Chaim Weizmann - a tribute, 1942.

TRIBUTE TO DR. CHAIM WEITZMAN

BY DR. ABBA HILLEL SILVER

JUNE 10, 1942.

I am very happy to be here tonight to pay tribute to Dr. Chaim Weitzman - the Ezra of our Second Restoration. As a people we have a stronger sense of history than of biography and we think of a great man not so much in relation to himself and his personality as to his work and the greatness and merit of his achievements. The individual is absorbed in the organic process of the cause which he serves. הוא נשחט על ידי העם
"The essence of the biographies of the righteous is to be found in their deeds". Often outstanding figures in Jewish history are referred to not by their own names but by the name of some great book which they wrote. This custom is similar to the gracious custom which exists among the Arabs - Kunya - in which a person is called not by his own name but as the father of so and so. The rich fancy of our people goes ~~even~~ a step further. A man is to be known not so much by what he actually achieves - for man is finite and is sharply limited in his powers of achievement - but ^{for} by the things/which he sacrifices and for which he gives his heart's blood. הוא נשחט על ידי העם

Our greatest men, according to the remarkable biographic modesty of our tradition, are the unknown and unrecognized men, the invisible hierarchy of the thirty-six saints by whose merit the visible order of the universe is maintained.

And yet our people did delight at all times to honor its beloved sons as we honor (Dr. Weitzman) tonight, and he is not the least in the jewelled crown of our people's pride.

Of the giants who were in those early battle days of our movement very few are left - Herzl, Nordau, Sokolow, Ussishkin, Bialik. Weitzman, thank God, is still with us. The dynamic leader of nearly two generations, vigorous and indefatigable as of old - a torch then, a beacon now.

Our brilliant galaxy of heroes offers some rare and precious combinations in personality. Thus we have poets who were philosophers, like Gabirol and Halevi; philosophers who were legalists like Saadia and Maimonides; legalists who were mystics like Nachmanides and Caro. In Dr. Weitzman we have another rare and fortunate combination - a scientist who is a statesman. I call it fortunate; for his scientific training and discipline have favorably affected his statesmanship. They have been responsible for that patient, ~~deliberate~~, experimental and pragmatic technique which he has brought to the leadership of our movement, which has often baffled and disconcerted us and as often subjected him to sharp criticism. Dr. Weitzman has at all times been ^{even-keeled} level-headed. Though a leader of a movement of ^{and resurgence} national rebirth, he has consistently refused to indulge in that unbridled and vehement nationalistic romanticism upon whose wheel so many noble ideals of mankind are being broken in our day. He has proclaimed no provocative political ethnology, no conceited race mythology, no Kultur vagary of which the Germans are so desperately fond.

More than a hundred years ago Heine wrote in his "Romantic School": "The patriotism of the German is shown by his heart becoming narrower and shrinking up and drawing in like leather in a frost; by hating everything foreign and being no longer European or cosmopolite, but only a closely-cramped Deutscher".

This was never Dr. Weitzman's patriotism or nationalism. It was ~~They were~~ broadly human, gracious and tolerant. His nationalism, like that of classic Zionism generally, aimed to correct the abnormal political status of the Jewish people in the world, to put an end to its millennial national homelessness which has been the ~~cause~~ ^{source} of so much of ~~its~~ misfortunes and sufferings, to give to the people of Israel that which every historic people ~~rightly possesses~~ ^{is entitled to have}, a national ~~home,~~ ^{base} ~~basis and a territorial foundation;~~ ^{life} in a word, to restore the broken harmony of Israel's ~~in~~ the diaspora. This was to be achieved not through the conquest of other peoples or through expropriation of other peoples' territory or at the cost of the happiness and well-being of anyone else, but, given the chance, and all we asked for was the chance, ~~by our own sweat and tears and blood in our own~~ ^{to achieve the status of a free people among the other free peoples of the earth,} historic home - in Palestine.

