My dear Mrs. Rokach:

I trust that you will pardon this delayed note of sympathy and condolence on the death of your dear husband. I have not been well during the last few months, but I wish you to know how deeply grieved I was when I heard of the passing of your beloved and distinguished husband for whom I had great admiration and affection. As you know, I was close to him and his work for a period of many years. I know what your husband meant to all the people and to the State of Israel. He will always be remembered and his name will be cherished as one of the true builders of the land. I was privileged to enjoy his friendship which I will treasure.

Please accept my deepest sympathies in which Mrs. Silver Joins me and which are also extended to all the members of your dear family.

Most cordially yours,

ABBA HILLEL SILVER

My dear Judith:

It is with sorrow that I read of the passing of your dear father and I wish to extend to you my profoundest sympathies in which Mrs. Silver joins me. I knew him for many years in his capacity as Editor of the "Jerusalem Post" and Mayor of Jerusalem, but even more so as an ardent and dedicated servant of his people and as champion of our people's renaissance and the re-birth of Israel.

We served on numerous official bodies in the movement and I saw at first-hand his zeal and earnestness in behalf of the historic enterprise and achievement of our people. I know he has left you many proud memories.

With warmest regards and all good wishes, I remain

My dear Mrs. Shuster:

It was with sorrow that I read of the passing of your husband and I hasten to extend to you my profoundest sympathies in which Mrs. Silver joins me. He was a dedicated man throughout his life to the cause of Hebrew education. It was to him a sacred calling and many men were helped to a knowledge and appreciation of the Hebrew language and literature because of his inspired instruction. Cleveland was always grateful that you and he lived here and served with such distinction as teachers in our community. I know that you will find comfort in the many beautiful memories which your distinguished husband has left you.

With warmest regards, I remain

Cordially yours,

Dear Mr. Rosenblatt:

I have just learned that I made a grievous error in addressing the letter of condolence which Dr. Silver dictated to me. This letter should have been addressed to you and to your brother, Marvin in care of Mrs. Jacob Rosenblatt.

I am terribly sorry about this - I'm sure you realize this was not intentional and if it caused your family any added grief I beg your forgiveness.

May I extend to you my personal sympathies in your bereavement?

Most sincerely yours,

My dear Dr. Morgenstern:

Virginia and I send you our profoundest sympathies on the passing of your dear wife and life companion. We were indeed saddened by the news. I trust that you will find strength and consolation.

I knew Helen, admired her and was extremely fond of her. I recall the numerous occasions when we met at Conferences or at the College and the pleasant hours when I was privileged to enjoy the hospitality of your home. I know how much she meant to you.

May God comfort you,

Most cordially,

ABBA HILLEL SILVER

My dear Mrs. York:

I have learned of your great loss and I hasten to send you my profoundest sympathies on the passing of your dear husband. While I had the pleasure of meeting him only once here on the occasion of the wedding, he impressed me very much indeed and I recall him vividly. I can understand how great your loss must be and I trust that you will find in the days to come comfort and strength.

Mrs. Silver joins me in this expression of heartfelt sympathy.

My dear Belle:

It is with deep sorrow that I learned of the passing of your daughter Elizabeth, and I hasten to extend to you my profoundest sympathies. I was shocked to receive the news because I did not know that she had been seriously ill. Ever since I knew her as a little girl whom I confirmed and later on as a young woman at whose wedding I officiated I have always associated with Elizabeth youth, life, and happiness, and it is hard for me to think of her in terms of loss and bereavement.

It is difficult to find words of comfort at such a time, but I pray that our Heavenly Father may give you consolation and that you will find strength in the beautiful memories which Elizabeth has left you and which will also be treasured by all those who knew her. Virginia joins me in sending these all too inadequate words of sympathy to you and Charles.

Very sincerely yours,

My dear John:

I have just learned of the tragic death of Elizabeth and I hasten to send you an expression of my profoundest sympathies. I did not know that Elizabeth was ill and the news of her death came as a distinct shock to me.

As you know, I was very fond of Elizabeth ever since she was a child. As her Rabbi, I confirmed her and later on as she grew into fine womanhood I had the privilege of officiating at Elizabeth's and your wedding. Through the ensuing years our contacts were infrequent because we lived in different cities, but I always cherished the opportunities of meeting her and you either here in Cleveland or in Pittsburgh.

I feel more than distressed at the sad news. I hope that a measure of comfort will come to you and that you will be upheld by the beautiful memories of years of lovely companionship which you have had together. I pray that our Heavenly Father will shield you and yours.

With all good wishes, in which Virginia joins me, in deepest sympathy I remain

Cordially yours,

My dear Mr. Kulok:

It is with deep sorrow that I learned of the passing of Maurice Schwartz. I appreciate your thoughtfulness in writing me and requesting me to deliver the eulogy at the funeral services. As I told you, I regret more than I can say, my inability to come to New York the day of the services and to take part in a memorial tribute to this great and good man who has been my friend for many years and whom I held in deep affection and admiration.

I admired him not only because he was a great artist -- one of the truly great of the theatre. When one thought of what was modern, imaginative and creative in the Yiddish theatre, one immediately thought of Maurice Schwartz. His standards were high and exacting and he dedicated his rare talents and energies to approximate perfection. Frustrations and setbacks never discouraged him and to the very end of his life he was planning and working to make the great vision of his life -- a vital Yiddish theatre -- come true.

I admired him even more as a human being -- a great soul, selfless, loyal and dedicated. He was a man of great integrity. He was a proud Jew and whatever advanced the noble cause of his people brought joy to his heart. I was in Israel early this year when Mr. Maurice Schwartz was there. He played to crowded and enthusiastic audiences, who demonstrated their great affection for him, not only to the gifted artist but to the Jew who loved Israel and thrilled to the new life which was unfolding there.

Mr. David Kulok

May 16, 1960

We shall all remember in gratitude the full and rich life upon which the final curtain has now fallen. Like a fine work of art, we shall treasure it for all future time.

Please convey my deepest sympathies to Mrs. Maurice Schwartz and to the members of the family.

Most cordially yours,

My dear friend:

It is with deep sorrow that I read in the public press of the passing of your dear wife and I want to extend to you my profoundest sympathies in which Mrs. Silver joins me. I am sorry that I was out of the city and could not attend the funeral service.

As you well know, I regarded Mrs. Kaplan as a dear friend and a loyal co-worker for many years. I recall how faithfully she attended all the Zionist gatherings and how much help and encouragement she brought to our cause. She was one of the real builders of Zion.

I know that you will greatly miss her and I pray that you will find strength in the host of beautiful memories which she has left you. In deepest sympathy, I remain

Cordially yours,
