Dear Rabbi Silver:

The JEWISH YOUTH JOURNAL, a copy of which we are enclosing, marks, as you will observe, a unique venture in American Jewish literature. Though sponsored by the Young People's League of the United Synagogue of America, its scope embraces all national youth organizations. Its aim is to inject a spirit of cooperation and creativity among all American Jewish youth, not only in one particularized field of endeavor but in the totality of Jewish life. We know of no other publication in the country that serves this purpose.

We are eager to learn the reaction of the leaders of American Jewry to our project. We turn to you, Rabbi Silver, as one whose opinion we respect and whose inspiration and guidance we need. A statement of yours, be it of encouragement or direction, will be greatly appreciated by the members of our staff and our many readers who are sincerely devoted to the ideals to which we have dedicated ourselves.

Trusting that we may strive in unison toward the attainment of the goals we share in common, I remain

Respectfully yours,

Asher Block
