AIRMAIL SPECIAL DELIVERY

Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver, Ph.D.,
The Temple
E. 105th Street and Ansel Road
Cleveland, Ohio

My dear Rabbi Silver:

"The first selection of America's outstanding young men was made in 1934 by Durward Howes, founder and editor of America's Young Men -- the Who's Who among young men of the nation. Howes, who had served as President of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1930-31, first selected twelve outstanding young men. Additional selections were made in 1935, 1936, and 1937, and the group was limited to ten. In 1938, the book was discontinued and in its absence, the U. S. Jaycees took over the task of picking the outstanding men."

This brief paragraph taken from a recent FUTURE Magazine article covers the brief history of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce Ten Outstanding Young Men program. It was felt that in too many instances, the meritorious achievements of young men went by relatively unnoticed. We honor these men and tell the people of the country, through all the media, of their accomplishments. Their age limit is the same as the members of our organization, 21--35, but they need not be members. They will be paid additional tribute at a ceremony in their honor to be conducted in Springfield, Illinois, on January 14, 1956.

The selection of the winning men has always been very capably handled by panels selected each year from the country's distinguished citizens. This policy is one we want to continue. Our entire organization would be honored if you would accept the responsibility of acting as one of the judges in this year's competition.

This organization will be responsible for the promotion of this contest, and your participation as a judge will not require you to travel, nor will it require a great amount of your time. We will ask you only to review approximately 40 nominations submitted on the enclosed type blank and make a choice of ten you feel most qualified. This is a most important responsibility and we sincerely hope you will be able to assist us.

Nomination Blank

Nation's Ten Outstanding Young Men of 1955

There is at least one young man in your community or firm who, because of extraordinary talent and initiative, has made important contributions to his profession, and to the general welfare of the people.

A search for the Nation's Ten Outstanding Young Men of the Year has been made for more than a decade by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce. The purpose of this program is to present the world with concrete evidence that success in our free enterprise system is still available to those individuals who strive to achieve. All Communists or those known to have Communist leanings are excluded from any consideration.

Any young man, 21 through 35 years of age, who has not reached his 36th birthday at any time during 1955, who has been of service and an outstanding example of the above precept and personal development, is eligible to be nominated as a candidate for recognition as one of the Nation's Ten Outstanding Young Men of the Year.

A panel of distinguished American leaders representing all fields of endeavor will act as judges and their selections will be based on the answers to the two principal questions on pages two and three of this nomination blank. All information must be contained on pages two and three. Supplementary data may be sent but only title listings of the same will be forwarded to judges.

You as an individual and all organizations, educational institutions, industries, professions and Junior Chambers of Commerce are urged to nominate candidates for recognition as one of the Nation's Ten Outstanding Young Men of 1955. It is essential that this nomination blank, completely filled out and with a formally-posed glossy photograph of the nominee, and a photograph showing the nominee in action at his work, both at least 5 x 7, be attached. Mail to Internal Affairs, United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 7, Tulsa, Oklahoma, no later than October 7, 1955. No nomination will be accepted that is postmarked later than midnight October 7, 1955.

The top ten young men named by the judges will be honored at the traditional banquet that is held each year during Jaycee Week, mid-January, in commemoration of the founding of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce on January 21, 1920. This year the banquet and ceremonies will be held in Springfield, Illinois, on January 14, 1956.

IMPORTANT - This blank must be signed by person being nominated to be eligible for judging. (Last page).

We do appreciate your heavy schedule and certainly

○ What Outstanding Contribution has the nominee made in his work or profession?

Dr. Robert A. Charpie has emerged from the recent Geneva International Atoms for Peace Conference as America's outstanding young nuclear scientist. Dr. Charpie was responsible for the preliminary agenda of this historic conference. As assistant to Professor I.I. Rabi, the United States representative at the United Nations Geneva Conference negotiations, Dr. Charpie participated in many of the delicate international discussions which preceded the organization of the Conference. In these discussions Dr. Charpie often carried the responsibility of representing the U.S. as deputy spokesman. After spearheading the crucial planning of the Geneva Conference as Professor Rabi's assistant, Dr. Charpie served as a Scientific Secretary for the U.N. His qualifications and performance have been so outstanding that he is now General Editor of the 16-volume Proceedings of the International Atoms for Peace Conference.

Dr. Charpie's magnificent performance at Geneva was not at all unexpected by those who know him at the Oak Ridge National Laboratory. He joined the Laboratory, the largest American nuclear energy research establishment, as a theoretical physicist in 1950 at the age of 25 and within 4 years has risen to the position of Assistant Research Director. In this capacity he has the responsibility for the scientific work of about 400 technical people. Many of these scientists are older than Dr. Charpie, nevertheless, he is so outstanding that all members of the Laboratory look to him for leadership and guidance.
In addition to his remarkable and demonstrated ability as a scientific administrator, Dr. Charpie is an able and productive scientist in his own right. He has made numerous independent contributions to nuclear science, one of the most useful has been the development of a method for computing the behavior of nuclear reactors by means of high speed computing equipment. He has also done important work on proton-induced reactions using the large Laboratory cyclotron.

Dr. Charpie showed early promise of his great ability. He was awarded the Westinghouse National Science Scholarship in 1943, which enabled him to start his schooling at Carnegie Tech. After an interruption due to the war, he received a Bachelor's, Master's and Doctor's degree. He completed the usual 7 or 8 year course in only 5 years.

Few people in the U.S., or in any country, demonstrate at so early an age the remarkable capacity for mature judgement, unstinting effort, and brilliant scientific insight as Dr. Charpie. Even fewer have the opportunity to come into the public eye and to reach great heights so early. Dr. Charpie, as Assistant Research Director at ORNL and by his brilliant scientific leadership in the Geneva Conference, has demonstrated the capacity for success commensurate with his innate ability.

© What Outstanding Contribution has the nominee made to the general welfare of the people?

Dr. Charpie's contribution to the general welfare of the people stems mainly from the unique position which atomic energy development plays in the shaping of our national life. As one of the principal architects of the Atoms for Peace Conference, Dr. Charpie has contributed greatly to the position of the United States in International affairs. As a Scientific Secretary for the United Nations and as the General Editor of the 16-volume Proceedings of the International Atoms for Peace Conference, Dr. Charpie, in his close contact and association with scientists of other nations, served as a scientific ambassador for our country in demonstrating the interest of the United States in applying atomic energy for peaceful purposes.

Under Dr. Charpie's guidance as Assistant Research Director at the Oak Ridge National Laboratory and as a scientist in his own right, high speed electronic computing equipment has been developed. This equipment enables determinations of reactor behavior to be made in a matter of days whereas it would have taken months of experimentation and computation. In this way Dr. Charpie has helped hasten the day when nuclear energy will be available for the improvement of the standard of living of our nation.

In addition to his role as an outstanding nuclear scientist, Dr. Charpie is applying his energies to the education of a new generation of nuclear scientists. As Assistant Research Director of ORNL, he is responsible for the Oak Ridge School of Reactor Technology and serves as an Instructor. This school, the only one of its kind in the United States, offers a 50 week course in theory, design and operation of nuclear reactors to a hand-picked group of scientists. Graduates of this school provide specialized manpower to satisfy the accelerating needs of the new atomic industrial age. In addition to serving in the Oak Ridge Reactor School, Dr. Charpie serves as a visiting lecturer on Mathematical Physics at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville.

In addition to the many honors achieved by Dr. Charpie in the past twelve years, he served his country as a combat machine gunner in World War II. He was involved in much bitter fighting during nine months of front line duty in the Mediterranean Theater of Operations and received an honorable discharge at the end of the war.

○ What Outstanding Contribution has the nominee made in his work or profession?

The information submitted below on Dr. J. Ernest Wilkins indicates that he is in the forefront of those making an outstanding contribution to scientific development in the United States. His specific work with nuclear development relates itself both to its peaceful potential and to the nation's defense as a deterrent to international conflict.

