Holidays in Parenthesis () are not Observed by all the Banks.

Holidays falling on Sunday observed the day after.

Notes and acceptances due on holidays are payable day after except Nevada and Texas, where payable day before.

Eclipses

There will be four Eclipses this year, as follows:

- I. Annular of the Sun March 7, invisible in America.
- II. Partial of the Moon March 22, invisible in U. S.
- III. Total of the Sun Aug. 31. More or less visible in its partial phases throughout N. America. The total phase will be visible in N. H., Vt. and Me. in the afternoon: at Portland about 3 p. m.
- IV. Partial of the Moon September 14, invisible.

THE PLANETS

Mercury may be seen Jan. 1—10, Sept. 3—10, and Dec. 15—20, rising about 1h. 15m. before the Sun. Also Mar. 10—21, and Nov. 10—20, setting about the same time after the Sun and he will be invisible at all other times.

Venus will be the Mid-Summer stellar attraction in the evening sky, increasing in brilliancy from Jan. 1 until May 27 and then decreasing to invisibility the last of June. She will then reappear in a few days in the eastern morning sky where she will rapidly gain in brightness until Aug. 5, after which she will fade to the end of the year.

Mars will be invisible the first of the year, but will pass the Sun Feb. 1 and then rise in the morning until the last of Nov. when on the Meridian at 6 A. M. Then in Dec. he will begin to rise in the evening. He will not be at his brightest within the year, but may be best seen at its close.

Jupiter will be brightest and an all-night-star in Jan.—Feb. rising at Sunset Feb. 7 and later setting in the morning until May 4 and then in the evening until Aug. 6 when he will set with the Sun and therefore invisible for many days before and after that date. He will reappear in the East, rising in the morning until Dec. and then in the Evening.

Saturn will be dim or invisible in Jan. and will be best well seen in the early mornings of Feb. passing the Meridian at 6 A. M. Apr. 24, after which rising in the evening until July 24, when rising at Sunset, being brightest and an all-Night-Star July—Aug. Setting in the morning until Oct. 22 and then in the evening until the end of the year.

Uranus will be brightest Oct. 14 and Neptune Feb. 26, but even then invisible without optical aid and knowledge of exact place.

THE SEASONS:—(E. S. T.) Winter begins (1931) Dec. 21, 2.30 eve., Spring March 20, 2.54 eve.—Summer June 21, 10.23 mor., Autumn, Sept. 23, 1.16 mor.—and Winter Dec. 21, 8.15 eve.

METEORS

For Centuries the earth has been visited by unusually brilliant displays of Meteors, or shooting Stars, at intervals of approximately 33 years. One of these periodic showers is due in Mid-November, 1932.

The Society for the Advancement of Judaism

Society for the Advancement of Judaism*

THE SOCIETY FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF JUDAISM

OUR PLATFORM

"Dedicated to the interpretation and advancement of Israel's Torah, to the restoration of Israel's Ancient Land, and to the establishment of universal Freedom, Justice and Peace."

In being dedicated to the advancement of Judaism as a modern spiritual civilization, we subscribe to the following thirteen wants:*

1. We want Judaism to help us overcome temptation, doubt and discouragement.
2. We want Judaism to imbue us with a sense of responsibility for the righteous use of the blessings wherewith God endows us.
3. We want the Jew so to be trusted that his yea will be taken as yea, and his nay as nay.
4. We want to learn how to utilize our leisure to best advantage physically, intellectually and spiritually.
5. We want the Jewish home to live up to its traditional standards of virtue and piety.

*In view of the changed conditions in Jewish life, the criterion of loyalty to Judaism can no longer be the acceptance of a creed, but the experience of the need to have one's life enriched by the Jewish heritage.

6. We want the Jewish upbringing of our children to further their moral and spiritual growth and to enable them to accept with joy their heritage as Jews.

7. We want the synagogue to enable us to worship God in sincerity and in truth.

8. We want our religious traditions to be interpreted in terms of understandable experience and to be made relevant to our present day needs.

9. We want to participate in the upbuilding of Erez Yisrael as a means to the renaissance of the Jewish spirit.

10. We want Judaism to find rich, manifold and ever new expression in philosophy, in letters, and in the arts.

11. We want all forms of Jewish organization to make for spiritual purpose and ethical endeavor.

12. We want the unity of Israel throughout the world to be fostered through mutual help in time of need, and through cooperation in the furtherance of Judaism at all times.

