My own feeling about the selection of people for the subland service of Y.R. was that it was mainly an attempt to reclaim people from their apprehensions - - - many, especially those to the

A number of activities were arranged to show that the most people of the world, in general - the last person - was voluntarily transferred to the subland with ease - the land of the and build on the last stage - & using the land was not used for control in community there from the past and anticipation of the final reception into a celebration of the new reception - in person

The inner interaction with the land was associating the purpose of Jonah in its day - - and that ^{was} to highlight one of the most significant possibilities of biblical thought - ~~one~~ no one had an appreciation of the immutability of God's word - prophesy - on the other an appreciation of the possibility of restoration - It is my view that

The original piece was a bit of fiction collected in one of the wisdom books - or a wisdom writer to suggest the stubbornness of the old times who kept insisting that God's word shall not return to me empty, until it shall have accomplished that which I purpose and participant as a critical listener in that book's creation. As I listened, I became ^{increasingly} ~~more~~ convinced that he often attempted to make for the historical record, given the nature of the materials we reviewed, was not just fulfilling a task. History requires confirmation and hence the only the biblical documents, it is all a question of the weight one gives to this or that element - but at the same time I became fascinated with another aspect of the problem: How the Jewish tradition handled the flood of noise once the Tanakh narrative was in place.

You would think that noise being the key figure that he was - the incomparable prophet whose power and vision would be surpassed in generations, and held up to future generations as a wonderful model, and who were times when there was a particularly in the Hellenistic transition. Philo wrote a ^{very} ~~lot~~ on noise, ^{the only} ^{increasingly} ^{historically} ^{by a 2nd} ~~the only~~ ~~biography~~ ~~of a prophet~~ between the 12th and 1st and the 1st century in which noise is pictured as a problem, the low articulate - a little tongue - an appropriate model for human behavior - - but it is is well known the Ambrose translation for all the Alexandrian (Antiochian) lit. prior and more quick to recognize Jews that the basis of our ethical system was due to the to the hellenic and imperial dei - the imitation of God's attributes not of any man's even Moses, to Philo who was incredible ~~happy~~ of sin, the rabbis know it he had died because he had sinned and they spilled a lot of ink debating the nature of that sin.

Philo was undoubtedly enthusiastic about Judaism - the rabbis were interested in him more complex. I do not propose to detail that complexity now - I want you to say that read my book when it appears next year - but I can give you a sample indication of my point. My grand father was named Moses - is not Malchus - Raphael - Melchior - of course and lot others - we think of Moses as a quintessential Jewish name further, one of the conventional ways the Taboo doctor, because of assumed language -

- any use of the HA accustomed to misinterpret. Mistake

NO MORE SLAVES TO HANG IN BOYLAND THE CAN BE DELIVERED US FROM THEM

This fact has often been noted; what is least commonly noticed is that the Torah itself shows evidence of the same tendency to diminish Moses' role, most specially flattering and exalting the virtues and accomplishments of the heavenly founders - while the Torah seems intent to limit, if not to diminish, Moses' role.

You can test this out for yourself - with all the familiar terms slave, slave, and servant used to describe Moses; liberator, lawgiver, leader, father - and then note again the narrative portrayal of Exodus - Numbers. Begin with the commissioning scene when Moses for the first time became p'd'ila p'la - God's man - a) Was it Moses who decided that at this time was propitious to return to Egypt and set about liberating Israel - = quite the contrary. He followed his God's in part Moses back and hospitality = p'd'ila p'la 7 p'la 13'11 'N b) Does Moses plan his strategy? - It is God who groups him with a miscellaneous staff and the names by which he will be known - it is his also determines what is to be said to present him when - and also sets the number in each 'month' - music is not played at a wizard who can command of power - the power of the old magicians, - -

3) who they leave they it is not possible not determine the end of march - but surely no roll in of cloud is, say, the position of fine by night - - - - - makes does not make comments provided good results water, earth, air

4) in the case of the old magic known by the name of the nature of justice - but it is the question who determines the specific rule - in the turn - the specific words and body - - - - - Partly to indicate the law - - - - - when a case is put out for which he does not know the law - which never legislator on his own - he notices in the law - the place where the law is

AND MIKE FOR ADVISE.

It moves does not determine military strategy or even battle on a sword. It is God who does with no halt - and when he desires to with them they are defeated.

It is a term to be defined as a term of control and initiative - usually the control figure is a SAC - No more say that God, not Moses is the control figure in the Jewish SAC, and that it is written to restrict Moses' initiative quite narrowly.

Moses' lack of independence does not so carefully limit it point - But is presented as a set of unobedient speeches which Moses apparently ignores on his own initiative - in the speeches to claim responsibility for certain events: the appointment of the spies the choice of the cities of refuge the division of land among the tribes but with it all it is eminently clear that it is 6.1 who is liberation, lawgiver, and leader - 6.1 determines the line of march, selects the campsites, decides what nations shall be beaten with men about 5000 in front etc in his violent speech with reminiscent James that God has entered the world, as a father has done, all the way that you travelled with you are to his place.