J. Ernest Wilkins, Jr. was born on November 27, 1923, the oldest son of J. Ernest and Lucille Wilkins. His early education was received in the public schools of Chicago. He entered the University of Chicago in 1937 and graduated in 1940 with a B.S. in Mathematics, having been elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He received the M.S. degree in 1941 and a Ph.D. in 1942, majoring again in Mathematics. Dr. Wilkins was the youngest person ever to receive the doctorate in Mathematics from the University of Chicago. His work for the Ph.D. was partially supported by the Alvia K. Brown Fellowship. In 1942 he was elected to the honorary scientific fraternity Sigma Xi.

(PLEASE TYPE OR PRINT)
He received a Julius Rosenwald Fellowship in 1942 to study at the Institute for Advanced Study, Princeton, which he held until 1943, when he went to Tuskegee Institute to teach Mathematics in the Air Force College Training Program managed by that school. He was called back to the University of Chicago to participate in the development of the atomic bomb (Metallurgical Laboratory) in 1944, and worked in the theoretical physics group directed by Eugene P. Wigner until 1946. At the conclusion of the war he was employed by the American Optical Company to do development work on microscopes and other scientific instruments. This position he left in 1950 to accept his present position as Senior Mathematician of Nuclear Development Corporation of America where he is now a Division Director supervising the work of approximately thirty physicists and mathematicians.

During his career he has published many papers in Scientific and Technical literature. A partial list of these is given as an appendix, since it is not possible to refer to those papers published in the classified literature. He is a member of the professional and scientific organizations given on page 4.

Dr. Wilkins married Gloria Stewart in 1947 and they have two children.

He is a member of the Regents Council on the Education Practices Act, which is a committee appointed by the Board of Regents of New York State to advise it on the administration of the New York State law prohibiting discrimination in higher education. He is a member of the Visiting Committee for the Mathematics Department at Clarkson College, Potsdam, New York.

④ What Outstanding Contribution has the nominee made in his work or profession?

Thomas Schippers, 1955 conductor of the Metropolitan Opera, is the youngest man ever to conduct the New York Philharmonic Symphony and the youngest American ever to conduct La Scala, in Milan, Italy. Now 25, Schippers began his formal career in music at age 6 with the study of the piano, and at age 7 to 10 he toured the midwest states making concert appearances. At 9, he joined the choir of St. Luke's Church in Kalamazoo, Michigan and, one year later, he became head organist - a position he held for three years. Following graduation from Kalamazoo Central High School as an all "A" student (at age 14), Schippers attended The Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia, becoming the first student to be graduated in less than 4 years. He completed his studies in 2 years and was graduated at the age of 16. His formal training also included study at Yale University, Tanglewood and Julliard School of Music. Schippers' appearances at the organ include Christmas season performances at Wanamaker's Store in N.Y. (for the past three years), before the King of England on his visit to New York, at the departure and return of Walter Winchell's Freedom Train, and a dinner-dance given by President Truman. For two years he directed the choir and served as organist at the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. At 19, he was one of 500 applicants to audition for the post of conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony. Reaching the audition finals with Eugene Ormandy, the youngster's age was believed to be a determining factor in his elimination. At age 20, he conducted, on special request of the composer, Gian-Carlo Menotti's operas "The Consul" and "The Medium" in New York. At Christmas 1951, he conducted "Amahl and the Night Visitors" on the Hallmark nationwide T-V program and has repeated this performance in 1952, 1953, and 1954. During the summer of 1953, he conducted two performances of the Chicago Symphony before a total of 40,000 people. In 1955 he made his 11th tour of Europe and North Africa, making countless personal appearances conducting foreign orchestras and opera companies. May 10 and Oct. 16-17, 1955, on special invitation, he conducted the La Scala in Milan, Italy. Rudolph Bing selected him to conduct the Metropolitan Opera this season. Schippers also conducted the first performance of Menotti's new opera "The Saint of Bleeker Street" on Broadway, premiered and toured with it in Europe and returned to conduct it on Ed Sullivan's "Toast of The Town" television program.

What Outstanding Contribution has the nominee made to the general welfare of the people?

Thomas Schippers is one of the outstanding young professionals in the fine arts today. From an almost unbelievably early age, his talents were obviously no longer a matter of personal pleasure, but rather in the public domain.

From his first concert appearances in the midwest at the age of seven, Schippers has been enriching the lives of his audiences in all parts of the world. His piano and organ recitals have been a source of great pleasure to countless thousands in North and South America, Europe and Africa.

As an operatic and orchestral conductor, he added new interpretations to the works of the masters as well as contemporary composers. As a conductor of the Metropolitan Opera, and guest conductor of numerous orchestras and operatic companies both here and abroad, he has become a wonderful inspiration to the music-loving youth of America.

In his capacity as teacher and coach, he has contributed significantly to the development of additional fine talent in voice, piano and organ.

Perhaps Schippers' most valuable contribution to the general welfare of his people is the respect and admiration he has earned from his European audiences. Making 11 tours ^{of the Continent} within 4 years, he has impressed hundreds of thousands of listeners with his fine artistic sense, and depth of feeling for the aesthetic and intangibly beautiful.

Schippers has truly earned the title of "Cultural Ambassador" to Europe, where he has revealed an American sensitivity and understanding for beauty and art that the majority of Europeans did not know existed.

What Outstanding Contribution has the nominee made in his work or profession?

Denton A. Cooley is now in his fifth year on the full-time faculty of the Baylor University College of Medicine and is an Associate Professor of Surgery. His professional activities are divided primarily among teaching and contributions to medical literature, including some sixty (60) original papers dealing with surgical corrections of disorders of the heart, blood vessels, lungs, esophagus and stomach (15 of these during the last twelve months).

Dr. Cooley's particular specialty is cardiac surgery. He participated in the pioneer efforts in the famous "blue baby" operations at the John Hopkins Hospital with Dr. Alfred Blalock between 1944 and 1950. He has also performed cardiac and tuberculosis surgery in 1950 and 1951 with Sir Russell Brock, renowned heart surgeon of London, England. He has corrected surgically hundreds of congenital and acquired cardiac disorders in his work in Houston.

His original experiments dealing with wounds of the heart have been recognized as significant contributions to the management of such injuries. Such recognition is attested by the number of professional societies before whom he has appeared to read papers on the results of such experiments and to explain the surgical techniques used. The societies include the American Association for Thoracic Surgery, the Western Surgical Association and the Pan-Pacific Surgical Association.

His most widely acclaimed contribution to his profession has been the development of a successful means of treating aneurysms of the aorta. An aneurysm is a weakened area in a blood vessel produced by disease. Dr. Cooley has successfully corrected such fatal condition by the excision of these lesions and the repair of the aorta or blood vessel by the transplanting of preserved segments of vessels taken from cadavers. This technique is the method of choice now used in all such cases. Recently, Dr. Cooley removed and replaced the entire aortic arch successfully. This was the first time that such a procedure had been performed. Formal reports of these techniques have been made to the International Society of Angiology, the Southern Surgical Society, the Southwestern Surgical Congress and the International Surgical Society at Copenhagen, Denmark, in July, 1955.

In the related field of anesthesiology, Dr. Cooley has again been in the forefront of his profession by pointing the way to the use of low body temperatures as the anesthesia to prevent central nervous system damage during the long and involved surgical procedures. Such experiments and investigations have led to the wide spread use of this technique, hypothermia, during such operations. Movies of the technique used in the operations above described are on file in the film library of the American College of Surgeons.

With Drs. M. D. DeBakey and Oscar Creech of the Baylor University College of Medicine staff, an exhibit on the surgical treatment of aneurysms and thrombo-obliterative disease of the aorta was developed for the 1954 general session at the San Francisco convention of the American Medical Association. This exhibit received the Hektoen Gold Medal Award as the best among some 1500 scientific exhibits for original investigation and presentation. It is through such exhibits, films and presentations that the fruits of Dr. Cooley's genius are distributed through the Medical Societies to patients all over the world.