13. We want Judaism to function as a potent influence for justice, freedom and peace in the life of men and nations.

OUR TASK

Our task is to enable Judaism to act as an ethical and spiritual influence in our everyday lives.

In order to be Jews by choice, as well as by birth, we strive to make the Jewish heritage an ever continuing force for good.

The very nature of Judaism has long been misunderstood. Most people associate Judaism with dogmas, which are either so true as to be self-evident, or so contrary to experience as to be unacceptable; they associate Judaism with ceremonies which are more honored in the breach than in the observance.

We now understand that Judaism has always been a complete civilization, including a community life, public opinion, a language, literature, code of laws, folk ways, and ethical standards.

Judaism has differed from other civilizations only in its more deliberately spiritual and ethical character. The constituent elements have been related to each other organically; one could not function without the other.

It is the organic character of the elements in Judaism that has made it a civilization, and this circumstance must determine all our attempts to live it and make it vital.

Though as Americans we have had to give up a great part of that Jewish civilization, we want to remain Jews and to retain as much of Jewish civilization as present day life will permit.

To keep Judaism functioning, we must preserve and further the organic Jewish "way of life." This we can accomplish by stimulating (1) the appreciation and (2) the growth of each of the constituent elements.

Appreciation of Our Heritage

True appreciation can come only through proper integration in Jewish life.

This calls for a comprehensive plan of education which makes far greater demands upon the time of the child, and of the youth, than we have come to expect.

It demands the reinstatement of the Synagogue as a center of social, philanthropic and cultural activities.

It demands the retention of the Hebraic character, achieved through the use of the Hebrew language in the Synagogue, in the school, as the living bond of universal Israel.

It demands the fostering of every form of Jewish art and culture. It demands affiliation with communal organizations, such as federations and educational associations.

Growth of Our Heritage

True growth can come from a reinterpretation and revaluation of our past in terms of the present day world outlook, so that we can translate our ethical ideals into actual conduct in our homes and in relations with our neighbors.

The normal growth of the Jewish civilization is contingent upon the rebuilding of Palestine.

Palestine is for us the embodiment of the idea that there should be at least one place in the world where Judaism can function as a complete civilization, for it is there that the ethical ideals of our people can be translated into the conduct of every day life, in normal and human relationships.

The upbuilding of Palestine is the one duty which can unite all Jews throughout the world. With the strength that comes from unity, Israel can go forward with greater courage.

The revitalization of Palestine will provide the content upon which true growth, creative progress, depends.

Take Palestine out of the life of the Jew, and the only spheres of influence that remain for him as a Jew are the Synagogue and the cemetery—with the Synagogue tending to degenerate into a mortuary chapel for saying "Kaddish."

With Palestine in the life of the Jew, the literary and aesthetic creations of that country can become our own, to enrich our lives; the religious customs and ideas that grow out of the new land can become our own, to add to our long tradition of piety and the reverent expression of that piety.

WHAT MEMBERS

OF THE S. A. J. ARE EXPECTED TO DO:

To provide their children with an intensive Jewish training, which should continue far into the years of adolescence.

To affiliate with communal organizations which are essential to the continuance of Jewish life in the Diaspora, such as federations, congregations and educational associations.

To take an active part in the restoration of Palestine by giving it both material and moral support.

To foster the cultivation and growth of the Hebrew language and literature.

To encourage in the Jewish school and pulpit the revaluation of Israel's past in terms of the present-day world outlook.

To devote some time each week to individual study and group discussions of the ethical aspect of all problems touching human life.

To translate their ethical ideals into actual conduct in their home life, in their dealings with their neighbors, in their work and in their play.

SPECIFIC SUGGESTIONS FOR INDIVIDUALS AND GROUPS

I. Intensification of Jewish home life.

- (a) Observe the ceremonies — Sabbath, Festival, Kashruth and Prayer—in as impressive and beautiful a manner as possible.
- (b) Indicate a positive interest in the child's progress in Hebrew School. Arrange for a children's story hour on Sabbaths and holidays, and provide for the discussion of events of Jewish interest.