While manifest in his recent study is that has emphasized the human elements and the provenances may account for the large have accorded to notes, - his position was tied to my personal my course - but that from the commissioning 1640 and the house of the Lord found language which emphasized that it is not not but God will liberation lawgiver leader of the world that God

It is not to say that man is pictured as an automation - man is clearly described as a god, god conviction of the world - God is man - in the world of the world - man has one role in the Torah it will be his own (10) and that is his role as governor and interlocutor

When at the border, G-d instructs him in his answer (my) - I will destroy you and let you have a new people from your descendants - those people will be your people (11) and the nation shall be your people is limited to the people

- Again in the Book of Numbers when the people hesitate to obey G-d's command but an incident into Numbers 10

- Again at the waters of Meribah Again the people disobey G-d's word in Numbers, chapter 17 to Numbers chapter 17 punishment - - ONE OF THE PARADOXES OF THE DISTANT TREATMENT OF G-d - AND OF HIS disobedience TREATMENT IS THE Prohibition - - THAT HE CAN ACT ON HIS OWN INITIATIVE IN RESPECT TO G-d, BUT NOT IN RESPECT TO MAN. IF YOU WANT TO MEASURE THE DISTANCE BETWEEN THE BIBLE'S WORDS AND MAN - A GOOD PLACE TO START

WE TALK OF ^{human} INITIATIVE - say assumed God's control 21

Not only human initiative which was concentrated was that of the prayer-master - intentional who would ~~lead~~ lead with some effort with God.

Moore had no idea much of being the central figure in prayer his central events in prayer history where God's control had to be emphasized - hence the prayer master thought - by contrast David is prayer with much greater effort - control the events of his action were not control to the responsive prayer of God.

The point is worth making. The Bible is often described in the manual as lacking history - as is The whole point was to write it as record of what had happened in order to emphasize God's role in restoring Israel from Exile, where they lived in Israel for several centuries preventive to the consequences and binding himself to the covenant

AND LEADING THEM TO THE PROMISED LAND

BUT - that is only part of the story.

As my students never could challenge me; history is dead - par par all - and it is not, it is a religion that is coming on a tailed nation - it must also have a tailed nation - The entire was a significant event; but its religious significance was that it revealed both with to achieve and in effect was to promise that there would be a second exile - a collaboration from the enlightenment of today.

I would know the WRHS WARRIOR WARRIOR to routine of WRHS WARRIOR WARRIOR to clear up at WRHS WARRIOR WARRIOR - but did not make and WRHS WARRIOR WARRIOR from WRHS WARRIOR WARRIOR; but because it is the WRHS WARRIOR WARRIOR of a WRHS WARRIOR WARRIOR who WRHS WARRIOR WARRIOR to WRHS WARRIOR WARRIOR in the WRHS WARRIOR WARRIOR him to do it again. UNTIL OUR HISTORICALLY LONGER AGES, people instinctively turned their heads out in the direction of their nose and nasalized their speech into the position. I mean - I had a woman once in my conversation who made a big fuss about a Bible. They were no more with in the first sense. It was without the understandable and of planning. Labeled into a sense lot in historical texts and - and stated and considered but labels were not domesticated until late in the 19th century.

I have something of a thing about the word band of fundamentalists who will not allow our children to read the Bible and who insist that we must never tell children that the Bible is a fable because they are uneducated, hence untrue - I keep remembering Emerson's wonderful phrase - "a foolish consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds" - The point of course is that it labels them and speaks to the imaginative faculty - and that is the last word I'll speak to this as a rabbi -

I trained for the rabbinate at the Hebrew Union College. Do you know a fine paper book collection one of its treasures is the ^{Musical} HABSHAN, primarily of the late 18th century in very ^{musical} handwriting. It is written with a fine elegant hand. It comes from the 17th century.

The first level of analysis is the individual level. This level focuses on the characteristics of the individual, such as their personality, intelligence, and social skills. The second level is the social level, which examines the individual's interactions with others and the social norms that influence their behavior. The third level is the cultural level, which looks at the broader cultural context and values that shape the individual's actions.

Presumably SEVEN is a TIME - also the one to compare the BRUNNEN from SEVEN - indeed, it is primarily to link SEVEN and SEVEN at its details - yet the primary action is deliberately kept off the table - and an issue called out for explanation.

Let me leave the million hanging for a moment, the first entry in my pictographic series about as a person of great character and initiative, usually no character in a sign or character to be named at a time to know that there is an idea figure — but something about that fact troubled this was edited to character and, a team out and then was edited the team. But character sign character and character in the virtue and accomplishments of the founder father, the team seems intent to highlight, it not diminish their role.

is not the character - but rather that the Handwritten makes clear that Jordan must be is (9) not perceived simply as a mythical figure, but the Jew does not play history; simply for the value of some example, perhaps not the primary of, the full truth of which was not simply an historical relationship; but the time when the Jewish representation would come - the scattering of the people scattered; no national or all the elements of Jewish life - national etc. was intended to build the conditions which would allow the Jewish representation to emerge.

It is not the intention to be seen with action the whole of representation will be the whole of that is precisely what happened among the Samaritans

The basis of the Samaritan is a common times that the Samaritan had a community of their own and now even religious worship - they refused the Torah - but not the rest of scripture - with the rest of the Torah books included no application of a temple in Israel in the building of the only place for worship - the religious which their turning developed centered on a figure known as the Tahob who was in effect, no other, and more returned

Why the British tradition did not use the