● What Outstanding Contribution has the nominee made in his work or profession?

Accusations of graft and corruption and a general disrespect by the public of the St. Louis County Prosecuting Attorneys Office led Edward W. Garnholz to put aside a successful private law practice at great personal sacrifice and to seek the nomination for this office. He emerged victorious and undertook the duties of the Prosecuting Attorney of a County of over 500,000 people. The obstacles that faced him would have soon discouraged most young men of 32, the youngest to ever hold this high office in St. Louis County. He withstood the pressure of old line politicians seeking to dominate his appointments and instead peopled his office with young men dedicated to the law. He and his assistants devote full time to their duties and are now on call 24 hours a day to serve the people of his county. He sought and obtained, over strong objection, continuous Grand Juries for investigation not only of actual crimes but of slip shod and careless governmental practices. Under his guidance and investigation, Grand Juries have investigated the St. Louis County Housing Authority which operates a development housing over 850 families. As a direct result of this investigation a saving of over 80,000 dollars a year has been effected through elimination of waste and the establishment of good business practices. For years the entire northern section of St. Louis County with over 150,000 people has been the victim of serious health hazards from raw sewage running through a creek over nine miles long. Within less than two months Mr. Garnholz, as a result of a searching inquiry, has given these people new hope and the assurance that construction of a trunk sewer line will commence in less than six months. He focused the public spotlight on tourist courts and motels engaging in illicit traffic in humanity and today these same establishments are catering to tourists, not locals. Through television and radio he has made parents aware of the cancerous growth of juvenile delinquency and with them he has arrested this growth. This continuous devotion to the people of St. Louis County has brought him the award of "The Legion of Honor" of the National DeMolay. Ed Garnholz is truly the peoples attorney.

November, 1952. Edward W. Garnholz was elected to the Missouri State Legislature to represent the Sixth District of St. Louis County for a term of two years. He soon won the respect of seasoned Legislators who, in recognition of his abilities, appointed him to important committee work. Among those committees were the House Judiciary, House Investigating and the powerful House Appropriation Committee.
In addition he was named Chairman of the Bi-Partisan Investigating Committee of Eccleomosierary Institutions. As Chairman of this committee, he soon made the people of the state aware that Missouri ranked 46th in the care provided for mental patients but 10th in the ability to care for these sick people. Fighting an up hill climb, he led his committee to hospital after hospital throughout the state, pointing out the dire needs that existed. He enlisted the aid of leading authorities on mental health to suggest improvements to be made and solutions to the existing problems. His work was not in vain for through his efforts, the Legislature voted an appropriation of $29,000,000.00, which is 12 M dollars more than had ever before been appropriated. His dedicated work in the field of mental health has brought new hope to the mentally ill of Missouri.
It has given new inspiration to the hundreds of dedicated people working in this field. New buildings and facilities have been erected and completely new and adequate training programs have been instituted for hospital personnel. Today, as a result of his work, Missouri is rapidly moving forward in the care of the mentally ill. Succeeding Legislatures have carried on the improvements he started as a young freshman Legislator. In recognition of his outstanding work he received the Florallier Certificate of Award and the Distinguished Service Award of the Jaycees for 1953, but more than this, he was rewarded with peace of mind for the help he gave the minds of others.

● What Outstanding Contribution has the nominee made in his work or profession?

Charles H. Smith, Jr., is known for his contributions to improving labor-management relations. He is a pioneer in the concept that "If employees are given an opportunity to have a better understanding of the company for which they work, and a better understanding of the American economic system, then these employees will approach their jobs and the problems connected with them with a spirit of cooperation that will minimize labor disputes, and improve labor-management relations".

He has applied this concept to his own business through an effective employee communications program. Although his company had many labor problems before his first efforts were made to solve them through this approach, there have been no serious labor difficulties since 1946. This relative harmony has been apparent despite the multitudinous problems of seven labor union contracts in his relatively small company. This achievement was recognized by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States as worthy of a detailed study, which has been printed in booklet form and distributed to business men throughout the nation. A copy of this booklet is attached, and special attention is directed to pages 1, 2 and 3.

He has been active in helping spread this concept to other business men throughout the nation, aimed at improving the general public's understanding of the American economic system and the relationship between management, labor, and their mutual customers.

At the 1953 International Labor Conference in Geneva, Switzerland, he served as advisor to the United States employer delegate. Also in 1953, he was a member of the Committee on Manpower Resources for National Security which undertook to study this subject for President Eisenhower. He is a member of the Labor Relations Committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States; as well as the Industrial Relations Committee of the National Association of Manufacturers; and Chairman of the Economic Information Committee of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.

As a business executive, his company has grown to become one of the nation's largest forge shops, during the 13 years he has been its president. His company has contributed to help the entire forging industry progress through its willingness to pioneer in the development of new techniques. During the Korean Emergency his company was asked to organize and build a plant in Canada to produce forged blades for jet engines. This large job was done in less than a year.

As a metallurgist in the 1940's, he guided his fellow workers in pioneering the way to forge the hi-density heat-resisting alloys that are necessary to manufacture turbo-jet engines.

● What Outstanding Contribution has the nominee made to the general welfare of the people?

This nominee has exhibited a willingness to find enough time to accept a multitude of charitable non-paying jobs that aid public welfare, in addition to running his own business and fulfilling all of his family duties of raising three children.

He has provided outstanding leadership in raising funds for community welfare projects. In 1954 he was Metropolitan Division Chairman and Business-Industry Chairman of the Cleveland YMCA multi-million dollar building fund campaign. He is Chairman of a Division of the Cleveland Community Fund which is responsible for raising over a million dollars. He is Chairman of the Finance Committee of his church.

His guidance and leadership has been sought by numerous civic, charitable, religious, and business organizations, and he has accepted those duties.

Evidence of the outstanding work and leadership of the nominee came in his recognition as recipient of the Cleveland Junior Chamber of Commerce 1954

Distinguished Service Award. This annual award to the outstanding young man of Greater Cleveland between ages 21 to 35, is judged by a four-man panel of outstanding business and industrial executives of Cleveland. Public announcement of the award is made at the Annual Bosses' Banquet held in January. Further testimonial to our local designee came in March 1955, when he was named one of Ohio's five "Outstanding Young Men of 1954", by the Ohio Junior Chamber of Commerce.

○ What Outstanding Contribution has the nominee made in his work or profession?

Our nomination for one of the Nation's outstanding young men of 1955 is Dr. Ivan Stewart, research scientist at the University of Florida. Dr. Stewart, who is now 34 years old, has made outstanding discoveries in the field of plant nutrition. These discoveries have not only solved some of the most serious problems confronting Florida citrus growers, but they are now being used world-wide with resulting notable increases in the production of many crops.

The most important of these has been the introduction of chelated iron for the cure of iron deficiency in crop plants. Iron starvation is a world-wide problem that has been studied for over 100 years, and about which over 1000 scientific papers have been written. It is a condition that cannot be corrected by simply adding iron compounds to the soil. Dr. Stewart found that it took more than 300 pounds of iron sulfate to correct iron deficiency in a citrus tree. For citrus growers this was a prohibitive solution. Continuing his work with Dr. C. D. Leonard, Dr. Stewart pioneered the first practical solution to the problem which is now being accepted the world over. This was done by using a chelating agent, ethylene diamine tetra acetic acid, called EDTA for short. EDTA holds iron and prevents it from reacting with the soil until plant roots can take it up. Only 2/3 of an ounce of iron in this form is needed to cure iron deficiency, even in the largest trees. By virtue of this, thousands of acres of citrus trees in Florida have once again come back into production.

Not only has the use of chelated iron brought about large increases in yield of citrus fruit, but it has also resulted in significant improvement in fruit quality, as evidenced by substantial increases in both sugar and iron in the juice. There has also been a noticeable improvement in fruit color, a critical factor in market acceptance.