- (c) Encourage the use of Jewish songs at home on Sabbath and festival gatherings.
- (d) Arrange for regular purchasing of books in English pertaining to Jewish life; e.g., subscribe to the Jewish Publication Society. Consult bibliography.
- (e) Subscribe to some good Jewish magazine.
- (f) Build up a Jewish library for your child at home. Consult bibliography.
- (g) Introduce into the home original art works or reproductions dealing with Jewish themes. Utilize the industrial and art products of Palestine.

II. Organization of study and discussion units engaging in some of the following activities:

- (a) Study of Hebrew language and literature.
- (b) Study of Jewish History from the modern point of view.
- (c) Study of contemporary Jewish problems and events, e.g., modern thought in Jewish life, the problem of religion, the Jew in economics and culture.
- (d) Consideration of present day ethical problems.

- (e) Discussion of the outstanding Jewish book of the month.

III. Cultivation of the aesthetic phase of Jewish life.

- (a) Introduce congregational singing in religious services and publishing of phonograph records.
- (b) Organize a creative young-folks group to express itself Jewishly through creation of art objects and designs of a Jewish character.
- (c) Arrange for an exhibition of art objects dealing with Jewish themes.
- (d) Arrange for annual exhibition of art objects and industrial products of Palestine.
- (e) Organize a dramatic unit to produce plays either in English, Hebrew or Yiddish.
- (f) Organize Jewish choral units and arrangement of concerts of Jewish music.
- (g) Conduct a public forum which will concern itself with topics of Jewish interest.
- (h) Stimulate the production of new Jewish music or Jewish art by offering some munificent award.

IV. Participation in Jewish communal life here and abroad, and working for the upbuilding of Palestine.

- (a) Engage in specific communal projects.

- (b) Develop an interest in American Jewish social life, and in the problems of Jewish life in the Diaspora and in Palestine.
- (c) The group may become a member of the local Zionist organization or engage in Zionist activity without official relationship.

V. Promotion of Jewish elementary education.

- (a) Organize a group to stimulate Jewish education. (Information can be furnished by the Jewish Education Association, N. Y.)
- (b) Have mothers join the Jewish Home Institute. (Information can be furnished by the Bureau of Jewish Education, N. Y.)
- (c) Advocate a minimum of a three-day-a-week Hebrew School.

PLAN OF ORGANIZATION

The Society for the Advancement of Judaism has as yet no central organization, but represents a national movement which is finding expression in the following types of organization:

CONGREGATIONS which accept the aims and principles of the movement. These will utilize the medium of public worship and the various congregational activities, to translate into practice the principles of the movement.

CHAPTERS consisting of men and women within or without congregations who form themselves into study circles, literary or dramatic groups, with a view to becoming better informed concerning Judaism as a civilization and fostering creative effort of a Jewish character. Under the same conditions, an already existing fraternity, cultural or Zionist group may constitute itself a Chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Judaism.

FIRST CONGREGATION OF THE SOCIETY FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF JUDAISM

The Society for the Advancement of Judaism was organized, under the leadership of Professor Mordecai M. Kaplan, by a group of families who found both Orthodoxy and Reformism inadequate as a program of Jewish life. They conceived the purpose of inaugurating what might develop into a national movement to make Judaism a vital force in the life of modern Jews.

In the meantime, they formed themselves into the First Congregation of the Society for the Advancement of Judaism, through which they might be inspired to practice Judaism as a way of life with intelligence and dignity. Today more than two hundred fifty members comprise the group.

The Congregation is located at 13-15 West 86th Street, New York. It conducts regular daily, Sabbath, and Holiday Services, a Hebrew School, Confirmation Groups for post-Bar Mizvah and Bas Mizvah adolescents, various social, philanthropic and Zionist activities.

These activities are conducted from the standpoint of the organic character of Jewish life, and with the aim of emphasizing the comprehensive character of Judaism as a civilization.

For further information concerning the Society for the Advancement of Judaism, kindly communicate with Rabbi Ira Eisenstein, 13-15 West 86th Street, New York.

	SHABBAT SHUBAH

Weekly Portion—"HA-A-ZI-NU"

ROSH HASHANNAH (beginning of the Year) marks the beginning of the Jewish New Year, and lasts two days. It is also the beginning of the Ten Days of Penitence, which end with Yom Kippur. Sincere prayer and meditation during these days help us to experience the reality of God and to dedicate ourselves anew to the establishment of His Kingdom on earth—the reign of freedom, justice and peace.

