and lifestyle security in a world of global volatility and uncertainty. The need for self-reliance will, therefore, be pronounced in the years to come, and numerous new opportunities will enable those who are self-reliant to capitalize on these new challenges.

MARCY SYMS (Producer) is the President and Chief Operating Officer of Syms, Inc. which operates 27 off-price apparel stores under the Syms name. Located in the Northeastern and middle Atlantic regions, the Midwest, Southeast, and Southwest, the stores offer clothing for men, women, and children, as well as luggage, shoes, and accessory items. Ms. Syms began her career with the company in 1978 developing marketing plans for new markets as they were opened. Shortly thereafter she assumed responsibility for all broadcast and print advertising in the Syms stores. In early 1979 Ms. Syms became the second spokesperson for Syms, joining her father on both television and radio commercials. Later that year her responsibilities were broadened to include all marketing activities for the company. Ms. Syms has been an active theater supporter for years. Other People's Money marks her first producing venture.

He left his position of V.P. at Blaine Thompson in 1975 to create Ash/LeDonne, the agency that revolutionized the shape of today's theater advertising by creating theater's first live-action television commercial for its client Pippin. He served as president of Ash/LeDonne Inc. from 1975 to 1985, with offices in New York, Los Angeles, and Boston. Commencement

Marymount Manhattan College
Thirty-ninth Commencement Exercises
June 2, 1988
Alice Tully Hall, Lincoln Center

"...Mother Butler, the foundress of all the Marymount Schools here and abroad, stated publicly more than sixty years ago, 'The world never needed women's intelligence and sympathy more than it does today. The education that will equip women to meet modern conditions effectively will not neglect a medium in which true womanhood may find its best expression.' So, if I may, I would like to address this morning some of the concerns that have been very much a part of my life as a woman, a religious and an educator with a fierce determination to educate women..."

"The fact that Catholic nuns face poverty in their older years is just one frightening and sad aspect of the fact that among all impoverished adults in this country, two out of three are women. As an educator, I know there are many who agree with me that there is a direct relationship between the root cause of women in poverty and the lack of education for women.

"I do not think we can be reminded too often of the alarming facts. Two-thirds of the world's illiterates are women - more than 50% of the illiterates in this country are young hispanic and black women, half of whom are already heading households. If racial and ethnic minorities have seen more of the underside of prosperity, then women, a minority within these minorities, have truly seen it. Although every day we hear about women becoming doctors, lawyers, and corporate executives, the overwhelming majority of women work in the expanding, low-wage service sector... Even though 53% of all adult females work, they earn only 62% of what men earn. The complex cultural values that have long operated to make women dependent on men for support and status have caused the feminization of poverty, for these values have encouraged women to view themselves as somehow less than men..."

"In our efforts to educate women at all levels, we hope to help them recognize their dignity and develop their self-respect, and to provide them with the knowledge and skills needed to cope in our complex society. Ultimately, I cannot help but believe that through empowering women with education we will make a difference in the public policy which plays such an important part in determining the lives of women, and in turn, of our children, in this country and throughout the world."

DR. ROBERT COLES

A professor of Psychiatry and Medical Humanities at Harvard University, and research psychiatrist at Harvard's Health Services, Dr. Robert Coles is also a visiting professor of public policy at Duke University. Dr. Coles' work is as broad as it is deep; as a child psychiatrist, a social commentator, a prolific author and scholar, he has had a powerful impact on our perceptions on a range of subjects. As an educator, a philosopher, a poet and humanist, he has contributed to our collective and spiritual well-being. Children of Crisis, the widely acclaimed five-volume series and the benchmark of his career, examines the effects of social ills such as segregation, hunger and poverty on children in America.

A native of Boston, Massachusetts, Dr. Coles graduated from Harvard University and received his M.D. from The College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia University. He has served on the staffs of Massachusetts General Hospital, Harvard Medical School, and the United States Air Force Keosauqua Hospital. Dr. Coles' extensive research and writing have placed him among America's great thinkers.

MOTHER CLARA HALE

A remarkable humanitarian, Mother Clara Hale is the founder of the renowned Hale House in Harlem, which has received nationwide recognition as a haven for helpless newborns who are born addicted to drugs. Mother Clara Hale directed a daycare center for children of working mothers for twenty-seven years before she began her work for babies of drug-addicted mothers. Two years after her selfless start, Percy Sutton, the President of the borough of Manhattan, helped her obtain government funding. Her move to a renovated brownstone, the present-day Hale House, provided her with the facilities and medical assistance she needed to carry out her much expanded work. Mother Hale has created a model for the care of babies who are the innocent victims of drug abuse.

An experienced manager, corporate leader and public servant, Gertrude G. Michelson is Senior Vice President of External Affairs for R.H. Macy & Co., Inc. as well as a member of Macy's New York Executive Committee and its Board of Directors. Edison College and The New Jersey State College. She has loaned her professional knowledge and expertise to numerous educational associations and institutions including the International Federation of Catholic Universities, the Association of Catholic Educational Associations, the United Churches of Northeast Pennsylvania, the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Global Perspectives in Education, the Council for the Advancement of Private Education.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER: MARIFÉ HERNÁNDEZ

Ms. Hernández's career has involved her in a broad range of activities in the public and private sectors. From 1969 to 1977 she was Director of Public Affairs at New York's WPIX Television where she created numerous programs including "New York, New York." In 1977, President Carter appointed Ms. Hernández to the post of United States Department of State Chief of Protocol, resident in New York. In that capacity she represented the United States in receiving foreign dignitaries and planning official State visits. A multi-linguist, she acted as liaison between the nation's business and cultural leaders and Heads of Government and their principal ministers. She founded the United States International Council as a result of her work. In 1985, she was appointed by Governor Cuomo to the New York State World Trade Council.

Upon leaving her federal government post in late 1980, Ms. Hernández formed a joint venture with Ogilvy & Mather, The Cultural Communications Group, which provides management consulting services in marketing and communications to corporations and governments. Today, she continues to serve as the organization's President. Jy's favorite note pads were these original printed receipts for sales. Although they had long since
went into disuse
He sent written messages & memos
hand written on them until his death in 2009.