As a result of these discoveries, chelated iron is being used to overcome iron starvation of apples in England, grapes in France, pin-apples in Hawaii, vegetables and citrus in Florida, coffee in South America, and in roses and other ornamentals wherever iron nutrition is a problem.

Another problem of great importance to citrus growers in Florida is called "yellow spot". This disease causes large spots to form on the leaves and in many cases caused the trees to cease fruit production. This problem was studied extensively as far back as 1906. Recently, Dr. Stewart found that the cause of yellow spot was molybdenum deficiency and that a mere one ounce of sodium molybdate in 100 gallons of water sprayed on the trees would cure the condition. This treatment is now being used on most of the citrus trees in Florida. His finding of molybdenum deficiency in citrus has enabled other scientists to trace crop failures of other plants to a deficiency of this element throughout the sandy soils of Central Florida.

Another common problem in citrus was yellow tipping in the leaves--a trouble known since 1930, that sometimes caused affected trees to lose their leaves prematurely. Dr. Stewart traced the cause to potassium perchlorate, an impurity in certain fertilizers imported from Chile. After the cause of the trouble was found, the impurity was largely eliminated at the source in Chile.

Dr. Stewart is the author of many scientific papers and is a co-author of the book, Mineral Nutrition of Fruit Trees, the most recent and authentic book on this subject. In addition, he was asked to contribute a paper for the recently held International Conference on Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy at Geneva, Switzerland.

As well as being a distinguished scientist, this gentleman is active in his church and civic associations and is an asset to our community. But many candidates for this honor can be shown to have benefited their own communities. However, this young man, by virtue of his discoveries detailed above, has benefited agricultural communities, not only throughout these United States but throughout the entire world--and all this achieved in four years of research.

① What Outstanding Contribution has the nominee made in his work or profession?

While Dr. Rube F. Mettler's single most conspicuous professional achievement has probably been his outstanding contribution to the defense capability of the United States as evidenced by the attached telegrams from Secretary Quarles, General Saville, General Putt, General George, and President Killian, it has seemed more appropriate to describe this on the opposite page. His additional professional contributions are outlined in the following paragraphs.

After enlisting in the Navy as an apprentice seaman in 1942, Rube Mettler graduated from California Institute of Technology, Naval Midshipman's School at Columbia University, and MIT Radar School. He then was assigned by the Navy as a field service engineer for shipborne radar and fire control equipment on all types of ships in the Pacific Ocean Area. At the end of the war, he was assigned to six months' duty in connection with the Bikini atomic bomb tests, handling instrumentation design and installation.

Returning to Cal Tech in 1946, he obtained the M.S. in E.E. in 1947, and a Ph.D., magna cum laude, in electrical engineering, with a minor in aeronautics, in June, 1949. As a graduate student, Rube taught applied mechanics in the Mechanical Engineering Department. During this period, he also was a consultant to the North American Aviation Aerophysics Laboratory, and to the Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Company. Together with a colleague, he invented and built an electronic system of oilwell logging with new and valuable characteristics.

Joining Hughes Aircraft Company in 1949, Rube began work in what has now grown to be the new field of "System Engineering" and in which he has achieved national recognition. Within six months, he and three associates completed the original analysis and systems invention which has subsequently led to the development and production of new and vastly more effective rocket fire control systems. Production orders for systems incorporating the basic concepts total several hundred million dollars. The great majority of American and Canadian all-weather interceptors produced during the past four years are equipped with this type of fire-control system.

Later, he was the leader of a group which did the analysis and planning for a completely integrated interceptor electronic system, including navigation, fire control for both rockets and guided missiles, homing, landing, and automatic pilot functions. This system is now being placed in production for the newest supersonic Air Force interceptors. Subsequently he became section head responsible for the development of this system, and as the development progressed, he was made department head responsible for this system and several others. In this capacity, he demonstrated unusual skill at technical management, and achieved unusual success in system engineering and in system coordination between technical and contractual groups in the Air Force, the flight-testing organization, subcontractors, airframe manufacturers, and the production organization. Several patent applications have been filed on his inventions. By 1954, when he left to serve as Special Consultant to the Department of Defense, Rube was Associate Director, Radar Research & Development Division, which was composed of about 1,000 engineers, technicians, and supporting personnel.

Recognition as the "Outstanding Young Electrical Engineer of 1954" was given to him by Eta Kappa Nu, national electrical engineering honor society.

Upon leaving the Department of Defense in 1955, Rube joined The Ramo-Wooldridge Corporation, where as Assistant Director for System Integration of the Guided Missile Research Division and as Director of Advanced Systems Planning in the central staff group of the corporation, he is continuing to make important contributions in the fields of System Engineering and Technical Management, particularly as applied to major military weapons systems.

● What Outstanding Contribution has the nominee made to the general welfare of the people?

During 1954-55 as Special Consultant to the Department of Defense, Dr. Mettler performed notable public services as indicated by these quotations from attached telegrams.

"Endorse enthusiastically the nomination of Dr. Ruben Mettler for the Junior Chamber of Commerce....award. He served for the better part of a year as a consultant to Assistant Secretary of Defense (Research & Development) on a highly classified project which he carried out almost singlehanded and with great energy, intelligence and tact. His work was very successful and contributed importantly to our technical program in the field of military electronics." Donald A. Quarles, Secretary of the Air Force.

"My personal and official knowledge of Dr. Ruben F. Mettler....makes me consider him the outstanding young man in the nation for the contributions he has made, and is making, in the field of advanced electronic systems development. It is only because of the highly classified nature of most of his important work that his name has not already become as well known nationally as his contributions to our technology and to our national defense clearly merit...." Maj.Gen. Gordon P. Saville (Ret.), Director of Military Requirements, The Ramo-Wooldridge Corp. (Formerly Deputy Chief of Staff (Development), U. S. Air Force).

"...He recently completed a task for the Air Force which was most outstanding and representative of his capacity and capability for originality and creative thinking. The result of his work will contribute materially to the effectiveness of the Air Force in the near future and, in addition, has provided a concept and design approach....which will be of great benefit....in the future." Lt.Gen. Donald L. Putt, Deputy Chief of Staff (Development), Headquarters, U. S. Air Force.

"He has contributed in a very major degree to the security and welfare of the United States and the free world..." Lt.Gen. Harold L. George, Office of the Chief of Staff, USAF.

"Dr. Mettler was a member of the Technological Capabilities Panel which was appointed a year ago at the suggestion of the President....and of which I served as chairman. At the time Dr. Mettler was undertaking a special assignment for the Assistant Secretary of Defense but his importance to our study was so great and his contributions of such value that it was felt important for him to join our group. In this capacity he made outstanding professional contributions to the study. He also demonstrated an unusual capacity for effective team work and in the persuasive presentation of complex information. I have great respect for his technical abilities, his maturity and I have had special opportunity to know something about the high quality of the important contributions he has made to our national defense which have not been publicly reported upon for obvious reasons." J. R. Killian, Jr., President, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Rube Mettler's interest in public service activities started with his college days. At Stanford University he was leader of a local YMCA boys club, and at Cal Tech was resident associate responsible for one of the four undergraduate student houses. He has served on the Board of Directors of the Cal Tech Alumni Association for two years, was chairman of the Cal Tech Alumni Fund for a year, lectured in the adult education program at U.C.L.A., and has been chairman of two Fellowship Committees.

As a current public service activity, Dr. Mettler is organizing a new course for California Institute of Technology. Quoting Professor F. C. Lindvall, Chairman, Division of Engineering, "In an important new field of engineering science called "Systems Engineering," Dr. Mettler has made himself a leader. The California Institute of Technology is very happy that he will be able to devote some of his time to building a new course of instruction of graduate level in Systems Engineering. His balanced judgment between theoretical and practical aspects of involved problems of Systems Engineering should make this new instruction particularly valuable..."