SHABBAT SHUBAH derives its name from the Haftarah of that day, Hosea xiv, 2-10, which begins with the word Shubah—"Return," i.e., Repent.

ROSH HODESH is the term for the beginning of a new month. As the Jewish year is based on the lunar calendar, the beginning of a new month coincides with the appearance of the new moon. When a month has thirty days, the last day is considered the first of the two days which constitute Rosh Hodesh of the month following.

6. Seder 1200

PESAH (PASSOVER) celebrates Israel's deliverance from Egyptian bondage. The festival lasts eight days, during which matzoth are eaten in place of leavened bread. The celebration of Passover, with the beautiful ceremony of the Seder on the first and second evenings, has helped to foster in the Jewish people the hope of living again as a nation in Palestine.

Last Day PASSOVER

Beginning with the second day of Passover a period of forty-nine days is counted daily and on the fiftieth day Shabuot is celebrated. These are called the days of "counting of the Omer" (Sephirah) as on Passover an Omer (an ancient measure-unit) of barley was brought as a thanksgiving offering to the Temple.

LAG B'OMER means the thirty-third day of the counting of the Omer (Sephirah). During the Sephirah days we refrain from holding festive celebrations because of many sad memories of oppressive treatment of the Jews during this period of the year in the days of the Romans, and also in the later Middle Ages. On Lag B'Omer these restrictions are suspended.

PRESENT DAY PALESTINE

Situation and Area

Palestine is at the eastern end of the Mediterranean basin, where its position at the meeting point of the continents of Europe, Asia and Africa makes it a potential highway of commerce, and a possible link, culturally and politically, between the Occident and the Orient.

The present area of the country is approximately 10,000 square miles, comparable in area to the state of Vermont.

Climate

The climate in general is sub-tropical, with wide variations, the hill country being temperate and the Jordan valley being tropical. The dry summer with its heavy dews is characterized by the hot mid-day and the cool evening. Winter, the rainy season of the year, extends from October to early April.

Population

On November 28, 1931, the Government of Palestine carried out the second census of the population—the first having taken place in October, 1922—showing that the total population of Palestine had risen during the ten year period from 757,182 to 1,035,154. In the same period, the Jewish population has increased from 83,794 to 175,006. The Jews now constitute 18% of the total settled population and 16.9% of the whole population. An increase of 31,313 was shown in the rural population, making that group now 26.5% of the total Jewish population. 128,521 Jews now live in urban centers.

Immigration

The Jewish population in Palestine in 1914 numbered close to 90,000, but the war resulted in the emigration of over 20,000 Jews from the country. From 1919-1931, more than 100,000 Jews immigrated to Palestine.

These immigrants to Palestine come largely from Central and Eastern Europe. Recently, there has been a considerable influx of Jews from the Orient, namely, from Mesopotamia, Yemen, Turkey and Persia. They are, for the most part, young men and women of the intellectual type, and also middle aged Jews seeking a haven of refuge from the oppressive conditions of the war-stricken countries. These pioneers are known as Haluzim, and are characterized by fervent idealism and by readiness to take part in every phase of the restoration of Palestine as a Jewish Homeland, such as farming, road-making, land clearing, and construction of public works, experiencing all the hardships and suffering in the life of a pioneer.

It is remarkable that the unhappy riots of August 1929 failed to discourage prospective immigrants; on the contrary, applications for admittance to Palestine increased during the following years. Although restrictions were increased, the net immigration during 1931 totaled 3,409, as compared with 3,265 in 1930. Of this number in 1931, 59% came in under the Labor schedule, and 16% under the Independent Means schedule. The latter requires the possession of at least 1000 Pound-Sterling for each person.

Languages

The Government recognizes English, Hebrew and Arabic as official languages. Hebrew is the only language recognized in Jewish public life, and has increasingly become the vernacular of the Jewish people in Palestine. Hebrew as a modern living tongue has developed within the last fifty years, since the beginning of the Jewish colonization movement.

