

Abba Hillel Silver Collection Digitization Project

Featuring collections from the Western Reserve Historical Society and
The Jacob Rader Marcus Center of the American Jewish Archives

MS-4787: Abba Hillel Silver Papers, 1902-1989.

Series V: Writings, 1909-1963, undated.

Reel
185

Box
69

Folder
919

A little world - the home, 1955.

55-22 "A Little World"

Press
10-29-51

By RABBI ABRAHAM
SILVER

The Temple

The home is the little world in which every man, woman and child can find status and importance, which the great world outside frequently fails to give.

A home and a family are small enough to give the individual in them spiritual security and a sense of indispensability so vital to development of the personality of every human being.

If a man does not feel important, he is defeated from the start.

The good home is the primary center for the cultivation of moral habits and the molding of character. It is there that men should receive their basic training in democracy and responsible citizenship in a free society and the obligations of a free co-operative life in which all men make secure their rights by fulfilling their obligations.

Rabbi Silver

The true sanctuary of mankind's imperishable hopes and ideals is the home.