The Trustees of the University of New Hampshire asked Mr. Eddy, then Assistant to the President, to assume the responsibilities of Acting President in June 1954, when the President resigned unexpectedly. At the time he was just 34 years old, making him by some years the youngest chief executive of a major university in the country. In this capacity he made many outstanding contributions to higher education as well as to his own State of New Hampshire. For instance, he gave tremendous impetus to planning for the future by proposing an orderly program of expansion in order that a larger number of young people, now flooding the primary and secondary schools, could be educated in the future without sacrifice of quality. In this planning, he pioneered among the universities of the country. Another significant contribution was his leadership in guiding through the State legislature the University's request for better faculty salaries, additional equipment, and for the construction of a new dormitory and a $1,400,000 library, badly needed on the University campus for over 20 years. His ability to convince an economy-minded legislature of the needs of young people was widely hailed. Said the University's Alumni Magazine:

(PLEASE TYPE OR PRINT)
"A commanding vote of confidence in the University was accorded by the legislature. From the standpoint of the University, it was probably the best session since 1925 for the tremendous amount of good will which was evident. Much of the credit goes to Mr. Eddy. His painstaking preparation and his ability in testifying before the various committees were in large measure responsible for the University's legislation." A basic feature of Mr. Eddy's approach, illustrated in numerous instances, is his ability to inspire team effort among the faculty, staff and students. The Honorable Hugh Gregg, Governor of the State of New Hampshire, stated: "No one in State service has given more of himself to his career." He said that he had been continually amazed at what Mr. Eddy has been able to accomplish and "the excellent reputation built for the State through the administration of the University." His boundless energy and enthusiasm have led him to make significant contributions far beyond the usual scope of college administration. For instance, the first reciprocal agreement in the Northeast between two states providing for the education of medical doctors was concluded by him. When the Trustees elected a new President 14 months after the previous President resigned, they named Mr. Eddy to a new post of Vice-President and Provost. They thus promoted a man already assuming great responsibilities to a roll of top policy and planning usually occupied by a person 20 years his senior. The Trustees made the following public statement: "We have been grateful, indeed, to Mr. Eddy for his splendid achievements this year and his willingness to lay aside his personal plans in order to serve as Acting President. The University has made substantial progress under his able direction. We are fortunate to have a man of his ability to serve in this new and highly important position."

In addition to Mr. Eddy's intense interest in education for all youth, he has been vitally concerned with the moral and spiritual well-being of the people as a whole. During the past 12 months, he has delivered 132 speeches to civic, industrial, religious and youth groups across N.H. as well as in neighboring states. In these speeches, he stresses the need for wise planning for education at all levels, the necessity of better human understanding, and the wisdom of right attitudes toward our national and common life. He has made the first exhaustive study ever undertaken of the philosophy of publicly-supported higher education. This November he will address the Council of Presidents of all the land-grant colleges in the nation. His deep religious convictions have made an impact on many New Hampshire communities where, as an ordained minister, he has preached in his extra time.(He has preached during the past few years in 42 different communities.) The following editorial from the Portsmouth, N.H., newspaper shows also his impact on the youth at the University: "As long as there are men like Edward D. Eddy to provide it, there is no need to worry about the quality of moral judgment being bestowed upon the young people of this State at the University of New Hampshire. He once again demonstrated this fact to our satisfaction the other day as he imparted his thoughts on religious understanding to a group of freshman students." The editorial comments that his remarks were "the essence of the democratic ideal in a land of liberty. And it is important that college youth, in the most formative years of their life, be put upon the right track in searching out their individual brands of idealism... With heedful respect for the advice they receive from Dr. Eddy, we are sure this crop of University students will emerge as fine products indeed." His interest in educational opportunities for all people, regardless of age, has been demonstrated by his active participation on the N.H. Commission on Educational Television which has made exhaustive surveys of the possibilities of tri-state cooperation in this media. As example of his countless community and state activities, he served as Chairman of the New Hampshire State Committee for the International Farm Youth Exchange Program. In this capacity, he provided impetus for raising funds so that youth from New Hampshire could have the experience of working on farms in a foreign nation, at the same time that a foreign youth lived among New Hampshire people. Mr. Eddy is one of the most widely known and respected men in his State. At a comparatively young age, he is constantly sought for service on important committees as well as to give guidance to many individuals as well as groups. His achievements thus far give ample promise of his being one of the nation's top educators within a few years.

© What Outstanding Contribution has the nominee made in his work or profession?

Howard W. Pollock's career has been so colorful, varied and filled with personal accomplishment it challenges adequate description. He has, among other things, been a member of the Merchant Marine, a Navy flyer, homesteader in Alaska, member of the Alaska Territorial Legislature, champion high jumper, big game hunter, national president of Phi Theta Kappa, junior college scholastic honor society, and during the last year national President of the American Law Student Association, an organization of 35,000 law students sponsored by the American Bar Association.

Sandwiched in between these achievements he held positions in business as part owner and sales manager of the Zippet Venetian Blind Manufacturing Corp., New Orleans, as Personnel Director of the Mare Island Cafeteria System in Calif., with 1,300 employees, and as Assistant Civilian Personnel Director of the U. S. Army Headquarters in Alaska.

At 35, he is the father of four children. He realized a long-cherished goal this spring when he obtained his law degree from the University of Houston. During his last year there he devoted 30 to 40 hours weekly to his duties as President of the ALSA. He was widely acclaimed as one of the best and most effective presidents the law student association ever had.

And he did all of these things in spite of the loss of his right hand in a grenade explosion, on Easter Sunday of 1944, in line of duty with the Navy in the Pacific theater!

Under his leadership during the last year the American Law Student Association established a nation-wide group insurance program. He provided dynamic leadership and inspiration in the Association's program to better prepare law students to take their place in the legal profession. He was chosen as one of the outstanding graduates of the University of Houston, and was nominated for the annual "Outstanding Graduate of the Year" award of Phi Delta Phi, national legal fraternity.

Howard Pollock accomplished all these things--and has won national recognition for them--through ability and character. He was born of humble parents; he lost his father at an early age; he overcame physical handicaps; his whole career has been marked by courage and determination. In short, we think he has demonstrated in an outstanding way that "success in our free enterprise system is still available to those individuals who strive to achieve." He personifies the American tradition of success through initiative, enterprise and extraordinary service.

● What Outstanding Contribution has the nominee made to the general welfare of the people?

In addition to his contribution to his chosen profession of law, Howard Pollock demonstrated a strong incentive to public service. As a member of the Alaska legislature he was in the forefront of the territory's effort to win statehood. Upon completing his legal education, he has now elected to return to Alaska to enter the practice of law and become a part of the continuing development of the Territory.

He has demonstrated that the pioneering spirit of early America still lives; it was after he suffered the loss of his right forearm in World War II that he took his young wife and family to Alaska and became a part of the postwar migration that did so much to further the development of this important U. S. northern outpost. He cleared 80 acres of land, built roads and cabins, and at the urging of his neighbors ran successfully as a Republican candidate for the legislature.

It was typical of Pollock that he publicly announced before the election that he intended to return to the U. S. to complete his legal training before his term expired. However, he returned to Alaska during periods of the legislative sessions.

A newspaperman who wrote a feature article about Pollock referred to him as "the pioneer with the iron fist" in recognition of his courageous homesteading venture in Alaska and the mechanical hand he has worn since his war injury.

Pollock could have accepted a number of legal posts available to him after his graduation in law last spring, but instead he chose to return to Alaska where he believed the need and opportunity for his professional talents were greatest.

James M. Spiro, director of the Law Student Program of the American Bar Association, says of Pollock:

"During the past five years I have been privileged to work with thousands of law students throughout the United States. Many have been outstanding, but there have been none who approached Mr. Pollock in combination of intelligence, idealism, understanding, practicalism, integrity, purposefulness and record of achievement.

"Mr. Pollock has proven himself an outstanding administrator. His ability to deal with others, to conceive new ideas and to convey to others the nobility of the law, is unsurpassed. Although his law studies and his family demand most of his time, he has found more than thirty hours a week to devote to the welfare of the profession through directing the work of the ALSA. Everywhere he is recognized as a great young leader of the bar."