Dr. Weitzman never lost sight of this main purpose. He never swerved from it. He would make concessions and compromises but never at the sacrifice of the essential thing itself. The circumference always remained true to the center. The center was the need - the undenied and undeniable need of finding a home for a homeless people - the need which has been so tragically underscored in the last decade - the blackest in our history. Zionism for him any more than for Herzl was not the cloth of romance woven in an idle day on the loom of dreams. It was inescapable fate, unavoidable necessity.

Dr. Weitzman was frequently defeated, thwarted, and disappointed but like the stout-hearted scientist that he is and the patient leader of a long-suffering people hardened to defeat and catastrophe, he returned over and over again to his one absorbing task. He experimented with new formulas, as scientists must, new combinations and new approaches. His heartaches were many, for he led a movement which was essentially moral and spiritual in character in a period of the world's history when post-war Europe was rapidly deteriorating morally and spiritually. But he persisted. He knew what every sower of the seeds of life must know, that even after a poor harvest one must sow again.

Dr. W. never swerved from his loyalty to the mandatory power G.B. The provocations were many. The provocations are many. No responsible man in English public life will

Dr. Weitzman has at all times been the seasoned and responsible guide - never too far ahead of those whom he was charged to lead, never beguiling his followers with glittering prospects, and maintain that G.B. has faithfully carried out the Balfour Declaration & the Mandate in letter & spirit. Even in this tragic hour - gates closed by hands - But Dr. W. has always believed & acted upon the belief that - monetary pol. character never holding out false hopes. His words were, on significant occasions, unkindling and inspiring but he always sought to persuade by reason rather than to incite by passionate utterances. Though firm in the espousal of his position he was seldom given to the foam and spindrift of polemics. He has made mistakes and has acknowledged them. He is not a doctrinaire - he is a leader, - a leader of a people ^{ich} who, in every grave crisis in its history, has had the genius to produce leaders who were adequate to the emergency.

In a great national crisis comparable to our own at the time of the destruction of the Temple and the dispersion of the people at the hands of the Romans, Israel produced a leader who matched his hour - Jochanan ben Zakkai. Of him it was said in tribute that he was "The Light of Israel, the Pillar of Strength, the Mighty Hammer". These three qualities of character - the light of reason, the strength of purpose, and the courage of attack one finds in abundant measure in Israel's leader in the present crisis - Dr. Chaim Weitzman.

There is no reward for leadership. Leadership is not a crown but a cross. אלהים יעלה לכבוד הנהגתו. But
And this will be your reward / that forever your name will should be your sustaining thought at all times be sweet upon the lips of a people whose memory is long, a people which never forgets those of its sons who serve it in devotion and sacrificial loyalty.

Be strong and of good courage! The sun will not go down upon our battle until it is won.... We shall meet the smouldering ferocity of the Hun with the cool, calm fortitude of our own. We shall survive. They will perish. We were not born in helplessness. We shall not go out in defeat. And we shall rebuild our national life which the ~~centuries~~ have wasted - and our national home, and you will be ~~known~~ among the foremost of the world.

Seating List

DINNER

in Honor of

Grand Ballroom

WALDORF-ASTORIA HOTEL

Wednesday Evening, June Tenth

Nineteen Hundred and Forty-Two

TO OUR GUESTS:

We regret exceedingly that the City of New York does not possess a hall large enough to accommodate comfortably all those who are anxious to pay tribute to Dr. Weizmann.

Notwithstanding the fact that during the last few days we have had to decline hundreds of reservations, it has proved physically impossible to seat all our guests within view of the dais. We respectfully ask you to bear with us for a while. After the dinner has been served, some of the tables in the first and second tier boxes will be removed so that all, regardless of location, will be in full view of the dais.

Again we ask your forgiveness, confident in the knowledge that you will understand and sympathize with us in a very difficult situation.

THE COMMITTEE

For convenience in finding your table, please note that those numbered 200—299 are in the First Tier, and those numbered 300—399 are in the Second Tier.

The Shield of David

" . . . The Shield of David is too ancient and too sacred a symbol to be susceptible of degradation under the pagan Swastika. Hallowed by uncounted ages of suffering, of martyrdom patiently and unrevengedfully borne, it will yet shine untarnished over Zion's gates, long after the horrors of our present night are forgotten in the light of the new day that is to come. . . . "
