Wednesday, July 11, 3 p. m.—Beach games in front of the Windsor. Beach Bon-fire in front of the Windsor after lecture.

Beach Volley Ball will always be available, quoits on the beach in front of the Windsor. The tennis courts are free to Conference members. Special Conference rates at bath houses.

There will be singing on the pier every evening from 7.30 to 7.50, led by Omar Pancoast, Jr., and J. Ralph Satterthwaite.

There will be dancing on the pier every evening following the lecture.

An evening sailing party is offered to Conference members who prefer it to the afternoon party. The evening to be announced.

EXHIBIT

See the exhibit of Friends' Schools, Social Service, Religious Education, Peace pictures and posters, American Friends' Service Committee and Friends' Neighborhood Guild in the exhibit room on the second floor of the Pier.

HOSPITALITY

Special rates are offered for Conference guests by Cape May hotels: Lafayette, Columbia, Colonial, Congress Hall, Windsor, Chalfonte, Baltimore Inn, Stockton Villa, Virginia, Macomber, Alcott House, Northland, Concord Inn, and the three young Friends' hotels: Star Villa, Carroll Villa and Elberon. Conference guests may make reservations with the hotel or the Housing Committee, Elwood Hollingshead, Moorestown, N. J., Chairman. Young Friends apply to Patricia Tomlinson, 1515 Cherry Street, Phila., Pa.

From July 5th the Housing Committee will have a representative with information about hotels and rooms at the Conference headquarters at the Pier.

REGISTRATION

Those attending the Conference are requested to register and pay a registration fee of $1.00—or if interested, $1.00 to $5.00—thus helping to equalize the traveling expenses of Friends from distances, and other Conference expenses. A badge admits to sports and all special Conference rates.

Friends may register at the hotels on arrival, or at Headquarters at the Auditorium Pier. Junior Friends may register at Junior Conference Headquarters.

HOW TO REACH CAPE MAY

Those coming by Railroad will secure seashore excursion ticket with distinct saving. Conference certificate plan will not be used at Friends' General Conference in 1934.

Cape May uses Philadelphia and New York time—one hour in advance of Standard Time—and this program follows the same.

JUNIOR CONFERENCE

Lafayette Hotel

Girls and Boys Under Fourteen

The younger Conference members will hold sessions daily at 9.15 in their usual rooms in the Lafayette Hotel and on the beach. There will be leaders for the nursery class, Kindergarten, and Primary classes, which form the lower group, and for the Juniors and Junior High School class, which form the upper group.

On First-day morning the Junior Conference will hold their own Meeting for Worship. Those too small for this Meeting will go on the beach with someone to care for them.

Games of all sorts and nature walks on the beach offer much enjoyment out of doors. Opportunities for handwork in connection with projects or discussions challenge the interest of each girl and boy.

The Junior Conference is primarily a time of fellowship for its own members, but it welcomes, after the first session, First-day School teachers who are interested in observing its activities.

Junior Conference entertainment, so popular at the last Conference, will be given at 7.50, on Seventh-day, Second-day, and Fourth-day.

The Junior High School group will meet daily at the Lafayette. There will be a leader (who will be announced) and William Vitarelli, of the George School staff, and Brooke Moore and Reese Lewis, seniors at George School, will be present to co-operate in sports and handwork.

E. Vest Haines, Leader.

RECREATION

It is the earnest desire of the Social Committee of the Conference to make this gathering highly successful in helping to get people acquainted with one another. Will you all help us? To that end, we have planned a musical entertainment, tennis, baseball, all sorts of games on the beach, quoits, golf, a beach bonfire, dances, an auto trip, and still have time for social visiting.

The afternoons are all free for recreation and social life without lectures scheduled. Beach games will be led by young Friends. Beach volley ball will always be available. Special rates are offered by the bathing houses.

Through the courtesy of the City of Cape May, members of the Conference are given the free use of the tennis courts. Those fond of quoits will find the game on the beach in front of the Windsor Hotel. We are invited to use the city golf course at a special rate.

The City of Cape May is inviting the Conference to a sailing party Friday afternoon.

One afternoon everyone is invited to see Cape May and neighborhood by auto.

One evening, after the lecture, all are asked to join in a beach party around a bonfire, with singing.

From 7.30 until 7.50 there will be singing of popular songs at the Auditorium. Special musical programs will come at other times.

The evening of the 5th is the time for the opening reception following S. Archibald Smith's address—a time to greet old friends and meet new ones and to awaken the Conference spirit.

YOUNG FRIENDS

Young Friends will have two round tables dealing with young people's problems: one, "Personal Religion," will be led by George A. Walton, the other, "The Meeting for Worship," by D. Elton Trueblood.

Young Friends' life will be centered at three hotels: The Star Villa, which will be the young Friends' Center, and the Carroll Villa and the Elberon, where there will also be a young Friends' hostess.

Many delightful plans are being made for fellowship and play together in the free time.

EXHIBIT

Exhibits of schools, committees and other Friendly interests will be on display on the second floor of the Convention Pier.

Books and free literature will be on the aisle near the Pier entrance.

HOSPITALITY

The City of Cape May will make Conference guests welcome with their well known hospitality.

The hotels have agreed to offer the following special rates for those who register for the Conference. These rates may be extended by the guests for the period over the Fourth of July, that is, beginning June 30th.