My dear Rabbi Silver:

Your letter accepting the invitation to serve as a judge in our forthcoming Ten Outstanding Young Men program is gratefully received, and we all appreciate your willingness to help us in this annual and much publicized affair.

This letter is to clarify and outline your duties as a TOYM judge. We have distributed nearly 10,000 nomination blanks to over 3,000 local Junior Chamber of Commerce chapters, colleges, trade associations, congressmen, leaders in business and industry, religious leaders and many others. The deadline for receipt of the blanks is October 7, and when we have received them all a screening committee will see that they are properly screened.

After screening the nomination blanks, those remaining (approximately 40) will be reproduced and sent to you together with a judging sheet. From these blanks you are asked to select the Ten Outstanding nominees. It is expected that the blanks for your judging will reach you approximately October 20--25, and it is hoped we can have your decision by November 1, 1955. Time is an important element in a project of this kind and we want to utilize every minute to publicize the achievements of the ten winners.

Would you please return to us, by airmail, a glossy photo of yourself, plus biographical data which we can use in press releases. We are pleased to include your name with those of the other prominent men on our judging panel. Again thanks for your acceptance.

Dear Rabbi Silver:

A number of intimate friends of the late Paul Kaminsky have approached me to organize a committee for a Memorial Tribute to our revered friend and co-worker.

We have, therefore, taken the initiative with a number of leaders in the Zionist Organization of America and the Jewish National Fund to form a committee, which is undertaking to establish a Paul Kaminsky Memorial Forest in Israel. We believe that this will be a fitting Memorial as the cause of the redemption of the soil of Israel was closest to his heart in all his endeavors for Israel.

It was our privilege to have been associated with Paul during the years when he served with such distinction in the Zionist Organization of America, the Jewish National Fund and other great causes for Israel. We feel confident that you, who were associated with him in the causes he served, will wish to have your name included in the Committee of Sponsors for this enduring and fitting tribute.

Awaiting your response on the enclosed card, I am, with kindest regards,

Dear Dr Silver,

On several happy occasions in the past my class in Religious Education has enjoyed the hospitality of The Temple.

I am wondering if we might again visit you on Saturday morning December 3rd. Usually we split the group into small units and visit the classes of instruction. We attend the morning worship service. Sometime the rabbi has found time before the service to show us the building, and particularly to open the ark and tell us about the scrolls so we will know beforehand the significance of the honoring of the Law in the worship service.

The group will probably be about 20 to 25 in number. What hour should we arrive?

My dear Dr. Glennon;

As I mentioned over the phone, the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce would like to select ten outstanding young men in various fields of endeavor and I have been asked to serve as one of the judges.

Included in a list of some 25 names of business men, educators, journalists etc. are the names of a number of scientists. This is so much out of my field that I am sure I would not be doing any justice if I were to indicate a preference.

I would appreciate it if you would help me in this regard and perhaps point out the order of priority in which these scientists are to be considered.

With warmest regards and all good wishes,

THE WILLIAMSBURG AWARD

AS PART of its program to bring new strength in our time to the belief in human liberty and the dignity of the individual which made Williamsburg and its leaders a moving force in 18th century America, Colonial Williamsburg has established The Williamsburg Award.

The Award will be made, as occasion warrants, to a person who in the course of contemporary events has made an outstanding contribution to the historic struggle of men to live free and self-respecting in a just society. If circumstances require, it may be made jointly to two or more persons. It will carry an honorarium of $10,000 and an appropriate emblem.

The only limitation on eligibility for the Award will be clear and eminent achievement. Recipients may be natives of any land, reside in any country, work at any occupation, be members of any race.

The Trustees of Colonial Williamsburg hope that The Williamsburg Award will serve not only as an honor to the recipients, but also as an encouragement to men and women everywhere to seek liberty and justice for themselves and all men. The purpose of the Award is to serve as a continual reminder that there are today, as there were yesterday, vigorous, courageous and eloquent leaders.

Dear Friend:

In order to get our annual campaign started, I have arranged a "Neighborhood Appeal" Luncheon, to be held at 12:15 P.M. on November 7th, 1955 in the Higbee Company Lounge.

The Cleveland Pneumatic Tool Company has most kindly offered to sponsor the luncheon in the interest of continued Arthritic and Rheumatic medical research.

General George C. Kenny, USAF Retired (General MacArthur's Air General in the Pacific and President of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation) will be our principal speaker. He will be introduced by Mr. John P. Murphy, our Cleveland Chapter Chairman.

The Chapter most cordially invites you to attend. If you are able to be at the luncheon, will you kindly call Miss Mary Field at SU 1-7630, 428 Bulkley Building to make a reservation. We would indeed honor your presence.

Sincerely yours,

Frederick M. Hopkins Jr.

The Educational Alliance

A COMMUNITY CENTER

• Founded 1889

This year The Educational Alliance is celebrating sixty-five years of social service. Throughout these years, New York City, its population and its way of life, have all changed markedly. The "gay-nineties" was the era of the brownstone front, of leisurely living, of elegance and ease. Along with luxury uptown, there was squalor downtown—crowded, unsanitary tenements, sweated labor, grinding poverty, little leisure, and still less opportunity to use that leisure constructively. Yet New York, the gateway to America, seemed to the oppressed peoples of Europe like a beacon in the darkness, guiding them to a new world of freedom and opportunity.

Hither they came, thousands upon thousands of them, some moving on to settle in all parts of our glorious country to play an important part in its development; but many remaining in New York, crowding its lower East Side, living in compact racial and national groups, and recreating there the life of the European ghettos and slums they had left. These immigrants had much of value to offer. They were eager to work and learn. Strangers to their environment. The Educational Alliance has served many thousands of them, men, women and children of all faiths. Within its walls they found new knowledge and social satisfaction. Some of the world's greatest talents and noblest individuals—educators, writers, artists, musicians, jurists, business men, religious leaders and philanthropists—had their humblest beginnings and earliest inspirations within its walls.

The Hall of Fame

Inspired by the memories of early youth in the Alliance and in appreciation for the many opportunities afforded them, these now successful business and professional men formed the Alumni Association of the Educational Alliance more than 30 years ago. To honor those distinguished Alumni who left an indelible impression on the community, the Alumni Association has established a Hall of Fame.

A criteria has been formulated standardizing the qualifications needed for election to the Hall of Fame. To be elected one is required to have been interested and active in the Educational Alliance, to have made a contribution to the life of the community, and to have achieved prominence in his special field. Each year an award is presented to one of its Alumni for outstanding achievement. This year we honor Judge Joseph M. Proskauer who, early in his career was for a number of years a volunteer club leader at The Educational Alliance.

HON. JOSEPH M. PROSKAUER

A PROFILE

Judge Proskauer was born in Mobile, Alabama, on August 6, 1877. In 1896 he received a degree of Bachelor of Arts from Columbia College and in 1899, a degree of Bachelor of Laws from Columbia University Law School. In 1929 he received the degree of LL.D. from Columbia University and the same from Dartmouth College in 1953. The Hebrew Union College, in 1946, honored him with the degree of D.H.L. In 1923 he was elected a Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York. He was designated by the Governor of the State of New York in 1927 as an Associate Justice of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, First Department, which office he held until his resignation in 1930 to resume the practice of the law. He is a senior member of the firm of Proskauer, Rose, Goetz & Mendelsohn. In 1935 he was appointed by the Mayor of the City of New York as a member of the New York City Charter Revision Committee. In 1951 the Governor of the State of New York appointed him Chairman of the New York State Crime Commission. In 1953 he was designated by the Governor of the State of New York as Chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee for the Bicentennial of Columbia University in the City of New York and in 1954 he was designated by the Governor as Chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee for the American Jewish Tercentenary. He is a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York and at one time served as its Vice-President. He is also a member of the New York County Lawyers Association and served as its President in 1947 and 1948. He is also a member of the New York State Bar Association and served as President of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies from 1931 to 1934. He is an Ex-President of the Young Men's Hebrew Association of New York City and of the American Jewish Committee of which he is now Honorary President. We note that early in his career he was for a number of years a volunteer club member at The Educational Alliance and has always been interested in its service to the community.