Agricultural Colonization

Agriculture in Palestine is undergoing marked changes, due to the technique brought in by the modern agricultural science of dry farming. Of the total agricultural exports, which amounted to about $5,000,000 in 1927, $4,000,000 was the value of the total orange export. The Palestine orange has captured the British and continental markets. Extensive exports are made of grape fruit, begun in 1929-30 with a shipment of 17,000 cases, which grew to 70,000 cases in 1931-32. Other products that are being developed for export are grapes, almonds, bananas, dates, olives, melons, pomegranates, tobacco, and canned fruits. Other field products raised for home consumption are grains, vegetables and cereals.

The agricultural colonization of Palestine by Jews began in the early 80's of the last century, as a direct result of pogroms and oppressive legislation in Eastern Europe. There are at present about 100 Jewish colonies owned and operated by Jews. These colonies with a population of more than 24,000 have been a great influence in the economic development of Palestine.

The Jews today own about one million dunam of land, which is about one-eleventh of the total arable land in Palestine. Most of the lands owned by the Jews are in the Emek, along the coastal plain, in Upper and Lower Galilee, and in Judea. The land holdings are distributed as follows: PICA, approximately 400,000 dunam; Jewish National Fund, approximately 200,000 dunam; the old settlements and Ahuzot, approximately 200,000 dunam; American Zion Commonwealth, approximately 100,000 dunam; various companies and individuals, approximately 100,000 dunam.

The method of colonization adopted by the public agencies, the PICA, or the Jewish National Fund, is either that of the co-operative group settlement (Kvuzah) or the small holding establishment (the Moshav). In the Kvuzah, the group cultivates the land jointly, and co-operation dominates every phase of economic and social life. In the Moshav, purchasing and marketing is done on a co-operative basis. Hired labor is not permitted either in the Moshav or in the Kvuzah. In settlements where an individual and the Jewish National Fund jointly invest funds, hired labor is permitted.

It is interesting to note that by the end of 1931, 19 Kvuzot and Moshabim were self-supporting, their normal income covering their normal expenditures.

Industry and Labor

Though agriculture will be the mainstay of the country, industrial development is continuing apace. Before the war, almost every article used in Palestine was manufactured abroad. Today, shoes, clothing, underwear, furniture, arts and crafts products, printing products, oil, soap, flour, metal work, canned fruit products, etc., are being manufactured in Palestine.

Many new industries are springing up daily. The Dead Sea with its chemical deposits, the stone quarries with the gypsum, limestone, marble, and sandstone, the hot-water springs near Tiberias, the fishing on Kinnereth and Acco are being used more and more as sources of commercial development. The post-war developments have been in foodstuffs, chemical industries, textile manufactures, building and associated industries, etc. Haifa with the Shemen, Nesher, and Flour Mills, and Tel Aviv with the Silicate Company and building industries are the main centers.

The industrial exports in the four years 1924-27 increased 50%, the total amounting to approximately two million pounds.

Since the war, the activities of the labor movement have increased in influence and in importance. In 1927, the number of members enrolled in the labor organization was 22,538. Some of the economic activities fostered by the labor movement are the conducting of employment offices, the arranging for collection agreements, and the adjusting of economic disputes. It has also taken a very prominent part in the agricultural settlement of the immigrant. In the larger colonies, it has carried on an excellent fight against the exclusive employment of Arab labor.

In its educational endeavor, the labor organization in Palestine is far ahead of any other country. Its periodicals are of a high standard. It conducts an extensive adult education program, providing technical and general education. It has established a central and circulating library system. An experimental workers' theatre and art center is an integral feature of its educational program.

Hydro-Electric Power

By harnessing the Jordan and Yarmuk Rivers, Palestine can provide sufficient power for all domestic industrial needs, and for irrigation. With the work of the engineer Pincus Ruttenberg, the use of this waterpower has already begun and further development of power stations is now being encouraged.

The sub-power stations built at Tiberias, Haifa and Tel Aviv insure the continuity of electrical energy in the future, and are today supplying their surrounding districts with light and power. When the project of the Palestine Electrical Corporation is completed, the cheap power supply will result in an increased development of industry and agriculture.

Transportation

Since the war, railways have been built in Palestine running chiefly north and south, with connecting branch lines. In Western Palestine, the Kantara-Haifa line connects with the Egyptian Railway System. In Eastern Palestine, the Hedjas Railway, running from Damascus in Syria to Mecca in Arabia, connects Palestine with the whole of the Arabian peninsula. The ports of Jaffa and Haifa are undergoing development as shipping centers for Palestinian export and import trade.

