Dear Arthur:

I am grateful to you for sending on your memorial tribute to dad.
I put it in his archives where it will have a honored place.

The New Year began with beauty and my usual Rosh Hashanah cold but it's good to have the year launched. Adele joins me in wishing you and Teela and the boys all manner of happiness in the coming year.

Sincerely,

DANIEL JEREMY SILVER

Dear Rabbi Silver,

The Adult Education Committee of Congregation Beth Tikvah, here in Columbus, Ohio, have organized a brunch study group using the book "Moses and the Original Torah" by your late father as a guideline in our various approaches to Reform Judaism.

I would like to open our first study session on February 19th with an interpretive biography, or a personality portrait of your father before we begin our study of his book.

I would appreciate very much if you could supply me with this information, since all I've been able to uncover about him are certain facts listed in "Who's Who."

Rabbi Harry Kaplan, of the Hill Foundation here at OSU suggested that there was not a better person to help us out in this direction than yourself.

In view of the fact that our series opens Feb. 1975 it would be very helpful if I received this information by about the 16th so that I can make an interesting presentation as a prelude to his book.

I would be most grateful for your assistance in this area.

Many thanks, Sincerely

Mrs. Sanford Shapiro

Dear Mrs. Shapiro:

May I suggest that you secure from your Temple Library or a Public Library a copy of the book "In The Time of Harvest", published by the Macmillan Company. I was Editor of this book which was put out in honor of Dr. Silver's 70th birthday. You will find the opening biography full and useful.

With all good wishes, I remain,

Dear Rabbi Silver,

In a recent visit to Cleveland, I heard from Mr Aaron Intrater of a long ms. study of Psalms by Professor Tur-Sinai from which a selection appeared in English in the volume honoring your father. Inasmuch as I am one of a committee charged with translating the Ketuvim for the Jewish Publication Society, I am interested in seeing the entire work of Tur-Sinai. Has the ms. been published in its entirety to your knowledge? If not, and if it is in your possession, would you be so kind as to lend it to us? We could have it photocopied and returned to you, if you wished an early return.

Sincerely yours,

Moshe Greenberg

Dear Dr. Greenberg:

I have no further indication of Tur-Sinai's continuation of the article published in Dad's Jubilee Volume except a letter and statement to me that he expected to publish a full work on the Psalms. I am sorry that I cannot be of greater help to you.

Sincerely,

DANIEL JEREMY SILVER