An Opinion By JUSTICE BENJAMIN N. CARDOZO

"We are concerned here with the work of one agency among many—the work of this Alliance. It is something which, so far as I know, has never been attempted in just this form by any other institution before. Almost everything that is done here, is done somewhere else, if you split up the work and treat the elements separately, but the great and original and the unique feature of this work is that here all these elements are brought together just as they are in life. Life is not education alone, nor religion alone, nor politics, nor social service. It is not work alone, nor, as we hardly need to be reminded, is it play alone. It is all these things and more. It is all of them fused together; and we are trying to show here, that all these things are important, that all have their appropriate ideals and standards, that there is a certain way of looking at them, a certain way of pursuing them, a certain way of attaining them, which is the American way and which will make him who follows it the American Citizen. What a force has gone forth from these walls, men and women who have absorbed the spirit of our land, and who will spread it and transmit it undefiled to the coming generation."

Statement

The Academy for Liberal Judaism has been established in order to make it possible for men who wish to become Liberal Rabbis to study and be ordained in a full course of instruction and field work in New York City, the great laboratory of Jewish religious and community life. Such facilities for uninterrupted study leading to Ordination are not now available in New York City.

The Academy seeks to fill this vacuum.

Dear Rabbi Silver:

A group of Max Freedman's close friends has suggested that we hold a Testimonial Dinner in his honor on Tuesday night, January 31st, at the Oakwood Club.

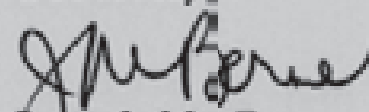

It will be an affair somewhat similar to the dinner tendered Henry Rucker on the occasion of his seventieth birthday. The dinner will be primarily in recognition of Max's outstanding record of community service. It is contemplated that invitations will be issued to leading communal workers and to Max's family and close friends and business associates.

It has been suggested that it would be appropriate to have a Sponsoring Committee under whose name the invitation would be issued.

It has also been suggested that a charge of $7.50 per person be made. This charge would not cover the cost of the dinner and a gift. It is our idea that the Sponsors would absorb this deficit, which will not exceed $50 per Sponsor.

If you would care to serve as a Sponsor, please sign and return the enclosed post card. We would like to release the invitation next week. Therefore we would appreciate hearing from you in the next day or two.

Dear Rabbi Silver:

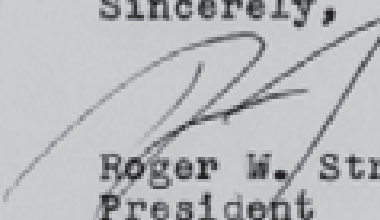

It gives us great pleasure to announce the publication of Dr. Abraham Joshua Heschel's new and important book GOD IN SEARCH OF MAN: A Philosophy of Judaism, which we are publishing on January 23.

It seems to us that this is an important publishing event and one that will have special interest for you and your friends and colleagues. Because of this we are pleased to send you, under separate cover with our compliments, an advance copy of GOD IN SEARCH OF MAN: A Philosophy of Judaism. We would naturally be delighted to have your comments on the book either on or off the record. If we may quote from your reply, would you be so kind as to indicate in the letter itself? We feel that anything you might have to say about this book would be not only of great interest but important to the audience to whom this book is directed.

I write you this personal letter in order to impart the enthusiasm of our publishing company and my own personal feelings about this book.

Kindest regards.

Sincerely,

Roger W. Straus, Jr.

Dear Dr. Silver:

It gives me great pleasure to send you, under separate cover, a copy of ISRAEL, THE ETERNAL IDEAL by Rabbi Irving Miller which we published on December 6.

I believe that this concise little book is a valuable reference and source material book, and particularly pertinent in view of the current situation. With all these thoughts in mind, as well as my own feeling that ISRAEL, THE ETERNAL IDEAL will have a particular interest for you, I am happy to send this copy with my compliments.

I would be interested in any comments that you might care to make either on or off the record.

Dear Doctor Silver:

Bnai Zion, the American Zionist Fraternal Organization, will hold its 48th Annual Order Day Dinner at the Commodore Hotel, New York City, on Sunday, February 5, 1956.

Bnai Zion has a distinguished record of accomplishment in the communal life of our country and in the development of the State of Israel, where it has founded colonies, medical clinics, and other institutions benefitting those who have found refuge there. It has long been among the most active supporters of the Jewish National Fund, land purchasing, reclamation and afforestation arm of the Zionist movement.

The annual dinner of Bnai Zion traditionally honors an outstanding citizen of our country, who has distinguished himself in work on behalf of the Jewish people. This year, Bnai Zion is pleased to honor who has been in the forefront of the champions of Israel on the American scene.

JACOB K. JAVITS

Attorney General of the State of New York,

It would be greatly appreciated if you would be kind enough to send a greeting to the organization and to Attorney General Javits for publication in the Dinner Journal of this occasion, which will go to press on January 23, 1956.

We look forward to your kind response.

Sincerely yours,

Nathaniel S. Rothenberg

Dear Rabbi Silver:

Your attention may have been drawn to the fact that my father-in-law, and your warm friend of many years, Morris Weinberg, has reached the ripe age of eighty.

There had been no intention of making the fact known, but Dr. Emanuel Neumann and other Zionist friends made their plans for some celebration publicly known. As a result we are going along with them and in this connection I would greatly appreciate getting a word of personal greeting from you. I am sure you know how much Mr. Weinberg will appreciate a greeting coming from you.

Cordially and sincerely,

Arthur L. Jacobs.

Dear Rabbi Silver:

Respectful of the moral force which you command, I write to request that you, along with other representative citizens of Cleveland, sign a public letter to President Eisenhower petitioning for a discontinuance of political prosecutions based not upon acts but upon opinions.

I hesitate to prepare such a statement so I enclose two pleas to the President to suggest what I have in mind, both of which likely have come to your attention.

A statement prepared by you would commend itself to others who I would be happy to ask to sign. Edgar E. Byers has agreed to affix his signature and others who I would contact, such as Dean Carl Wittke, Rev. W. H. McKinney, President Stephenson of Oberlin, Charles Lucas of the N.A.C.P., J. B. Mathews of the Call Post, Rev. Rolland C. Wolfe of W.E.U., Oscar Steiner to mention a few. You likely have suggestions of others who would join.

I am convinced that such public statements of prominent people have contributed to a change in atmosphere and will help to restore a constitutional sanity to the Nation.

I will deeply appreciate your aid in helping to initiate such an appeal. Will you please have your secretary advise me.

Respectfully yours,

It will also mark the third anniversary of the founding of the Guardians of Israel, an honor group of American leaders of the Israel Bond drive, which, as you know, is playing such an essential role in helping Israel at this critical time in her history.

My dear Friend:

On my return from Israel I learned that the Jewish Independent was celebrating its 50th Anniversary. I should like to send you these belated words of felicitation.

For nearly forty out of the fifty years of its publication I have been a grateful reader of the Jewish Independent. It has unfailingly provided local, as well as national and international news of Jewish interest and has maintained high standards of journalistic integrity and Jewish responsibility. Its editorial policy has always been animated by loyalty to all that is noble and constructive in Jewish life and all that was forward-looking in our community. The Jewish Independent has always courageously defended the good name of Israel against all its traducers and fomenters of hate and discord. You have always emphasized the spiritual links which bind together the basic traditions of Judaism and of Americanism.

You ought to be congratulated upon such a consistent and outstanding service to our people over a period of fifty years. Such an achievement must be a source of deep gratification to you.

I pray that the future will be as abundantly fruitful as the past has been.