Education

The educational institutions of the Jews are financed almost entirely by the Jewish agencies operating in Palestine. A small subsidy is received from the Government. The school system includes kindergartens, primary schools, high-schools, teachers' seminaries, vocational schools for agriculture, and for manual and plastic arts.

The Hebrew University, opened on April 1, 1925, now comprises Institutes of Micro-biology, Chemistry, Palestinian Natural History, Mathematics and Physics, a Department of Hygiene, Institute of Jewish Studies, a School of Oriental Studies, Division of Biological Studies, Weizmann Chair of International Law of Peace, Institute of General Humanities, Department of Parasitology. A post-graduate department was added to the Faculty of Humanities in 1931 for the benefit of holders of M. A. degrees from other universities. The first group to receive such degrees from the Hebrew University graduated in 1931. Closely related with the University is the Jewish National and University Library, which has today more than 200,000 volumes.

The language of instruction in all the schools is Hebrew. Through various mediums, the Palestinian Jewish community is striving to express itself culturally and aesthetically in a civilization and art that will be Hebrew in spirit.

In 1931-32, there were 265 schools under the Jewish Agency, whose pupils numbered 23,145, under the supervision of 917 teachers. Other Jewish schools outside the Zionist system, including those maintained by the Alliance Israelite and the Anglo-Jewish Association, numbered 100, with a school population of 9,956. About 70% of the Jewish school population attend the schools maintained by the Zionist Executive.

Health

The first organized efforts for establishing and insuring a public health agency were made by Jews. Since the war the Hadassah Medical Unit has been largely responsible for the establishment of hospitals, clinics, bacteriological laboratories, nurses' training schools, sanitary inspection in towns and colonies, and other medical service invaluable to the health development of Palestine. This service is rendered indiscriminately to Arabs and Christians, as well as to Jews. The present Government of Palestine is helping considerably in taking measures to further insure proper sanitary and health conditions in Palestine.

The budget of the Hadassah organization exceeds that of the Palestine Health Department, which the Government conducts.

In 1931, the progress made in organization of the Palestine Jewish community and local Jewish authorities rendered it possible to take the first steps in the direction of the transfer of responsibility for public health from the Agency to the communal and local Jewish authorities, within whose purview they more naturally fall.

Political Status

Palestine before the war was a part of the Turkish Empire. It was conquered by British armies, which included a number of Jewish legions, at the end of 1918, under General Allenby. The Balfour Declaration, issued in November, 1917, officially placed Great Britain in the position of favoring "the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people, it being clearly understood that nothing shall be done which may prejudice the civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine, or the rights and political status enjoyed by Jews in any other country."

In April, 1920, the League of Nations at San Remo incorporated the Balfour Declaration in the Treaty of Sevres with Turkey, and named Great Britain the mandatory power for Palestine, as Trustee for the League of Nations. The Mandate was ratified by the Council of the League in July, 1922. This Mandate recognized for the present the Zionist Organization as the Jewish Agency which shall co-operate with the mandatory power in the establishment of the Jewish National Home in Palestine. The Council of the League of Nations, meeting in Rome in December, 1924, received a report on the Palestine situation and instructed Great Britain to continue in its efforts to carry out the Mandate.

There is a large measure of Jewish self-government in Palestine. In matters of local concern, the Government has heretofore recognized the Vaad Leumi (an Executive Committee of thirty) as the elected representatives of the Palestinian population.

In accordance with the Jewish Community Regulations which came into force January 1, 1928, the Jewish population was given the right of organizing themselves into a Keneset Yisrael (Jewish Community). In the elections which were held that year, 85,000 Jews enrolled themselves as members of the Jewish community. 15,000, the majority of which were the extreme Orthodox, refused to come under the jurisdiction of the Keneset Yisrael. The Keneset Yisrael has the power of taxation for certain communal purposes, the maintenance of the Chief Rabbinate, and the Rabbinical Courts (Civil Law Court and Religious Court).

Up to 1929, the Zionist Organization was the agency for all work in Palestine; but during that year the extended Jewish Agency was formed, bringing Zionists and non-Zionists together. For the first time, all Jews are now united in active participation in the project to make Palestine the Jewish National Homeland.

The only national holiday is the birthday of the king of England. Government offices are never closed except on that day. Government officials, however, are excused from work on their own holidays.