DR. DONALD TIMERMAN
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
CLEVELAND CHURCH FEDERATION

THE BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA HAVE GIVEN DISTINGUISHED SERVICE TO THE YOUTH OF OUR COUNTRY FOR NEARLY FIFTY YEARS.

YOUR ORGANIZATION IS AN INSTITUTION DEDICATED TO THE BASIC PRINCIPLES OF DEMOCRACY. NO GREATER SERVICE CAN BE PERFORMED FOR AMERICA THAN TO OFFER TRAINING AND LEADERSHIP IN THE TEACHING OF SELF-RELIANCE, CHARACTER AND USEFULNESS TO OTHERS.

OUR COUNTRY IS PROUD OF YOU.

THE SCOUT OATH

ON MY HONOR, I WILL DO MY BEST—

To do my duty to God and my Country, and to obey the Scout Law;

To help other people at all times;

To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight.

GREETINGS AND CONGRATULATIONS TO THE 15,000 MEN, WOMEN AND BOYS WHO HAVE MADE THIS SHOW "FOUR MILLION CAMPFIRES BURNING" POSSIBLE. THIS IS THE GREATEST DEMONSTRATION OF SCOUTING TO BE PRODUCED IN THIS COUNCIL. WE KNOW THAT YOU WILL HAVE A MORE COMPLETE UNDERSTANDING OF THE SCOPE OF CHARACTER BUILDING, AND CITIZENSHIP TRAINING INVOLVED IN THE SCOUTING PROGRAM.

JAMES T. GRIFFIN
COUNCIL PRESIDENT

AS GENERAL CHAIRMAN OF SCOUTING'S "BIG SHOW" OF 1956 I WISH TO PAY TRIBUTE TO THE MEN AND WOMEN, AND THERE ARE LITERALLY THOUSANDS OF YOU, WHO HAVE HAD A PART IN MAKING THIS SHOW SUCH A GREAT SUCCESS. THE SHOW COULD NOT HAVE BEEN PRODUCED WITHOUT YOU.

LOUIS B. SELTZER
SHOW CHAIRMAN

THE GREATER CLEVELAND COUNCIL IS PROUD OF THE THOUSANDS OF MEN AND WOMEN WHO GIVE THEIR TIME TO SCOUTING IN THIS COUNTY. THIS BIG SHOW OF 1956 IS A MAGNIFICENT TRIBUTE TO THEIR SERVICE IN BEHALF OF MORE THAN 35,000 CUBS, BOY SCOUTS, AND EXPLORERS OF CLEVELAND AND CUYAHOGA COUNTY.

FRANK W. BRADEN
SCOUT EXECUTIVE

THE SCOUT LAW

1. A SCOUT IS TRUSTWORTHY.
2. A SCOUT IS LOYAL.
3. A SCOUT IS HELPFUL.
4. A SCOUT IS FRIENDLY.
5. A SCOUT IS COURTEOUS.
6. A SCOUT IS KIND.
7. A SCOUT IS OBEDIENT.
8. A SCOUT IS CHEERFUL.
9. A SCOUT IS THRIFTY.
10. A SCOUT IS BRAVE.
11. A SCOUT IS CLEAN.
12. A SCOUT IS REVERENT.

SCOUTS MUST PREPARE THEMSELVES TO PLAY AN INFLUENTIAL AND RESPONSIBLE PART, AS FAR AS THEY ARE ABLE, IN THEIR COMMUNITY AND IN THEIR PARISH. THE TRAINING OF CHARACTER WHICH IS THE OBJECT OF SCOUTING MUST BE DIRECTED TOWARD SOCIAL AND APOSTOLIC WORK. IT MUST TRAIN THE SCOUT TO SERVE HIS NEIGHBOR, BOTH IN HIS PERSONAL CONTACTS AND ALSO WHERE THOSE OF TEMPORAL AND RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS ARE CONCERNED. THE LOVE SCOUTS ALWAYS HAVE HAD FOR THE DIVINE PERSON OF THE GREAT LEADER, WHO IS THE WAY, THE TRUTH AND THE LIGHT, MUST BE THEIR LIGHT AND STRENGTH IN THEIR EFFORTS DAY BY DAY.

MONSIGNOR THOMAS C. CORRIGAN

IT IS A PLEASURE FOR ME AGAIN TO PAY TRIBUTE TO THE SPLENDID WORK WHICH THE BOY SCOUT MOVEMENT IS DOING FOR THE YOUTH OF OUR NATION. IT CARRIES ON ONE OF THE MOST CONSTRUCTIVE AND INSPIRING PROGRAMS FOR THE TRAINING OF YOUNG PEOPLE INTO FINE MANHOOD AND IN THE RESPONSIBILITIES OF AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP. FROM YEAR TO YEAR ITS VALUE BECOMES INCREASINGLY MORE APPARENT TO ALL PEOPLE WHO ARE CONCERNED WITH EDUCATION IN CHARACTER AND WITH THE WHOLESOME DEVELOPMENT OF OUR YOUNG PEOPLE.

Here is another camp — this one Camp B'nai B'rith at Starlight, Pennsylvania — which is doing the kind of work we would like to do here at "Camp Ed Katz" if such a camp is established.

A variety of institutes and cultural classes and other summer and year-round activities which can be carried on in such a camp under the auspices of The Temple is quite unlimited.

My dear Marvin:

I did not know until our mutual friend Harold P. Manson told me, that you have been appointed as Director of Special Services of the Brandeis University Library and that you will now be associated with Brandeis.

I think it is a wonderful thing for the University to have your services and I know that the world of books is the very world in which you have always lived and in which you wish to live.

I have now finished reading your Herzl Diaries. I cannot tell you how much I enjoyed reading them. Your selection, your translation and your illuminating commentaries made the reading of the Diaries a delight. I trust the book will have the widest circulation.

With warmest regards and all good wishes I remain

Many thanks for your generous note about my appointment at Brandeis University. In addition to my services at the Library, I shall be giving a course of lectures on the Age of Montaigne - that is, of the Late Renaissance in France, Germany and Italy, particularly as seen through the writings and character of Montaigne.

I am glad that you enjoyed the Herzl Diaries. I am sure you will not mind if I transmit your comment on them to the publisher. I noticed, by the way, a review of the book in the Cleveland Plain Dealer of June 17th.

With warmest regards,

Sincerely,

I appreciated the opportunity to talk with you a few days ago by telephone and, as you suggested, I am herewith putting on record my request.

I would be very pleased to have you install me in this pulpit as Assistant Rabbi. Rabbi Ruslander, of course, joins in these sentiments, and we would like you to set a convenient date. I imagine that any Friday evening or Sunday after the High Holy Days would be suitable.

Of course, this is an informal request and, if you find it possible to set some date, the officers of the congregation will extend a formal invitation.

Judy and I hope you will find it possible to fulfill this request, and we look forward to your reply at your convenience.

My dear Morton:

I appreciate very much your note of June 27 and your gracious invitation to install you in the pulpit of Temple Israel as Assistant Rabbi.

I need not tell you that it would give me great pleasure to do so. Unfortunately I must reduce my out of town engagements greatly during the coming season due to the fact, as you know, that I have accepted the National Chairmanship of Israel Bonds and I am already heavily scheduled to visit some very important centers of this country on behalf of the bonds. I have been compelled to forego many invitations which under normal conditions I would have been delighted to accept.

I wish you every success in your rabbinate in Dayton.

Dear Rabbi Silver:--

I have noticed that your name is in the Editorial Advisory Board of the magazine "Highlights for Children". I was a regular subscriber for three years.

During the time my children never found any Chanukah or Passover stories. It has occurred to me that it would be an excellent idea -- as I am sure this is a national issue.

Perhaps this could be brought to the attention of the editor and included in the very next December 1956 issue.

My children have now outgrown this magazine but I would like to feel the new readers and especially young Jewish readers find something akin to them -- in mentioning Chanukah and Passover in their own language and age level.

Thank you for your kind consideration in this matter.

Sincerely yours,
